Bennett's Speech Is Confession of Defeat, Says King

Liberal Leader Replies to Premier's Suggestion Party Lines Be Ended; Wheat Cheques Described As Vote Bribe Attempt

Payments on Polling Day

Canadian Press

Brockville, Ont., Oct. 11.—Premier Bennett has come out definitely for national government—"a sad confession of defeat"—it was stated by Liberal Leader Mackenzie King at a meeting here yesterday evening.

The Liberal Leader was referring to the Prime Minister's speech in Toronto Wednesday evening in which he promised to appeal to members of the next House of Commons to throw party lines aside for the sake of the country.

The Liberal Leader also said the government was arranging to distribute $8,000,000 among prairie farmers with the cheques to arrive on polling day from the Wheat Board. He called it a brazen attempt to buy votes, to bribe farmers with their own money.

At last we found out who the National Government party is, who is to be the leader, and what its policies," said Mr. King.

The leader was Mr. Bennett, according to his own announcement, and the policy was to be Canada first, the same policy which had brought disaster in the last five years.

"It is a sad confession of defeat on the part of Mr. Bennett and the Conservative Party when he tells the people of Canada he has got to throw up the sponge as far as leading the Conservative Party in the next five years—Mr. Bennett, the once proud leader of a once proud party; Mr. Bennett, the man who was so arrogant as to say only majorities should be heard in Parliament," said Mr. King.

COURT USES FLASHLIGHTS

Canadian Press

Merritt, B.C., Oct. 11.—The Vancouver assize court caravan was en route home to-day after taking murder charge evidence by flashlight in the night-shadowed Nicola Valey. Those present saw under almost identical conditions of darkness the places where two constables were slain May 23, 1934, allegedly by four Indian brothers.

The brothers, Eneas, Richardson, Alex and Joseph George are charged with the murder of British Columbia Police Constable Percy Carr and Dominion Indian Department Constable F. H. Gisbourne. Both were slain on the Canford reserve near here when they went to arrest Eneas in connection with the stabbing of his wife. The battered bodies were thrown into the Nicola River and subsequently recovered.

It is the second trial for Eneas, Richardson and Alex, who were granted a new trial after being convicted and sentenced to death at the first. Joseph was too badly injured in the fight with the constables to stand trial at that time.

MOTORED 250 MILES

The court caravan of ten cars and forty-four persons motored 250 miles from Vancouver to the reserve.

The four defendants traveled in a police van and were impassive witnesses of the open-air proceedings at the scene of the slayings. The evidence was interpreted to them.

No Foreign War Supplies for Italian Troops

Italian regiments such as the above—pictured on review just before sailing for east Africa—must from now on depend wholly on their own country's supplies of munitions and weapons if the League of Nations succeeds in making leak-proof the embargo it declared to-day at its session at Geneva.

Sanctions Committee Calls For Nations To Sell No Arms To Italy

Great Stores of Weapons and Munitions to Begin Moving from French Somaliland Port to Ethiopian Armies To-night as Result of Speedy League Action; Sub-committee at Geneva Studies Placing of Financial Boycott Against Italy.

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Geneva, Oct. 11.—A general arms embargo against Italy and permission for Ethiopia to import all the war munitions she needs were ordered to-day by the full sanctions committee of the League of Nations.

The committee represents every member of the League except Italy and Ethiopia.

At the same time a special sub-committee, consisting of France, Great Britain, Greece, South Africa, the Netherlands, Roumania and Poland, undertook to study the possibility of placing a financial boycott against Italy. Such a boycott might cover all loans and credits made by foreign nations to Italy.

Not only does the arms embargo apply to future shipments of war materials to Italy, but it applies to contracts already entered into.

CHANNELS BLOCKED

The resolution passed by the big committee contains one paragraph designed to block any effort of Mussolini to get war supplies through neighboring anti-sanction states, such as Austria.

This paragraph states that the members of the League will "take such steps as may be necessary" to prevent re-export "directly or indirectly" of arms to Italy or its possessions.

HUNGARY OUT

Before the resolution was declared adopted, the Hungarian delegate told the committee, "I abstain."

League officials said therefore they considered that, while no formal roll call was taken, the resolution had been approved by all those present except Hungary.

Consequently, the position of Austria, also present, was regarded as ambiguous since Austria yesterday declared against sanctioning against Italy.

Th recommendation was made by the Committee of Sixteen formulated to decide what sanctions should be applied to punish Italy for attacking Ethiopia.

ITALIAN DELEGATES LEAVE

The committee made its suggestions shortly after Baron Pompeo Aloisi and six other members of the Italian delegation had left Geneva for Rome.

The committee, working rapidly as a result of yesterday's overwhelming vote of sanctions against Italy by the League Assembly, planned to present its suggestions to the League's general staff for sanctions later to-day.

Fierce Fight Around Aduwa

Ethiopians Attack, But Italians Deny They Recaptured War-torn City

Reports crossed Ethiopia to-day Aduwa had been recaptured from the Italians, but the Addis Ababa government had received no official confirmation and Italian leaders denied the reports.

Associated Press

Addis Ababa, Oct. 11.—The Ethiopian government was not informed to-day concerning reports that Aduwa had been recaptured by Ethiopian troops with heavy losses to the Italian forces there. The telephone lines from Addis Ababa to the north were broken.

Likewise, government officials said they had no knowledge of any fighting in the Ogaden (southern) sector.

The reports said Ethiopian troops had stormed Aduwa yesterday evening and massacred the town's 2,500 Italian defenders.

The forces of Ras Seyoum, Ethiopian commander in the north, numbering 52,000 men, were reported to have surrounded Aduwa, which was captured Sunday by the Italians, and to have killed "every one" of the 2,500 defenders.

The Ethiopian losses were said to be heavy, but Ras Seyoum's fighters were reported to have captured large numbers of rifles, machine guns, artillery and ammunition.

FOUGHT IN DARK

The Ethiopian fighters, smarting under the loss of the historic city to the Italians, were said to have resorted to age-old tactics, striking under cover of darkness, falling on the enemy swiftly and engaging in bitter hand-to-hand fighting in which spears and daggers were pitted against the modern bayonets of Mussolini's troops.

The battle was reported to have raged throughout the night, neither side asking or giving quarter.

RADIO BAN STIRS DEBATE

British Declined to Relay Italian Statement From Geneva to North America

London, Oct. 11.—Officials here to-day confirmed the government had refused to permit a radio broadcast last night by Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italian representative at Geneva, to be transmitted to North America by a British station. Officials said they considered facilitating the broadcast inadvisable, but disagreed with description of the action as a sanction against Italy.

Authoritative quarters said no protests had been received against the action. Officials emphasized it applied only to the particular broadcast, and future cases would be decided on

Geneva, Oct. 11.—The first sanction imposed to-day was on the press.

With a great deal to do the delegates of fifty nations gathered at the League secretariat for the first meeting of the sanctions committee.

In a public sitting August de Vasconcelos was elected chairman without opposition. Then at the suggestion of the chairman the committee agreed its meetings should be generally private. De Vasconcelos immediately announced the public sitting closed, and in a clatter of comment that sounded like the Tower of Babel newspapermen from all over the world left the room.

The public sitting lasted under ten minutes.

Ex-king Still In London As Greeks Celebrating Coup

Reported George II Will Not Return Till After Plebiscite on Monarchy November 3; New Royalist Cabinet Warns Against Opposition Efforts

Orderly Conditions In Country Reported

Associated Press

Athens, Oct. 11.—The cabinet of General George Kondylis, leader of yesterday's swift overthrow of the eleven-year-old republic, today voted to restore citizenship to all Greek princes disenfranchised when King George left the throne and the republic was established.

A cabinet communique announced the country was "happy" following the coup and that order prevailed throughout the country. The Minister of the Interior announced any effort to oust the Kondylis royalist regime "will be severely crushed."

Meanwhile, jubiliant royalists looked to-day for word from George II as to whether he would return immediately to the throne regained in the bloodless coup d'etat.

JAPAN WANTS TRADE TALK

Proposes Canada Discuss Ending Present "War"

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—A proposal that negotiations over the trade dispute be opened at the earliest possible date between the governments of Japan and Canada is made in a note presented by the Japanese minister in Ottawa on behalf of his government to Premier R. B. Bennett. The note, dated October 8, was made public to-day by Soto Matsukato, Japanese minister.

Japan placed a 50 per cent surtax against certain Canadian goods and, in reply, Canada imposed a 33⅓ per cent surtax against Japanese goods. The note to-day expresses the conviction on behalf of Japan that "free and frank discussions in a fair and conciliatory spirit on both sides are certain to bring the question to a happy conclusion."

The note promised application of the "trade protection law," namely, the 50 per cent surtax levied by Japan would be rescinded on the attainment of a satisfactory settlement.

Man Questioned On Child's Death

Russian Held at Seattle As Slaying of Sally Kelley Investigated

Associated Press

Seattle, Oct. 11.—With a blood-stained shirt and a towel as evidence, detectives to-day continued to question an elderly Russian arrested yesterday for investigation in the fiendish slaying last Sunday of seven-year-old Sally Jean Kelley.

Officers here and at Aberdeen checked records trying to identify "Aberdeen Red," named in California dispatches as having told a friend, Henry Hoekstra, that he was implicated in the crime.

Detective Capt. Ernest Yoris said the man had not been found listed under the nickname in Washington records although described in dispatches as a former inmate of a Washington asylum and former worker in Aberdeen.

The Russian was the only prisoner here to-day in the investigation, all others having been released. Yoris said the Russian was arrested in his home, near the place where Sally Jean's body was found. He said the man's head was injured when officers battered down his door and it fell on him, after he had refused to open at their commands.

The stained towel and shirt were held for comparison with samples of the mutilated child's blood.

The prisoner, whose name was withheld, was interviewed through an interpreter. Officers said he denied knowledge of the crime and contended the bloodstains were from his injured head.

Seattle Audience Told U.S. Senate Will Vote Agreement With Canada if Washington's Two Senators Advise Action

Seattle, Oct. 11.—Rehabilitation of the Fraser River sockeye salmon fishing industry, and the early approval of the pending sockeye salmon treaty between Canada and the United States were urged here to-day by Milliej Freeman, chairman of the state planning council fisheries division.

Principal speaker at a Seattle Chamber of Commerce luncheon, Mr. Freeman, a publisher of fisheries and other trade publications here, asserted that:

"In the judgment of members of the scientific staffs of the United States Bureau of Fisheries and of the state of Washington there is no room for doubt that the rebuilding of the one great Fraser River sockeye salmon industry can be effected through the plan proposed.

"The treaty awaits final action by the United States Senate, which will ratify it in ten minutes, at the next session, on a motion at any time by the two senators from this state."

Mr. Freeman said Senators Bone and Schwellenbach are studying the problem and if they become convinced of its merits and that the people are back of it, they will secure its adoption.

Water Collections Up Despite Low Rate

Actual Cash Received During Summer Months in City More Than Compensates for Loss on Reduced Household Charge

Cash collections made in the city waterworks department during the summer months, starting in June and ending in September, were up sufficiently to offset the loss the city sustained by giving its householders cheaper water under Alderman Andrew McGavin's scheme and still show an increase over the similar collections for the same months last year, it was revealed to-day by D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller-treasurer.

"In spite of the reduction in rates for the summer months, which are estimated to have reduced the city waterworks earnings by approximately $4,000, the actual cash collections of the Sooke system for the months of June to September show a loss of only $269.51 as compared with the figures for last year. In the case of the Goldstream collections for these same months, the 1935 figures show an improvement over the 1934 period of $1,717.12," Mr. Macdonald stated.

NET INCREASE

CHAMBERS AT BIG MEETING

Large Ladysmith Crowd Turns Out to Hear Federal Liberal Candidate

Ladysmith, Oct. 11.—Another of the large meetings which have featured the campaign of Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate for Nanaimo federal riding, was held in the Rialto Theatre at Ladysmith yesterday evening.

"The greatest weapon we have to enable us to put our one and a quarter million of unemployed back to work is control by the people themselves of the credit of the nation, which control has been too long in the hands of the privileged few who had used it to their own purpose and advantage," Mr. Chambers declared.

Pointing out that it was useless to criticize what had occurred in the past, the speaker urged that all should get together in a spirited co-operation to work for the betterment of conditions in the future. The Liberals long ago realized that municipalities could not survive the burden imposed on them by unemployment and which was left to them to carry under the British North America Act.

TO MEET PEOPLE'S NEED

"It is high time that the constitution of this country be modernized and brought up to date so as to meet the needs of all the people as nearly as it can be done, and this the Liberals proposed to do if you send them back to Ottawa with the necessary majority," the speaker explained.

Political opponents had raised the question as to where Mr. Chambers would find the market for the product of his proposed plant on Vancouver Island to distill gasoline and fuel and motor oils from coal; and he again last night pointed out what he very clearly explained on previous occasions that the needs of British Columbia alone would require 3,000 miners to produce the coal and 1,500 men to work in the plant itself.

Asked as to his attitude on war and conscription, Mr. Chambers explained that personally he was opposed to war except for defence, but that he adhered to the policy laid down by that great Liberal leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, that if Canada became involved in a defensive war it there must be conscription of men there must be conscription of wealth.

"In that case I do not think you will get an awful lot of war," was Mr. Chambers's comment, which was received with marked approval by the audience.

Bennett's Speech Is Confession of Defeat, Says King

STRANGEST OF ALL

"They say politics makes strange bedfellows, but I say the strangest bedfull of fellows ever seen will be the one which will come about when Mr. Bennett and the varied groups he is now catering to lie down together. I don't know how they will work together. They will all be out for jobs or some advantage or other. 'Canada First' will mean every man for himself."

LIBERAL PLAN

Commenting further on Mr. Bennett's Toronto speech, Mr. King said he had never said he would not co-operate with other groups in the House of Commons. He hoped that, should he be Prime Minister, he would receive the same co-operation from Mr. Bennett and other opposition leaders as he had given Mr. Bennett in the last five years.

WHEAT CHEQUES

Renewing his charge of bribery against the Bennett government, Mr. King said he had just received word from Ottawa that $8,000,000 was to be distributed to Wheat Pool farmers on account of crops several years ago. The order-in-council authorizing the payments was to go through Saturday and the Wheat Board was to mail cheques to reach the farmers on Monday, the day of the election. Actually this money was to come from paper profits, but no mention was made of the fact wheat had not yet been sold.

"Isn't it a sad reflection on our public affairs," he asked, "that on the day of polling farmers are to receive money whether they are entitled to it or not for the purpose of influencing their votes? I say the farmers of western Canada will resent that more than anything else. It is their own money, if they are entitled to it at all, and they will resent receiving it as a bribe."

It was not only the farmers who were being treated in this way, said Mr. King. On October 6 the awarding of $2,700,000 in public works contracts was announced. This was for the sole purpose of influencing votes and was decidedly irregular when done so close to election day.

JUDGED ON ACTS

The Bennett government was to be judged not on its promises for the future but on its performance of past promises, Mr. King declared.

"You notice," he said, "I say the Bennett government. I want Conservatives to notice that, for the Conservative Party has been shoved into the background in the last five years by its leader, or the man it trusted as its leader."

Mr. Bennett had taken the centre of the stage at Ottawa and pushed his own ministers into the background and humiliated them in public.

"I have seen him do it to your own minister here (Hon. Hugh A. Stewart, Minister of Public Work and Conservative candidate in Leeds).

"The government considers public interest requires that Parliament should meet October 22. The Lord Chancellor will accordingly take the necessary steps to summon the House of Lords that day, and the Prime Minister has invited the Speaker to give the requisite notice for summoning the House of Commons."

Ex-king Still in London As Greeks Celebrating Coup

on the question of restoring the monarchy has been set for November 3.

Another rumor had George winging to Athens by airplane, but still another went the rounds that he feared to become a puppet of General George Kondylis, author of yesterday's swift overthrow of the eleven-year-old republic.

(In London yesterday evening the Greek ex-king dined quietly. The aide of the monarch would say only: "His majesty has not yet been invited to return to Greece.")

SHOUT FOR KING

Adherents of the monarchy in Athens and the rest of the country demonstrated vociferously with cries of "Long Live King George." The celebrations continued long after the curfew hour last night.

General Kondylis, former Minister of War, who assumed the regency said his government would be temporary, pending the king's return.

ROUSING VOTE

The royalist coup yesterday was capped by a rousing vote of the National Assembly for restoration of the monarchy. Amid scenes of wild rejoicing in the National Assembly Building—once the Royal Palace—the nation's lawmakers decreed the return of George II from exile in England.

Then, despite their approval of restoration, the assemblymen decided to go on with the nation-wide plebiscite on the question on November 3 in order to give the people a chance to express their opinion.

FIGHT PROMISED

Madrid, Oct. 11 (Canadian Press).—Ex-Prince Eugene Lascaris, a pretender to the Greek throne along with former King George, declared his following would "convert Greece into a river of blood" unless he is placed on the throne.

Informed of the royalist coupe in Athens, Lascaris from Saragoza termed George II a "usurper."

The prince said his followers were demanding a plebiscite to determine who would succeed to the throne. He asserted a group of them would come from Athens next Tuesday to arrange details for a campaign to make him king.

General Emilio de Bono, accompanied by his staff, had motored into Aduwa this morning and occupied the city officially in the name of the Italian government.

At the same time, a Reuter dispatch from Ashara, Eritrea, said information received there was that Ras Kassa, another Ethiopian chieftain, was joining forces with Ras Seyoum and Dedjazmatch Burru, northern provincial governor, for a concerted defence against an Italian advance toward Gondar.

DENIED BY ROME

Associated Press

Rome, Oct. 11.—Italian officials to-day denied reports from Ethiopia that Aduwa had been recaptured with a massacre of the Italian garrison.

MANY WOUNDED

London, Oct. 11.—The Ethiopian legation here received an unofficial report to-day that 2,000 Italians were wounded in heavy fighting at Aduwa.

The legation attache, M. Xaphiro, said: "We have received nothing direct from Addis Ababa. The information that 2,000 Italians were wounded came from other than press reports, but not from an authoritative source.

"We have nothing to confirm a report 2,500 Italians were killed at Aduwa."

By CHRISTIAN OZANNE
Havas Correspondent

Addis Ababa, Oct. 11.—Ethiopian forces near Aduwa captured artillery, machine guns, rifles and munitions in heavy fighting on Wednesday night, according to delayed and unconfirmed reports which reached here to-day. Losses were heavy on both sides.

Many Italian prisoners were taken, the report said.

SAY FORCES SURRENDERED

Rome, Oct. 11.—Light Italian casualties and surrender by important Ethiopian chiefs were reported to-day in an official communique on the Fascist campaign of occupation in Ethiopia.

Losses in the first four days of fighting were announced as five Italians and twenty-five Eritreans killed, and twenty Italians and fifty natives wounded.

Thirty-three native soldiers were reported missing.

Two important Ethiopian chiefs came through the Italian lines and offered their support to the Italian command, the communique said.

The first was Degiac Haile Sellassie Gugsa, chief of a large Eastern Tigre region, who brought with him several thousand followers, the announcement said. The second was Degiac Kassa Arala, who also brought with him his forces.

During the first four days of fighting, since which the Italian army has been digging in, the communique said, Italians captured one cannon, one machine gun, 134 rifles and thirty cases of ammunition.

The communique said airplanes had been actively surveying the country ahead of the northern lines as far south as the Takazze River, and that nowhere had they found any large bodies of Ethiopian forces.

PLANE REPORT DENIED

A report an Italian plane was shot down near Aksum was denied, the Italian high command will transfer its headquarters forward into conquered territory soon, it was announced.

On the southern front, bordering on Italian Somaliland, the communique said Ethiopians continued to desert to the Italian side. It denied a report that Italians or native soldiers under the Fascist banner were deserting.

By ANDRUE BERDING
Associated Press Foreign Staff

With the Italian armies on the Northern Ethiopian Front, (9.30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 10.—(Delayed in transmission) — (Associated Press). — An army of 110,000 men is participating in the Italian advance official figures released to-night showed.

The advance is continuing slowly to permit engineers to push forward with road construction and provide food and munitions.

The army is equipped with 2,306 machine guns, 230 cannon and 92 tanks. The revictualing and transport services are provided with 38,000 horses and mules.

Three hundred Ethiopians thus far have been taken prisoner, it was announced.

Mr. Macdonald declined to comment on the cause for the increase, in spite of the reduction of the charges occasioned by the cut in the rate for domestic consumers. However, from other sources it was learned delinquent collections had been speeded up and the weather had been more favorable for water sales this summer than last.

In addition, operation of the dry-dock at Esquimalt and extensive irrigation at Work Point grounds, along with other similar factors were believed to have added to the collections.

FROM START OF YEAR

From the beginning of the year the actual collections on the Sooke system up to the end of last month stood at $203,610.98, a figure $1,277.43 below the corresponding 1934 total of $204,888.41.

On Goldstream, however, the 1935 nine months' collections stood at $60,906.28, against $58,262.38 for the 1934 period, showing a gain this year of $2,645.90 and making the net improvement on the two systems, up to the end of last month $1,368.47.

A survey of the figures undertaken to-day showed that while the reduction in the rate for the summer months, extended to householders, did not actually yield a profit in itself, other contributing forces were sufficient to make the aggregate collections high enough to absorb what loss the reduction caused and still show the department on the right side of the ledger.

The result of the survey was all the more surprising in view of the fact the months for which the lower rate was instituted showed a continued profit as a result of the increased collections on the Goldstream system. That system serves Victoria West and Esquimalt, while the main service to city homeowners is supplied by Sooke.

COURT USES FLASHLIGHTS

Ordinary court procedure was observed, but Chief Justice Morrison and counsel had to get along without gowns as they toured the reserve and scrambled down the seventy-five-foot embankment to the Nicola River. Chickens, cows and dogs got in their way.

Four shacks, their rear the alleged scene of the slayings, were pointed out, Chief Justice Morrison knocked at the door of one, that of Chief Buckskin Billy, but the chief was not at home.

Twenty-year-old Henry Brown, who has been held in custody as a material witness, pointed out to the jury the place where Gisbourne had met the Indians, where a tree had been cut down to extricate Gisbourne's car when it jammed while proceeding to the river with the bodies of Gisbourne and Carr, and the pine tree against which the car lodged on the river bank.

SCRAMBLE DOWN BANK

Scrambling down the seventy-five-foot embankment by flashlights, Brown traced the course of the bodies as they were dragged from the car to the water's edge. The official court reporter took the evidence in shorthand while Sheriff Frank Keill held another flashlight for him.

NEW WITNESS

Dr. Austin Gillis, a new witness in the trial, said he had accompanied Constable Carr to the reserve on the morning of May 23, 1934, to attend Mary Ann, wife of Eneas George. The woman had five stab wounds in the chest and abdomen and he ordered her removed to the Merritt Hospital, where she recovered. On the way to Merritt they met Joseph George and Carr told Joseph to try to hold Eneas because he and Gisbourne would be down for him later.

When the jury was satisfied with the view of the scene Chief Justice Morrison adjourned the case till Saturday morning in Vancouver. The court departed, followed by the wide-eyed gaze of an Indian man and woman and three small children who had been silent witnesses form their houses of the unique scene in British Columbia jurisprudence.

their merits. They said the government had no knowledge of Baron Aloisi's contemplated remarks.

It was stressed in authoritative quarters that no other unilateral action against Italy was contemplated.

Newspapers in Rome and Paris, as well as Geneva, carried bold headlines on Britain's refusal, but few morning newspapers here mentioned the fact.

SAY NOT FAIR PLAY

Geneva, Oct. 11.—Refusal by Great Britain to relay Baron Aloisi's broadcast explanation of Italy's stand in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict to North America just after midnight, was not "fair play," in the expressed opinion of the Italian delegation to the League of Nations.

The Italian delegation termed the British action as unfair treatment of Italy, but a high authority said there would be no formal protest by Italy.

Italians said they understood it was British telephone officials who had refused to accept the broadcast from the Geneva station.

IN DIALOGUE FORM

It was disclosed Baron Aloisi's broadcast message was to have been in the form of a dialogue.

Questions were to be put to the Baron and his answers as follows:

"Why do you feel Italy has been treated unfairly?"

"The League neglected to pay due attention to grievances we set forth in our memorandum stating our view and the true position of Ethiopia in relation to the League of Nations."

"What is the essence of your feeling concerning Ethiopia?"

"In our eyes, Ethiopia is far from constituing a coherent state, and consists of a nucleus, or Ethiopia proper, and a vast belt of conquered colonies inhabited by a non-Ethiopian population. In these regions the central government exists chiefly in the form of atrocities and a slavery system. Certain details deserve your attention such as emasculation of little children and prisoners of war."

Answering other questions, Baron Aloisi would have said conditions in Ethiopia had become worse in recent years and Italy had not broken its solemn word under the Briand-Kellogg Pact.

OTHER CHANNELS

New York, Oct. 11 (Associated Press).—Baron Pompeo Aloisi, head of the Italian delegation to the League of Nations, whose scheduled broadcast to the United States from Geneva last night did not materialize because of British refusal of radio facilities, has been invited to talk via other sources, the Columbia Broadcasting System announced to-day.

BODIES FOUND ON SEASHORE

Remains of Alex Waite, Late Victoria Youth, Buried in Cape Breton

Canadian Press

Port Hood, N.S., Oct. 11.—The body of Alex. Waite of Victoria, B.C., one of five seamen who died September 23 in the foundering of the Halifax motor vessel Hurry On, was washed ashore near here to-day. It will be interred at River Denys, N.S. The eighteen-year-old Victorian died in an open lifeboat after the Hurry On, bound from Halifax to Montreal with corn, sank a few miles off this village in a howling gale.

Mrs. Bertha Waite, mother of the late Alex. Waite, was informed by telegram from Nova Scotia to-day of the finding of the body. The message said the remains would be buried this afternoon at River Denys "alongside chum, James Macaulay.

This indicated the body of J. F. Macaulay, another of the five victims, had been found.

LEAGUE ENDS ARMS EMBARGO FOR ETHIOPIA

NO LOSS OF TIME

The immediate effect of lifting the embargo against Ethiopia will be that Emperor Haile Selassie's empire will be able to receive in the space of a very few days all kinds of armaments with which to carry on its defence against Italy.

By acting to-day, the committee permitted the entrance of arms into Ethiopia beginning to-night.

(Huge stores of arms destined for the Ethiopian government are reported stored in Djibouti, French Somaliland, where they were ordered held by the French government. Djibouti is only two days from Addis Ababa by train.)

The committee's recommendation for the embargo against Italy was based on President Roosevelt's list of "implements of war." A small subcommittee was set up to study whether any materials should be added to the list.

The resolution provided that those countries which had not imposed an embargo on Italy should do so at the earliest possible moment.

A British spokesman informed the Associated Press the sense of the meeting was that sanctions should be imposed with urgency.

"KEY PRODUCTS"

He added the committee would later study what other sanctions could be applied against Italy in the quickest possible manner.

League officials said the next probable step by the committee would be to recommend an embargo on exportation to Italy of "key products" required for the manufacture of armaments.

A report by League experts, who considered the question of key products before the present discussion of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, said the idea would be to select commodities the use of which for war purposes would outweigh their importance for commerical and civilian purposes.

The idea which dominated the Committee of Sixteen was that the various countries could be guided by the Assembly resolution of 1921.

By the terms of that resolution, small countries could contribute less than great nations to the application of sanctions, but with the understanding that they must make clear to the League just what they intend to do.

ITALY MAKING ARMS

The question arose as to what Premier Mussolini of Italy would do concerning the arms embargo. Experts said they did not believe his military operations would be seriously embarrassed for the present by his inability to buy arms abroad, since there is mass manufacture of arms in Italy.

On the other hand, they pointed out, the lifting of the embargo from Ethiopia would constitute a real and immediate menace to the Italian forces.

In previous years belligerents have halted and searched neutral ships suspected of carrying arms to the enemy. League delegates asked each other to-day if they believed Italy's warships would attempt to stop British, Dutch, French and other vessels bound for Djibouti.

It was also asked if the ships of League states could be regarded as neutral, or if they could refuse the right of search on the grounds that their national position no longer was one of neutrality because of their duty to the League of Nations.

(Under the League covenant, an aggressive act of war against one member of the League automatically is regarded as an act of war against all members.)

THROUGH SUDAN

There is also the possibility that arms may be shipped by rail through the Sudan to a point near the Ethiopian frontier.

Such shipments would travel by water to an Egyptian port and from there by rail and caravan into the interior of Ethiopia.

League officials were examining the question of whether League states would have to provide naval escorts for vessels carrying munitions of war destined for Ethiopia.

DEPARTURE OF ITALIANS

The chief Italian delegate left at the moment Dr. Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, president of the League Assembly, was making one more appeal to both Italy and Ethiopia for peace.

Dr. Benes addressed the Assembly meeting, reminding the combatants "how ardently we desire an early and peaceful end to the conflict."

ALBANIA'S POSITION

His departure coincided with an increase in the anti-sanctions bloc. Albania, Italy's mountainous Adriatic neighbor, joined with Austria and Hungary in a declaration against the League's condemnation of Italy and against any programme of sanctions against Mussolini's nation.

The Albanian delegate, Madras Frasheri, minister to Italy, told the League Assembly:

"Albania remains faithful to the covenant and fully appreciates the importance of upholding it, but in view of the situation arising from Albania's political alliance with Italy and the capital importance of close economic relations with Italy, particularly the Italian colonies, Albania regrets it cannot associate itself with the Council's conclusions or any programme of sanctions."

QUICK ACTION

Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden of Great Britain, suggesting the new sub-committee meet immediately and report back to the general staff to-night, said he hoped "one sanction would be applied to-day" and that there might be other "immediate measures."

An authoritative source said some delegates were discussing the possibility of cutting off all shipping relations with Italy. Under this project, the powers would close their ports to all Italian ships and warn their own shipping companies not to send vessels to Italian ports.

League officials pointed out there was one grave potential danger in a complete shipping boycott on Italy, remarking that if an Italian ship were en route to New York, for instance, the only way the League could prevent such a voyage would be through employment of force.

MAY CUT RAILWAYS

A League official said, however, that all international communications lines running to Italy could be disconnected and all railway communication discontinued.

Some League circles believed that Mr. Eden, in speaking of application of a sanction to-day, referred to the refusal yesterday evening by the British Post Office, controlling communications, to relay a broadcast by Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy to North America.

CANADA IS MEMBER

When the League's general staff for sanctions, swinging into action against Italy, appointed a subcommittee of sixteen nations to-day to consider "immediate" measures, it included Canada among the members.

The refusal of Albania to join in sanctions makes the third leak in the League's projected economic dam against Italy. Other potential leaks were furnished by Hungary and Austria, financially dominated by Italy, and any attitude of hostility toward Italy on the part of Albania could bring quick Italian reprisals.

Although Albania sells cattle, hides and general foodstuffs to Italy, its supplies would not suffice to fill the produce caused by a general economic blockade.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian representative on the sanctions committee, proposed the resolution lifting the arms embargo against Ethiopia, according to a Havas report, and was seconded by Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden of Great Britain, and Robert Coulondres of France.

Associated Press

TEXT OF RESOLUTION

Geneva, Oct. 11.—The arms embargo resolution passed by the sanctions committee of the League of Nations to-day carries an annex listing materials considered to be arms, munitions and other war materials. It includes six categories and closely follows the list published October 5 by President Roosevelt. These include guns, ammunition, airplanes and parts, vehicles of war, poison gas and high explosives. Added, however, is a ban on powder and explosives.

The text of the resolution proper follows:

"With a view of facilitating the governments of the League of Nations in the execution of obligations incumbent upon them under Article 16 of the League covenant, the following measures are decided upon:

"1. The governments of the members of the League of Nations which apply at the present moment measures tending to interdict or restrain the exportation, re-exportation or transit of arms, munitions, and war materials destined for Ethiopia, will immediately cancel these measures.

NONE TO ITALY

"2. The governments of the League of Nations will immediately prohibit the exportation, re-exportation and transit destined for Italy and its possessions of arms, munitions, and implements of war enumerated in the attached list.

"3. The governments of the League of Nations will take such steps as may be necessary to secure that arms, munitions and implements of war as enumerated in the attached list and exported to countries other than Italy will not be re-exported directly or indirectly to Italy or to Italian possessions.

"4. The measures provided in paragraphs 2 and 3 are to apply to contracts in process of execution.

BRITISH ACTION

London, Oct. 11 (Associated Press).—An authoritative source said to-day the British Government was ready to lift the arms embargo against Ethiopia the minute the League of Nations should approve such action.

EMBARGO NOT LIFTED

Washington, Oct. 11 (Associated Press).—The Neutrality Act, Secretary of State Hull said to-day, would prevent the United States joining League of Nations members in lifting the arms embargo against Ethiopia.

By JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Correspondent

Addis Ababa, Oct. 11.—Emperor Haile Selassie informed the League of Nations to-day Ethiopia would never capitulate to Italy's armed forces—a declaration intended to end rumors Ethiopia might make peace.

The Emperor insisted he would not put a premium on aggression by agreeing to a peaceful settlement of the conflict on the basis Premier Mussolini retained Ethiopian territory occupied by his troops.

Diplomats regarded the note as evidence of a determination by the Emperor to continue war rather than accept humiliating terms involving loss of valuable territory.

The Emperor also announced his ratification of the Geneva Protocol of 1925, prohibiting use of poison gas and bacteria in warfare.

DEPARTURE OF MINISTER

Capital interest centred chiefly on the Ethiopian government's request to the Italian minister, Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, that he depart as soon as possible.

The Emperor granted the envoy permission to stay at nearby Mojjo a few days to await the arrival there of Italian consular agents from Mogalo. They are expected to arrive Sunday and to leave Ethiopia immediately with Vinci-Gigliucci.

The capital awaited arrival of two provincial armies from the west. One force of 50,000, led by Ras Guetatchou Abata, governor of Kaffa province, and another of 30,000 under Dedjazmatch Ape Marian, governor of Wellega, hastened to the defence of the city. Ras Imru, governor of Gojjam, arrived by plane from the north.

FIGHT FOR WATER

Reports from Deridawa said Ethiopian regulars in the first line of defence on the southern front were being pushed back slowly by the Italian motorized army under General Rudolfo Graziani.

Italy's advance out of Somaliland into Ogaden province was described as a fight for water, rather than territory, with the Ethiopians retreating from one well to another.

Chief Electoral Officer Makes Clear Those Who Have Moved From District to District Have Right to Mark Ballots in Federal Election

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—Removing misunderstanding, the chief electoral officer ruled to-day Form No. 20 of the Dominion Elections Act, consisting of an oath to be signed by certain electors, relates only to cases of error in the name, address and occupation of an elector. Fear the form was capable of being used to exclude from voting persons who had moved from one electoral district into another before May 15 last was quite groundless, he said.

The rights of such persons were protected, he said, by Section 38, subsection 3, of the Act, which reads:

"For the purposes of an election every elector shall be deemed to have resided, and to continue until the close of the poll to reside, in the electoral district and in the polling division whereto the list of voters whereon his name appears appertains, and no actual change of residence between the time of preparing such list and polling day shall so operate as to deprive him of his right to vote in such electoral district and polling division or entitle him to vote in any other electoral district or polling division."

STRIKE OUT WORDS

The form, however, was quite ambiguous at least, the chief electoral officer ruled. Pursuant to his powers therefore in that regard he is directing all election officers that the form applies only to corrections of errors and that in administering the oath to an elector, of which this form consists, they must strike out in paragraph three of the oath the words, "in this electoral district of." These are the words which raised the ambiguity and caused the misunderstanding of which he had been informed, the official said.

R.C.M.P. HEAD IS CRITICIZED

Woodsworth Scores Reference to MacBrien's Permission on Political Pamphlets

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—Communist tactics and principles stood denounced to-day by J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, and criticism of Major-General Sir James MacBrien, commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, was coupled in the denunciation.

Dealing with trade matters and international affairs as well, the C.C.F. chieftain yesterday evening carried his federal election campaign towards its conclusion in an address here. Importing was necessary as well as exporting, he declared in dealing with trade matters.

Canada should not send soldiers to die in capitalistic wars, he said in declaring League of Nations interests were mainly made secondary to the interests of the nations which formed the League.

BEYOND AUTHORITY

Declaring communism had no place in the C.C.F. programme, Mr. Woodsworth drew attention also to anti-communist literature being circulated in northern Manitoba which, he said, carried a line saying it was issued with the permission of Major-General MacBrien.

"What right has General MacBrien to approve or disapprove literature of a political nature?" he asked. The commissioner of the R.C.M.P. was far exceeding his authority, he said.

Mr. Woodsworth said a pamphlet had been placed in his hands which showed General MacBrien's action. It was a pamphlet written by "Superintendent F. J. Mead" and reprinted by the Anti-Communist League of Canada, of Flin Flon, Manitoba.

"And," added Mr. Woodsworth, "it carries the line 'With permission of Major-General J. H. MacBrien, R.C.M.P.'" He charged such action was a violation of police duty and constituted participating in politics.

Mr. Woodsworth deprecated exploitation of the people of Africa or any other continent by the white races in their clamber for power. "I feel that we have to keep Canada out of any military sanctions in Africa," he said.

Convention Ends in Ottawa; Number of Resolutions Approved

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—W. R. Chenoweth, Montreal, was elected president of the Canadian Hospital Council at the conclusion of the third biennial convention of that body here. He succeeds Dr. F. W. Routley of Toronto, who was elevated to the office of honorary vice-president.

Other officers elected were Rev Father George Verreault of Ottawa, first vice-president; Dr. George F. Stephens, Winnipeg, second vice-president; Dr. A. F. Anderson, Edmonton, and Rev. H. G. Wright, Inverness, N.S., members of the executive.

Dr. G. Harvey Agnew of Toronto was re-elected secretary-treasurer. The minister of pensions and national health, unnamed, was ex-officio honorary president.

The convention having wound up its business sessions, a conference was held yesterday under the chairmanship of Dr. R. H. Coats, Dominion statistician, for the purpose of co-ordinating the basis of statistical returns.

Rev. Mother Audet of Campbellton, N.B., said the eight-hour day for both graduate nurses and students was gradually gaining ground.

The scheme was being tried out for special nurses in Regina, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Sault Ste. Marie, London, Montreal and Vancouver. It was being gradually introduced into Canadian schools of nursing.

SOCIAL CREDIT TEST IN BRITISH RIDING

Canadian Press

Leeds, Eng., Oct. 11.—The industrial quarter of this city has been chosen as the first battle ground of a Social Credit candidate for the British House of Commons. Major C. H. Douglas and his followers have long been carrying on their "educational" campaign, but never before has a Social Credit disciple sought election.

In Leeds South there will probably be a three-cornered battle at the next election. Wilfred Townsend, a school master, has been chosen to carry the Social Credit banner against Noel Whiteside, Conservative, who won the seat from the Labor Party in the last vote. A Labor candidate, too, is expected to enter the tilt. In the last election, Mr. Whiteside polled 14,881, the Labor candidate 14,156 and the Liberal candidate 6,291.

SPEEDY RIDE FOR J. D. ROCKEFELLER

Lakehurst, N.J., Oct. 11.—John D. Rockefeller, aged multimillionaire, left yesterday on his annual trip to his winter estate at Ormond Beach, Fla.

Mr. Rockefeller boarded the train after a wild automobile ride here from his estate, "Golf House," in Lakewood, nine miles away. He had originally planned to leave for Lakewood, to entrain, but cameramen and reporters caused him to change his plans. When his automobile left the Lakewood estate, it quickly shook off all except one pursuing car, which was forced to travel over sixty miles an hour to keep the Rockefeller car in sight.

Increases Are Investigated

Saanich Council Seeks Explanation of Increments for School Teachers

Criticism of the action of Saanich school trustees in putting through last month regular increments in teachers' salaries totalling $170 a month was voiced by the Saanich Council yesterday evening as it sought to discover the reason for the increases and the source of revenue to meet them.

The council ordered forwarded to the school board a request to have a representative meet the council and explain the move.

The increments came as a surprise to the councillors, according to their remarks, and criticism was based on the fact that the increases had gone through at a time when the council was cutting staff payrolls and making every possible economy in the interests of the ratepayers.

In the words of Councillor E. C. Warren, Ward Two, the action placed the council in a position where its own employees could justly demand restoration of their wage cuts at a time when the municipality could not afford to do it.

The councillors were at a loss to explain where the money came from They were not acquainted with how much of the increment, if any, would be carried by the government, while it was suggested the increases may have been made possible through the school board saving on its $7,000 appropriation this year for school repairs.

Reeve Crouch pointed out the action meant an addition of $2,630 annually to the payroll and he could see no justification of the raises at a time when the council had been paring costs to a minimum, and particularly staff salaries.

The councillors were given an itemized list showing the increments each teacher received.

High school teachers received an additional $10 a month, while increments for the elementary school instructors ranged from $2 to $12, while one received an extra $20 a month.

The statement presented to the council showed increases on account of teachers' salaries during the last two years, after reductions from 1931.

The September monthly payroll in 1931 was $10,102; in 1932, $10,065; in 1933, $7,993; in 1934, $8,089; and 1935, $8,259.

Military Honors at Calgary for Late Sergt. T. S. Wallace and G. C. Harrison

Canadian Press

Calgary, Oct. 11. — Full military honors were accorded this afternoon at the funeral service for the late Sergt. T. S. Wallace and Constable G. C. Harrison of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, victims of Doukhobor gunmen's bullets near Canmore.

A double funeral service was held in Knox United Church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. F. Kelloway.

The body of Sergt. Wallace was buried in Union Cemetery here. The body of Constable Harrison will be sent to Banff, where burial will be made Sunday.

At the graveside of the late Sergt. Wallace, a firing party of twelve Edmonton R.C.M.P. constables stood guard and a bugler of the Lord Strathcona Horse sounded the Last Post. A military band of the Calgary Highlanders led the cortege from the church.

Veterans of the Great War, in which Sergt. Wallace was awarded the Mons Star and Military Medal as a sniper with the Gordon Highlanders, attended the service.

TEXTILES TOPIC OF STEVENS'S SPEECH

Reconstruction Party Leader Also Talks in Ontario of Farm Implements

Canadian Press

Beamsville, Ont., Oct. 11.—Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction Party leader, served notice yesterday evening on Canadian Textile Companies which used discriminatory methods as between Canadian merchants that they had better mend their ways, if his party was returned to power.

Mr. Stevens declared the price spreads commission had discovered "wages paid were not commensurate with the protection given the cotton textile industry."

"I propose to see that the benefits of the tariff are passed on to the worker or the protection reduced," he said.

"The great textile companies" had on occasion used their power to discriminate against merchants by refusing to sell to them, or by delaying sales.

"That condition ought not to exist and it does," he said.

Of the agricultural implement manufacturing companies, Mr. Stevens said they must absorb more of their heavy overhead instead of handing it on to the farmers or face the possibility of lowered duties.

This, he said, would bring in some competition from abroad.

George Claims Stevens Sincere

Reconstruction Candidate Questions Bennett's Sudden "No Party Line" Conversion

"I have heard some very prominent Conservatives refer to Mr. Stevens as a rat. Personally, I think this is entirely unfair and I believe he showed great sincerity of purpose in breaking with his party when he did," declared Percy E. George, Reconstructionist candidate, speaking in the Quadra Street School auditorium yesterday evening.

"I might ask," he added, "why Mr. Bennett suddenly finds that he should jump away from party lines and appeal to people of all classes to support him after the election. Doesn't this seem very strange after five years of his strict party rule."

Mr. George, who was supported in his address by A. S. Averill, Social Credit exponent, declared the paramount issue of the present campaign was "The People of Canada vs. the Money Barons."

Twelve men in Canada, he said, controlled 160 companies through 235 directorates they held, with total resources of $9,850,000,000.

"These men," he said, "hold the strings so tightly about our economic blood stream that there is not enough flowing through to keep things going."

CANADA'S PARADOX

It was truly a paradox, he argued, when in a country that would support at least 50,000,000 people there lived only 10,000,000, and 10 per cent of them were on relief. It was a striking example that the old law of supply and demand was out of date. On one hand was an enormous supply of goods, on the other the demand of the unemployed for food and sustenance. But "something had thrown a monkey wrench into the machinery."

Mr. Bennett's sound money policy had in reality been a tight money policy, designed to reserve to a few powerful corporations and groups of rich men the control over Canada's economic life," he declared.

Great Britain had faced the same problem, adopted an "easy money policy" and was now leading the world out of the depression.

NO STRINGS TO FUNDS

"The old line parties are tied by their campaign contributions to the financial interests and can do nothing," he said. "All Reconstruction candidates have been told not to accept campaign funds with strings attached so they will be entirely free to act after the election."

Illustrating what he meant by "tight money," Mr. George quoted official statistics to the effect that in Great Britain on June 30 there was $44 of currency in circulation for every man woman and child, in the U.S. $46.40, according to the August figures and in Canada only $22.

He next took up sweatshop conditions as shown by the price spread committee's report. In one case, he said, farmers had been paid less for tomatoes than was paid for the cans in which they were preserved. In certain eastern factories men got from $5 to $7 and women from $6 to $12 for a forty-eight-hour week of work.

WHY STEVENS GOT OUT

"You can see why Stevens got out can't you," he said. "Bennett was so tied up with the money barons that he would not implement the price spreads report, so Stevens simply had to break with him."

The candidate attacked all parties for not supporting Mr. Stevens in the Commons. He had pleaded but they turned a deaf ear.

On local issues, he said, he had personal experience as an active member of the Chamber of Commerce of the lack of co-operation given by the sitting member, D. B. Plunkett, in matters vitally affecting the city.

PATRONAGE CHARGE

He repeated a charge he had made formerly that the government had stooped to patronage methods in the Sooke district to secure votes by suddenly deciding to give the business for relief camp supplies to retailers instead of getting them from wholesalers as had been done right along. Neither Mr. Plunkett nor Mr. Dickie had denied this charge since he first made it, he declared.

SOCIAL CREDIT

Mr. Averill endeavored to give an explanation of the social credit and national dividend theories, and stated that provision was made in the Reconstruction Party's plans for monetary reform to adopt this plan if it was found satisfactory. Half the Reconstruction candidates in B.C. were supporting social credit like Mr. George, he said.

"Our trouble is not unemployment, it's under-consumption and the national dividend will remedy that by providing purchasing power," he declared. "I feel sure its practical. The Dean of Canterbury says its practical, so does the Archbishop of York and the Archbishop of New Zealand. So vote for it and get it started."

Herbert Boothman was the chairman, introducing both speakers.

SAANICH WORKS ARE OVERSPENT

Statement Indicates Deficit Will Be Shown at End of Year

Saanich this year will be approximately $11,000 overspent on its public works and relief expenditures it was intimated in a report presented to the municipal council yesterday evening.

To date the council is $1,573.86 overspent on its original public works appropriation. This amount is raised to $11,000 by adding the provincial government loan of $16,000, less approximately $6,000 taken from the loan for relief purposes.

The public works allotment was $40,580 and the expenditure to date, including ward expenditure, fire fighting and park maintenance, is $42,153.

The respective ward expenditures follow: Ward One, $4,643; Ward Two, $5,786; Ward Three, $6,099; Ward Four, $7,652; Ward Five, $5,807; Ward Six, $6,388; Ward Seven, $5,348.

B.C. LEADS IN CATTLE JUDGING

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—The University of British Columbia dairy cattle judging team has returned here with the bulk of awards from the intercollegiate judging contests at the Portland Livestock Exposition.

The team placed first in judging Ayrshires and Holsteins, winning the large Ayrshire trophy for permanent possession of the university, and the Holstein plaque for one year.

Members of the team, all students in agriculture at the university, were Frank Clark, Kamloops, and Jim Sadler and Bill Moxon, Vancouver. Jim Allin, Vancouver, was the team's alternate member. The team was coached by J. C. Berry of the department of animal husbandry.

Individual winnings included Ayrshire goblets and Holstein medals to members of the team and their coach.

Frank Clark won individual honors, being high man among all contestants. He placed first in Ayrshires, Jerseys and Guernseys and second in Holsteins. He scored 1,463 of a possible 1,600 points to establish a record for the contests, begun in 1918.

BREAD PRICES IN ONTARIO HIGHER

Canadian Press

Toronto, Oct. 11.—Budgets were revised by Ontario housewives to-day to meet rising bread prices. Bakeries in many centres yesterday announced increases from one to three cents. Approximately thirty small bakeries in Ottawa and Hull said they would advance the price of a twenty-four-ounce loaf one cent to 10 cents. The rising price of flour, they said, made the increase necessary, and, they added, they expected they would be required soon to increase pay and shorten work hours of their employees.

Penalties On Italy Opposed

London, Oct. 11.—The communistically inclined Independent Labor Party was on record to-day as flatly opposed to applying penalties against Italy for its invasion of Ethiopia. The party adopted a resolution appealing to British workers to guard against being drawn into "imperialist war."

A CONTRAST

WHEN THE LIBERAL PARTY WAS elected to office in 1921 under the leadership of Mr. Mackenzie King, the state of public affairs generally presented one of the most difficult problems any Prime Minister in peace time had been called upon to face. Widespread unemployment and the social chaos which had resulted from inadequate provision for reabsorbing Canada's citizen soldiers into the economic and commercial life of the nation, combined with the serious state of the country's financial condition, demanded action on all fronts by the newly-installed government. No time was lost by Mr. King and the able colleagues with whom he had surrounded himself.

Unemployment, then, as now, suggested to the practical liberal mind the urgent necessity of an immediate expansion of the markets in which to sell Canada's products of the farm and the factory, of the mine, the forest, and the sea. In those somewhat remote immediate post-war years we heard nothing from the new Liberal Prime Minister of a plan for the Dominion to "blast" its way into the markets of the world. Mr. King and his colleagues rapidly formulated policies which made it easier for other countries to sell to us and, by the same token, easier for us to sell to them. By the summer of 1925, a very definite turn for the better had set in. Month by month external trade showed gains, and as trade grew, unemployment ceased to be the national menace it had been a year or so before.

It was this improvement of business with the outside world which enabled the government of Mr. King to reduce taxation under various heads as each successive budget was brought down. So it was that when Hon. C. A. Dunning, who had succeeded to the portfolio of finance on the death of Mr. Robb, presented his first statement as the guardian of the treasury on May 1, 1930, he was in the happy position of being able to announce still further reductions in taxation and to tell the Canadian public that there was a surplus in the national till of a little less than $45,000,000, that the national debt had been reduced during the regime of the Liberal government by nearly $250,000,000, that the trade and commerce of the country had been practically doubled in eight years.

It will be recalled that the budget which Mr. Dunning presented to Parliament five years ago was the budget which provided for the reduction of the sales tax from its original 6 per cent to 1 per cent—it is now 6 per cent again—a change in tariff charges on no fewer than 589 items imported from Britain. The full import of this friendly economic gesture to the United Kingdom is better understood when it is realized that out of a total number of items coming in under the British preferential tariff of 1,186, 589 would have entered Canada free under the King government's fiscal proposal as submitted by Mr. Dunning. That budget also, it will be recalled, eased the income tax for the wage earner; it reduced the tariff still further on the implements of production not made in Canada, thus helping all primary and secondary industries.

In the light of this record it is hard to believe the majority of voters will mark their ballots for the Conservative, C.C.F., or Reconstruction parties. We believe they will consult their own interests and endorse the candidates who will support Mr. Mackenzie King after he has been called upon to form a Liberal government at Ottawa. We submit that they will do so because they realize that the policies which were in operation between 1921 and 1930 will be effective in the present emergent conditions.

What is the Bennett record in office? Canada's idle army of 117,000 in the fall of 1930 has grown to more than 500,000 in the fall of 1935. If the present Prime Minister had taken the advice of Mr. Mackenzie King more than four years ago and mobilized the resources of the country to deal with this major problem, the picture would have been different. Numerous nuisance taxes, operative during the war, and removed by the King government, have been revived. A tax on sugar was imposed. A tax on gold mines was put on; but a chorus of complaints caused its removal. Postage taxes were increased, and, as mentioned, the sales tax was expanded from 1 per cent to 6 per cent.

In the fall of 1930, Mr. Bennett raised the tariff on imports from the United Kingdom by 10 per cent because he considered that would be a good lever with which to obtain more business in the United Kingdom for Canada. He went to London as Canada's representative at the Imperial Conference of that year with this weapon in his pocket. One well-known British parliamentarian called Mr. Bennett's economic arguments at that gathering "humbug." Well, six years ago our trade with the United Kingdom was worth $620,000,000, with a large balance in our favor; it is worth less than $400,000,000 now, after the empire trade agreements have been in operation for more than three years.

Take the case of New Zealand. Mr. Bennett's tariff policy practically wiped out a trade of nearly $36,000,000 between Canada and that Dominion. Only recently has it reached a point within nodding distance of one-third of what it was five years ago. Then there was that famous duty on Belgian glass to protect a small factory in Ontario; but the duty was removed in a few days because the Prime Minister suddenly realized that a fourteen-million-dollar market for Canadian wheat was in jeopardy.

It is for the people to decide whether they want a party in office at Ottawa which cut taxation, solved the unemployment problem of the immediate post-war years, reduced the nation's debt by nearly $250,000,000, built up trade to $2,640,000,00—or a government which has aggravated the unemployment problem in the most serious manner, increased taxation, and, by its policies, helped to reduce the Dominion's trade to the level of what it was before the war when the population of the country was nearly three millions less than it is now, and increased the nation's debt in five years by nearly $670,000,000. That is the question the voters will have to answer next Monday.

ANOTHER GREEK UPSET

THE KALEIDOSCOPIC CHARACTER OF Greek politics has been emphasized again by the military stroke of General George Kondylis by which the republic has been overthrown and the stage set for the restoration of the monarchy. It is evident that this prospect was envisaged by former Premier Venezelos some months ago when he fomented a rebellion which proved abortive, causing him to fly from the vengeance of the government. Overtures have been made to ex-King George, now in England, for his return to Athens, but the former ruler, knowing his Greece, is taking no chances. He refuses to return until after the people have declared by a plebiscite that they want him back.

Royalty in Greece has had a hard time in the last twenty-five years. King George I, who was a Dane, a brother of Queen Alexandra, and who was invited to become king at the instance of log-rolling great powers, was assassinated in 1913. George's son Constantine, who succeeded to the throne, was forced out by the Allies on account of his pro-German activities during the war. A son of Constantine, Alexandros, then reigned until his death in 1920. After that Constantine returned, but again was forced to abdicate and died in exile in 1923.

The present ex-King George II is a son of Constantine and was driven out in 1923. After such a record it is not difficult to understand his hesitation in declining to return until the political coast is clear. Uneasy lies the head that wears the crown of Greece.

GOOD AND PROFITABLE WORK

AMID THE TURMOIL OF THE FEDeral general election, attracting the attention of the whole Dominion, it is gratifying to learn that the road-paving programme of the province of British Columbia, under the direction of Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works in the Pattullo government, as a result of the Indian summer through which we have been, and still are, going, has resulted in 284 miles of this province's highways being hard-surfaced this year.

This is a notable performance, especially when the public exchequer is not bulging with funds, and it will mean that when the next tourist season has set in our visitors from other parts, more particularly from the neighboring republic, will feel inclined to remain in the province longer than they ordinarily would do with our highways a little the worse for wear. Mr. MacPherson naturally is not in a position to say just now how much money will be available for the continuance of the government's programme of road improvement next year; but it can be taken for granted that money spent on improving our highways will be a good investment.

THE FIRST SANCTION

THE RECOMMENDATION BY THE sanctions committee of the League of Nations that the embargo upon war munitions, as far as Ethiopia is concerned, be removed, and tightened in the case of Italy, is the first step in the application of penalties against the violator of the League covenant. This embargo has operated to the marked disadvantage of the Ethiopian forces who have been confronted with the most modern equipment, which naturally gave the invaders a material advantage in the early stages of the war.

In some European quarters it is reported that the Italian general staff in Rome is not satisfied with the progress made by the Italian armies so far, and that military experts in London are not impressed by the achievements of the invaders. That the Italians have paid a heavy price for their initial gains there can be no question, for whatever have been their casualties in battle, they have suffered heavily from climatic conditions. In fact, their losses through fever and other forms of sickness, have been so large that they are about to expand their hospital accommodation on the Dodecanese Islands owned by them in the Mediterranean. Rhodes, already used for that purpose, is already overtaxed.

Both sides are imposing a strict censorship on news dispatches from the scene of war. Mussolini dare not admit a reverse, while Haile Selassie is anxious to maintain the morale of his troops and at the same time retain the allegiance of the various tribes, some of which might otherwise lose all enthusiasm for a defensive war. Reports of victories, therefore, should be accepted with reserve until they are authoritatively confirmed.

If the League of Nations should be able to shorten the war, its power and influence on the side of peace would be unchallenged for many years. More than that, it is not improbable that the whole matter of colonial empires, the requirements of outlets for their population by congested states, would receive careful attention with a view to the relaxation of economic pressure upon them and averting the consequent threat of war. Trails always will cross wherever imperialism, the inevitable child of extreme nationalism, is rampant. Incidentally, nationalism is the child of policies designed to divide the nations of the earth into water-tight compartments.

Why should there be a tax on citrous fruits? They are not grown in Canada, so there is nobody to "protect" in this case. That is one of the many impositions which will be removed by a Liberal administration at Ottawa.

Electors should remember that in the final analysis a majority of them were responsible for Mr. Bennett's unfortunate record. They put him in office five years ago. Do they want another five years of the same kind of rule?

Which would be better for Canada and everybody in it—a Parliament dominated by a number of discordant groups, making stable administration impossible, or one by a party with a clear majority able to put sound, progressive policies resolutely into operation? Neither the Conservative, C.C.F., nor Reconstruction party has the slightest prospects of obtaining a majority, and of the two latter, the C.C.F. has only a handful of candidates, while the Reconstruction party is Mr. Stevens's vehicle in which he hopes to ride into the opposition leadership, with Mr. Bennett in second place. Only by a Liberal victory, which would result in the co-operation of federal and provincial governments, will it be possible for Canada to have an administration not paralyzed by group conflict.

Loose Ends

There isn't going to be any peace, unless you turn off the world—Mrs. Noggins tells one how to vote—They are worried in South Australia—and Silver has a big surprise.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

PERFECT PEACE

DOUBTLESS, my poor friend, you are looking forward to next Monday as a blesed deliverance from the election campaign. After that no more radios assaulting these fine October evenings with the blare of debt and tariffs and unemployment, no more columns of newspaper space faithfully reporting over and over again the oft-repeated speeches of our politicians. After Monday next, peace, perfect peace.

Not to disillusion, but merely warn you, it becomes my duty to point out that nothing of the sort is going to happen after next Monday. You will have peace from domestic politics, but there will still be plenty of trouble. Even if the war in Ethiopia is settled, there will be no stability in the world under the interesting arrangement whereby a few nations hang on to most of the world's goods and other nations want to take them from them.

What you must make up your mind to is that you won't see any permanent stability in the world for years and years, probably not in your lifetime. If you wanted stability, you chose the wrong generation to be born into. You should have waited for Utopia, for there never has been stability since the world began. There was none in the Garden of Eden.

But there is really nothing to get excited about. Once you make up your mind that these are normal times, you can live in them quite comfortably, if you have the means of life. If you put off living and enjoying yourself until after stability in the world returns and the nations of the earth settle down to sanity, you won't have much time to live at all. The only way to treat the current madness of the world is the way that many people treat the convulsion of an election campaign. They turn off the radio and read the comics. The thing to do is to turn off the world and turn your dial to something sensible.

HOW TO VOTE

UPON my soul, sir," said Mrs. Noggins, bringing with her market basket a rich smell of pickles into the car, "this helection business gets a body wery confused, don't it? Upon my soul, sir, a body don't know what gover'mint to helect. Now you take me, I started out Conservative, bred in the bone, but my 'usband 'e mispersuaded me. A Liberal 'e is, allus was, and a Canajian, on account of he oncet shook 'ands with Laurier at a picnic back east. That was the ruin of 'im. My old man 'e never got over it.

"Well, I was all set to helect Bennett — Bennett's the Conservative, ain't 'e?—but my old man 'e says if you helect Bennett, 'e says, the juties on cars will stay up and you'll never be able to buy one, 'e says, bein' as we want to get a bit of a car, you know, so I can take me heggs to market without payin' bus fare.

"Well, I decided to helect the Liberal you know, because they'll put the juties down, me old man says, and then we could get a car. (Eggs is wery inconvenient to carry on a bus when it's crowded. I've bust lots and people don't like chickens in a crowd, even if dead.)

"But my boy——'e's studied things a lot, you know, and 'e gets around a lot fixin furnaces, you know, ——'e mispersuaded me agin. The Liberals, 'e says, is fer lazy fare and you shouldn't vote fer nobody wot's lazy, 'e says. I should say I wouldn't after livin' with my old man all these years wot 'asnt done a day's work since the war, and 'im a Liberal. If the Liberals is fer lazy fare, I guess they're all like 'im. No, sir, I'm not votin' fer no lazy fellers to run the country with me workin' like I am to raise heggs.

"My boy, 'e says there's only one thing to do and that's vote C.C.F. The C.C.F., 'e says, is the only ones as can make the country prosperious so I'm all set to vote C.C.F. when along comes this feller McGeer. I heard 'im on the radio, you know, and 'e shows as clear as daylight that the C.C.F. is socialists. Can you himagine it, sir? They bin socialists all this time, in secret, foolin' ever'body. Why sure, if they get in, they'll take yer 'ouse away from you and give it to the poor. Why, they'd even take me chickens and me heggs. The poor is all right, but they don't get my 'ouse and chickens. And they're agin God, too. They ain't Christchuns, sir. They're hathiests, like them Rooshians.

"I said to my boy, 'Nobody never told us before that the C.C.F. was socialists. You bin keepin' that dark, thinkin' nobody would suspicion it. Well, we found out in time, no thanks to you, but to Gerry. You better keep away from the C.C.F., son,' I says, 'because it's them as probably is teachin' yer evil ways, wot with bowlin' in town and goin' to the movies with gels.'

"So there you are, sir. Wotever party a body helects, the country is ruined so far as I can see. If you vote fer any of 'em you'll just be helpin' to ruin yer own country. So I figgered it out this way—the only thing a patriotic body can do is vote fer some party wot can't possibly get helected. Then you won't be 'elpin' ruin the country. So I'm votin' Reconstruction. They ain't got a chance to get it, so they can't ruin nothin'. It's the only safe way to vote, sir, to save the country."

GREAT THOUGHT

IT IS REALLY surprising how far a great thought can travel, even if it takes a long time. Long ago, it must be a year at least, I said something here about the art of pitting potatoes. I suppose I was in the act of pitting them and boasting about it as usual.

Pitting potatoes is an important thing and warrants great thoughts, but I hardly expected them to travel to South Australia. I was a little surprised and touched to receive a letter from a gentleman in South Australia who had read that I knew how to pit potatoes and he had no idea how to pit them and would I explain in detail. You would think that there must be somebody in the whole continent of Australia who would be able to tell him how to pit potatoes, but apparently not. Apparently he has to come to Saanich where, after all, you get the real truth about things.

I could print here an elaborate explanation of pitting potatoes, which you would find very absorbing, but I would rather talk about the elections, as I know you would. I will merely tell my Australian friend that my plan for pitting potatoes this year was as follows: After carefully calculating how many potatoes to plant, the cost of manure and water and my labor, even at $1 a day, I estimated that I would lose $1 on every sack I planted, at present potato prices. So I am buying potatoes from the store in town and I have never seen a more satisfactory way of keeping them through the winter. That should answer the gentleman's question fully. Australian papers please copy before my friend's potatoes go bad.

SURPRISE

YOU SEE this bruise I got?" said the little boy from next door, pressing his face against my window just now and exhibiting a large blue lump on the side of his head. "Well, my sister did it. We were playing Ethiokia. She was Mustilini and I was Ethiokia and she jumped on me. We're not going to play Ethiokia any more. You know what I came over to tell you about, well, there's a surprise up at Mr. Pudbury's barn to-day, you couldn't guess, it's so soft and smooth. They're going to call it Mary.

"Well, you know, Silver, the big cow that gives seventeen gallons of milk in the morning and thirty-seven at night, well, it's Silver's calf, Mary is. It came last night. God brought it in airplane, Dennis told me. That's why I've got my cowboy suit on to-day because I'm going up to see the calf that God brought to Silver. Of course, it's only small yet and it doesn't give any milk. Silver is a lot bigger. I don't know yet whether it's a girl or a boy. Silver, he's a boy but he's grown up now. If the calf is a boy they'll have to send it back and change it because boys don't give any milk. Dennis said so, but I don't believe it, because Silver is a boy and he gives a lot of milk, forty-three pints in the morning and seventy-two gallons at night.

"Well, I'm going up to see Silver's baby now. Silver didn't know God was bringing her a baby. I bet it was a big surprise. Just like Christmas."

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

OCTOBER 11, 1910
(From The Times Files)

The one subject of discussion in local political circles is the apparent collapse of the policy enunciated by Premier McBride for the construction of railway lines on Vancouver Island in accordance with the terms of the agreement between the government and Mackenzie and Mann, of the Canadian Northern Railway.

Declaring that the finance committee is a farce, that bills are being attached, and that the civic store is attached, and taht the civic store is more a hindrance than a help, Alderman Bannerman last evening took a fling at the city's finance system, and was rebuked by the mayor for bringing the matter up in a public meeting.

Block laying was resumed on Douglas Street to-day, repairs to the creosote plant having been effected. The work is held up considerably by reason of the delay on the part of the B.C. Electric Company in installing the heavier rails, which are being laid through to Fisguard Street. An early start on the laying of the concrete base on Yates Street, between Douglas and Blanshard Streets, will be made, and this piece of pavement work rushed as fast as possible.

PAID HOLIDAYS

To the Editor: — You may have noticed that the central and upper-island public school teachers' organization are asking their respective boards of trustees for a school holiday on Friday to enable them to hold a convention at Nanaimo on October 24, 25 and 26.

It seems to me this is an opportune time to consider the cost of school holidays to this province, with the object of a substantial reduction.

Out of two hundred teaching days the teacher is paid, there are twenty-seven days' holidays. These paid holidays cost the province an average of $6.10 per day per teacher, or a little over $23,625 for one day's holiday for all the teachers in the province, and for the twenty-seven days' paid holidays of the school year, $637,883.10. Think of it! And this does not take in the thirty-five Saturdays, and they still ask for more paid holidays for this convention. I say it is time we called a halt to at least part of this expenditure.

PUBLIC EXPENDITURE INVESTIGATOR No. 1.

TRADE AND JAPAN

To the Editor:—As one who has watched with considerable concern the development of the ruinous tariff war with Japan, I am much perplexed by the attitude which is being taken by the Liberal speakers in this election campaign.

I understand, from Mr. McDowell's speech on September 30 at the Connaught Seamen's Institute, that the loss of Japanese trade through Conservative tariff policies is likely to cost the province of British Columbia about $6,000,000 to $8,000,000 a year. Yet in the same speech Mr. McDowell attacks the steamship companies for employing Orientals! Moreover, Mr. Alan Chambers, at Chemainus on October 4, repeats these charges, and adds a warning that giving the franchise to Orientals would "add to the seriousness of the situation." Then Mr. McNeill, at Victoria West School on October 1, makes a straight appeal to racial prejudice. Is this the way to increase trade with Japan?

It is well known that the Japanese are an exceptionally proud and sensitive people. Mr. McDowell himself charges the Bennett government with being high-handed in the trade negotiations, and of often not giving the Japanese even the courtesy of a reply to its conciliatory notes. In an editorial of September 24 The Times refers to the hint recently given by Mr. Ginjoro Fujihara, a member of the Japanese House of Peers and president of the Oji Paper Manufacturing Company of Tokio, to the effect that Japan would not suffer much if her export trade to Canada disappeared completely. The official estimates quoted in the same editorial indicate that the loss of British Columbia exports to Japan would directly affect the employment of 3,000 workers, and indirectly that of many more.

Is it likely that the Japanese government, already smarting from the discourtesy shown during the trade negotiations, would put any more faith in the trade promises of a Liberal administration than in those of the present Conservative administration when it knows that both parties have made political capital out of racial prejudice during the election campaign?

MUCH-CONCERNED LIBERAL.

LIQUOR QUESTION

To the Editor:—There have been several letters recently in The Times, and Colonist on the above question; some very amusing, some very interesting and still some not quite so. Therefore I sincerely trust you will be kind and gracious enough to publish this one of mine to add to the piquancy of the situation.

Last month the president of the British Columbia Temperance League gave an address to the W.C.T.U. at Victoria, in which he intimated that Sir Edward Beatty, president of the C.P.R., was actuated by self-interest in suggesting that British Columbia would do well to revise her liquor

ASSISTANCE TO AGRICULTURE

Mr. Bennett at Ormstown, Quebec, June 29, 1930

We must supply the same advantages to agriculture as to other activities. It must be made as profitable as any other profession in which men are employed.

We of the Conservative Party maintain that the Dominion, having control of all systems of taxation, must assist agriculture, understand by scientific study the problems under which we work and get the best returns. And we Conservatives are pledged to see that agriculture receives the same benefits as in days gone by.

Italo-Ethiopian Dispute Analyzed

Huge Crowd Packs Hall in Girls' Central School to Hear Professor Soward Discuss African War Situation: "If You Apply Sanctions You Must Be Ready for War," He Says

Almost twenty-four years ago, Italy made a surprise attack on Turkey and took the colony of Tripoli. This was one of the main factors in bringing on the World War. Will Italy's colonial venture in Ethiopia bring on another world war?" asked Professor H. F. Soward during a lecture on the Wider Implications of the Italo Ethiopian Dispute at Girls' Central School, yesterday evening.

Interest in the African war displaced politics for the moment in public favor as fully 600 people were jammed into the school hall.

Half an hour before the speaker took his place on the platform every chair was occupied, and additional benches had to be brought in. These were soon filled up, and by the time Mr. Soward appeared people were perched in the window sills and were sitting on benches and even on the floor of the platform.

For one and one-half hours the speaker traced the historical side of the question, analysed the attempts at conciliation, and discussed the attitude of the various powers to the question of sanctions. All the time the heat in the crowded hall was rising, and by the time Professor Soward was finished he was visibly perspiring. The audience however disregarded the heat in their intent interest in the lecture.

When Italy began the war against Turkey which resulted in the annexation of Tripoli, it had a democratic form of government. There was one bitter opponent of this imperialist venture—a Socialist who declared that he would rather have an Italy small but free, then an Italy large but stained with blood.

That man was Mussolini, Professor Soward said.

"It is hard to understand a man that can reverse his opinions like that," he said, "In fact it seems likely that Mussolini is mentally deranged and has a delusion of grandeur."

Some time ago the Italian general staff had been asked to get figures on a war with Ethiopia, the speaker said.

WALWAL INCIDENT

In November 1934, the Walwal incident occurred. British and Ethiopians were delineating the frontier when they came upon an Italian force which told them to "get off." The British retired, but the Ethiopians remained and the inevitable clash occurred.

Both governments protested and Ethiopia protested to the League. It so happened that at this time Laval was in Rome conferring with Mussolini. What happened there, what mutual agreements were made, was not known, Professor Soward said, but at any rate it was evident that France did not want to bring the dispute before the League.

The Ethiopians agreed to direct negotiation, but the Ethiopians not only wanted the shooting affray investigated but the whole border question looked into, which the Italians refused to do.

Ethiopia again appealed to the League on March 16. But Europe was more concerned with the German denunciation of the armament treaties to take any notice of the African dispute. The League Council met and postponed the question till May.

Through the efforts of Captain Anthony Eden, the Italian government agreed to bring the matter up at Geneva, so the League had the matter in its hands but did not bring it to a head.

In the middle of June, Eden went to Rome to explain the Anglo-German naval agreement to the Italian government, and while there he suggested that Britain would give certain territory to Ethiopia, if Ethiopia would give a strip of land to Italy. Again Mussolini refused.

In desperation Ethiopia appealed to the United States on July 4. The American government issued a statement hoping that all nations would abide by the Kellogg pact which outlawed war, and the following day, with its tongue evidently in its cheek, ordered the evacuation of Ethiopia by all American citizens.

The three powers then attempted a solution. Britain and France proposed a marked invasion of Ethiopian sovereignty, but Italy was not content.

Then events began to move fast. The British navy began to appear in the Mediterranean. On August 28, the "most momentous" cabinet meeting since the World War was called. The League decided that neither side was to blame for the Walwal skirmish. The Emperor of Ethiopia attempted to sell his oil fields.

NEGOTIATIONS END

By the end of August, negotiations had broken down. At the September meeting of the Lea e of Nations Italy dropped the Walwal question and demanded the expulsion of Ethiopia as a barbarous state.

"It is interesting to note that Italy had pressed Ethiopian entry into the League in 1923 against the British protest that the country was an unorganized state," Prof. Soward said.

A committee of five, Great Britain, France, Russia, Turkey and Poland, took up the question and suggested the reorganization of the government of Ethiopia, but the report was rejected by the Italian government.

Then the annual general meeting of the League of Nations took place.

Prof. Soward decried the fact that no member of the government was on the Canadian delegation to Geneva at such an important time. The Dominion's representatives were so inadequate that they had to bring over the Canadian High Commissioner in London to make the official speech.

ITALY ATTACKED AND ATTACKS

Seventeen nations in turn denounced Italy and supported the covenant of the League. Professor Soward remarked on the brilliant address of Sir Samuel Hoare and read extracts from it. All further hopes of negotiations were shattered by Italy's attack on Ethiopia.

"You notice that there was no declaration of war," the speaker said. "This seems to be one of the improvements in modern diplomacy."

The whole question went back some fifty years, Professor Soward said. Before the war, and even after the massacre of the Italian at Aduwa, the three powers, Britain, France and Italy, had designated spheres of influence in Ethiopia.

Italy had been promised territory, but after the war she was one of the few countries on the victors' side who did not receive colonies.

Professor Soward dealt with the problems of Italy.

Italy had had a tremendous increase in population, but then he pointed out that Italy had striven for this. At any rate it was impossible to cure over-population by immigration and it was doubtful whether Ethiopia was suitable for Europeans.

LACK OF RAW MATERIALS

Italy complained of a lack of access to raw materials. She had to import 99 per cent of her cotton, copper and oil and most of her coal and over half her other metals.

"But Italy does not lack access to raw materials," Professor Soward said. "She can get them wherever she wants. Other countries are only too willing to sell."

"Those who talk glibly about the wonders of Fascist finance do not seem to realise that Italy has not had a balanced budget since 1930," he continued.

Italy was a poor country. The average income was about two-thirds that of France, and a quarter that of Britain. The Italian debt had increased 50 per cent between 1932 and 1934, and it had been met by forced conversion.

Aside from these factors, Professor Soward felt that not enough importance had been given to that side of imperialism, which made a nation embark on a colonial expedition from sheer pride. Italian youth had been taught to glorify war.

Then there was the rising colored problem. Since 1914 the challenge to white supremacy had been greater than ever before. By this unprovoked attack on Ethiopia, the hatred of whites had been heatened throughout the colored world.

BAD BLOW TO WHITE RACES

Win or lose, Italy has given the white race a bad blow, Dubois, famous American negro had said.

The League had had a fair amount of success in keeping peace in Europe during the first ten years, but since 1931 it had fallen down. If the League failed again, it would be the end, Professor Soward said.

"Then we will have anarchy, or go forward after anarchy to a world state," he declared.

"If you apply sanctions," the speaker said, "You must go the full limit. Pin prick sanctions are not only useless, but dangerous. If you are going to adopt sanctions you must expect war."

He dealt with the various types of negative sanctions, financial embargo, refusal of Italian exports, ban on goods to Italy, and positive sanctions, the raising of the embrago on munitions to Ethiopia, loans, and finally force.

Professor Soward dealt with the attitude of the various powers on the matter of sanctions. The British Empire was solidly for the League. Labor had joined Liberal and Conservative in advocating sanctions.

France distrusted British policy. She felt that the Anglo-German naval agreement split the solid front against Germany. Then there was an internal crisis, with Fascist Croix de Feu ranged against the huge Popular Front of Socialists and Communists.

One nation stood to gain by sanctions, the speaker said. That was Germany. For the first time the powers that opposed her were divided. She would probably demand colonies or a loan for her neutrality.

The U.S.S.R. was in favor of collective action, while Japan sympathised with Ethiopia, but was more exultant over the removal of European powers from the Far East.

In the United States there was a tremendous revulsion against war. Congress had forced the President to prohibit sales of munitions to both belligerents, but the test of their sincerity would come if they prohibited the sale of cotton, oil and wheat as well. There was a large body of American opinion which was impressed by the dream of collective action at Geneva.

"If collective action wins, there must be peace without victory," declared Professor Soward.

J. L. Watson was elected president of the University Extension Association before the address. Miss J. Cann and Miss M. Barker were appointed vice-president and secretary respectively. J. A. Heritage, former president, was in the chair until Mr. Watson took over his duties.

Reconstruction Views Given

Tackle Present Monetary System on Social Credit Lines

Stating that Hon. H. H. Stevens offered by his reconstruction programme a medium through which the present monetary system of government could be successfully tackled with a view to building up a system more or less on Social Credit lines, Aubrey Clark, Reconstructionist candidate in the Nanaimo riding, outlined the Reconstruction Party platform in his first political speech at Lake Hill Community Hall last night in support of the Stevens group.

The speaker said that the Social Credit or "terminal money" policy, aimed to cut down the excess of exports over imports, and in this way was a direct contradiction to the platform of the Bennett group. He blamed the present serious economic condition of the country upon the monetary policy of the present government. The present condition of Canada, he said, warranted a party on reconstruction lines with Social Credit aims. "The capitalistic system is out of date," Mr. Clark commented.

Labor and engineering and not finance produced the only valuable things in the world. Therefore, a government on engineering lines with the assistance of labor offered the most satisfactory solution to the problem.

"LAW OF THE JUNGLE"

The speaker touched on what he termed as the "law of the jungle," which he explained was unemployment caused by unfair competition in business. He stated that he would not embrace any system which would take away any of the things enjoyed by any man, woman or child under the present system, and in this way his policy differed from the C.C.F., which group, he said, he believed to be a product of the "law of the jungle."

Reconstruction on the Social Credit lines, he claimed, would abolish taxes and reduce the possibility of inflation to a nothingness. He said the idea of the Stevens group was to print enough money or its equivalent to equal production. Social Credit would not hinder individual effort to make money, he stated.

Percy George claimed that Mr. Stevens, with no ulterior motive other than that of the good of the country, had exposed the sweatshops as at present existing under the "money barons." In this way Mr. Stevens had ruined himself in regard to his chances in the Senate.

Mr. George stated that the Reconstruction Party, if elected, would have no hastily-made promises to fulfill in the way that Liberal or Conservative governments would have.

Frank Patridge pointed out that Mr. Clark was a technical man, an engineer, presenting a technological solution to the present problems of government. Mr. Partridge stressed the unselfishness of Mr. Stevens in breaking away from the Conservative group to work for something which would bring him no gain directly or indirectly.

He said that there was no need for the party whip which had been so much in use. There was need for honest conviction and that Reconstructionists were prepared to exercise such conviction at Ottawa. He claimed that the fact that Mr. Stevens, being a western man, was a decided asset in his understanding of western conditions.

Mr. Bennett and his government were victims of the present monetary system, Mr Partridge claimed, and there was such an interlocking of policy in the Liberal and Conservative groups as to warrant to some extent their failure when in office to execute their promises.

Brighten up with ALL-BRAN!

You've had days when you've felt discouraged and low. Nothing seemed to go right. Frequently these dreary days can be traced to common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in your meals.

This ailment may cause headaches and loss of energy. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and food-iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables. It is gentle—and often more effective. Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines—often harmful?

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Brighten days with ALL-BRAN! Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

LAYETTE FUND AIDED BY TEA

Mrs. R. W. McClung Hostess to Gordon Head Women Yesterday Afternoon

About seventy-five Gordon Head women gathered at the home of Mrs. R. W. McClung, Ferndale Road, yesterday afternoon for the very successful tea held under the auspices of the committee organized by Gordon Head women in aid of raising funds for carrying on the making of layettes to be distributed by the Saanich Health Department as needed.

GIRL GUIDES HELP

This is the third consecutive year that this committee, headed by Mrs. Ursula Ley and Mrs. J. P. Walker, has carried on this work. It was due to the efforts of the newly-formed Gordon Head Girl Guide Association that such a large number of persons attended. During the week the Guides called at all the homes in the district and presented invitations to the women.

Mrs. McClung was assisted in her duties of hostess by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Horace McClung. The reception rooms were lovely with autumn flowers, flowers also decorating the daintily-appointed table at which Mrs. E. H. Mitchell and Miss Bruce, a former public health nurse, presided.

During the afternoon Miss Bertha Jenkins, R.N., supervisor of nurses for the Saanich health department, spoke of the value of the work that the committee is doing. She emphasized the need of the community's co-operation in assisting the needy members of the community.

LIBRARY SORELY NEEDED

Mrs. McClung spoke of the value of neighborliness as a community bond and inspiration. She also touched upon the value of reading good books and in this connection spoke of the need of library facilities in the district. Mrs. Peter McNaughton supplemented Mrs. McClung's address with an appeal for the return of library privileges to Saanich, this being particularly essential to the children.

The announcement that Mrs. McClung had kindly offered to conduct a current events and reading group in the district for an hour twice a month during the winter was received with enthusiasm. At the close of the afternoon the hostesses were warmly thanked for their hospitality.

Bishop Sexton to Address A.Y.P.A.

Under the auspices of St. John's A.Y.P.A. a fellowship hour will be held in St. John's schoolroom after the evening service on Sunday. Due to the great popularity of these affairs last season, it has been decided to run them monthly throughout the winter season. The programme consists of the singing of well-known hymns interspersed with other musical numbers. As a special feature Bishop Coadjutor Sexton will give an address Refreshments will be served by the members of the social committee to bring the evening to a close. A cordial invitation is extended to all A.Y.P.A. members and friends to attend.

France's revenues for this year are now expected to be much less than estimated in the budget.

With the beautiful Harvest Festival decorations as a background, the Church of Our Lord, Free Church of England, was the scene of a quiet wedding yesterday evening at 9 o'clock, when Rev. A. de B. The bride was attractively gowned in blue flat crepe with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of carnations, pale pink rosebuds and sweet peas. Mrs. Brooks gave her daughter in marriage, and Mr. John Anderson, an old friend of the family, supported the bridegroom.

WOMEN'S WORKROOM MUST CARRY ON, REPORTS SHOW

Elderly and Ailing Women Find Haven There; $10,032.20 Paid Out to Them in Daily Wages Last Year

With seventy-two women in necessitous circumstances employed in the Women's Workroom at present, the majority of whom are either handicapped by age or physical disability from competing in the labor market, the need to carry on this work is as great as ever. This need was emphasized in the excellent reports presented at the annual general meeting yesterday evening, and pressed an early appeal to the generous public for further funds to ensure its continuance.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Mrs. Taylor presented the audited financial statement showing receipts during the year to have amounted to $11,244.26, made up as follows:

Cash donations, $3783.82; tag day, $625.53; city direct relief, $4,217.30; workroom and shop sales, $2,191.12; Saanich relief, $389.69; bank interest, $36.80.

Disbursements included $10,032.20 in wages to the women, representing 50,000 hours' work; salaries, $1,320.00; material, $328.25; general expense, $104.13; total, $11,784.58.

$46,547 IN WAGES

Miss Wigley, convener of the finance committee, noted that both appeals made last year had met generous response, and made it possible to carry on for the fourth year. In all, $46,547 has been paid out in wages to women in necessitous circumstances during the last four years. As the wages are paid daily, the money immediately goes back into circulation, she continued.

But with only enough funds left to carry on for two months, it was necessary to appeal again for funds, as the cost of operation is $1,000 a month, and the need of these women is as great as ever. Miss Wigley tendered the thanks of the committee to Mr. R. H. B. Ker, who has provided the workroom premises free, and to the host of generous friends whose support had made it possible to carry on.

Mr. Wynne Griffiths, provincial relief administrator, who was present, commended the committee on the very efficient and economical running of the Women's Workroom.

SAVED FROM BREAKDOWN

Mrs. Sills, manager of the workroom, noted that there had been sixteen admissions since last October, of whom ten have since left either through obtaining steady employment or other reasons. During the year twenty-eight had left, owing to their circumstances improving by getting jobs or other assistance.

"It is so hard," she said, "to help people who are wrapped up in unhappiness and worry, but when they become interested in their work and companions, and their minds are at rest about the money necessary for their day's food, it is easier for them to cheer up." One of the workers had told her that it was impossible to realize how many persons were being saved from complete breakdown by the help and sympathy they had had from the Workroom.

SHOP CARRIES ON

The shop is still justifying its existence, Mrs. Alex. Gillespie reported, showing that about $12 a week profit is made over its expenses and turned into the workroom.

She announced that a material shower would be held on Thursday, November 7, from 3 to 6 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Alan Morkill, Pemberton Road, when donations of material or clothing will be gratefully welcomed.

Total sales for the year were $1,375.12, of which $623.92 went in wages, light, etc., leaving a balance of $751.20 handed to the workroom treasurer.

NUMBER EMPLOYED

During September seventy-two women were employed in the room and seventy-two orders were taken for articles to be made, Mrs. J. W. Gibson, the workroom convener, reported. Orders had been filled for the Friendly Help Welfare Association and the Aged Men's Home.

Mrs. Denton Holmes reported eleven parcels given to the Esquimalt Friendly Help, eleven parcels to the Saanich Welfare Association and parcels to the Red Cross.

Mrs. C. Swayne of the employment committee, stated that the present inmates are mostly too old or otherwise unable to compete in the labor market, owing to ill-health.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Mrs. Alan Morkill, retiring president, paid tribute to the untiring work of the officers and conveners, to Mrs. Sills, manager; Mrs. Thorne, supervisor, and Mrs. Dodds, dressmaker at the workroom, whose co-operation had contributed so much to the harmonious and smooth running of the workroom.

Mrs. P. B. Scurrah moved the warm appreciation of the gathering to Mrs. Morkill for her able leadership over the last two years, coupled with regret at her retirement from the presidency.

Miss M. A. Wigley was elected president by acclamation in succession to Mrs. Alan Morkill, who retired from that office. Other officers chosen were: Secretary, Miss Lola Maxwell; treasurer, Mrs. R. R. Taylor; conveners om subcommittees: Finance, Miss M. A. Wigley; shop, Mrs. Alex. Gillespie; workroom, Mrs. J. W. Gibson; distribution of used clothing, Mrs. C. The pioneer of Alaska was known as a "sourdough" because of his habit of keeping a batch of sour dough on hand as a "starter" for his flapjacks. At night, he kept the crock of dough in his bed, so that his body heat would keep the mixture warm.

Institute Conference Passes Resolution at Session; Mrs. T. C. Robson Again Chosen President; Dean Clement and Dr. K. C. MacDonald Spoke Yesterday

Mrs. T. C. Robson of Vimy W.I., was re-elected president of the South Saanich district board at the closing session of the Women's Institute conference at the Parliament Buildings this morning.

Other officers chosen were: Vice-president, Mrs. J. L. White, Victoria; secretary, Mrs. W. S. Webster, Lake Hill; directors, Miss Savory, Langford; and Mrs. S. Dunnett, Royal Oak.

JUBILEE MEDAL

A resolution was passed deploring the fact that the Women's Institutes were not honored through their superintendent, Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, when the Jubilee medals were awarded in connection with the Silver Jubilee honors recently. A copy of the resolution will be forwarded to Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture.

The institute board presented its report, which was followed by much interesting discussion, and a report was also presented of the Othoa Scott Trust fund.

Yesterday the delegates and board members were guests at luncheon of the Langford, Royal Oak, Colwood, and Esquimalt Institutes.

DEAN CLEMENT

Dean Clement of the University of British Columbia, addressed the conference and spoke of the proposal to institute a university extension scheme at the U.B.C.

The economic pattern had been changing and shifting so rapidly in recent years as to bring about a revolution in methods of education. The speaker briefly sketched the changes in conditions in Canada since the beginning of the century, when everything was developing, the trend was westward, and prosperity was general.

Since then the west had 40,000 boys and girls to take care of annually, seeking jobs which are not to be found in the east, and the U.S.A. is closed to them. Hence the problem is a social and economic one, and in his opinion the solution lies in individual effort, with a measure of government assistance.

COLLECTIVE THINKING

Many students were realizing that collective thinking might help to bring about a solution of some of to-day's problems and they were turning to the sociological rather than to the material and mechanical, Dean Clement observed.

The Dean pointed out that as the world is increasing its food products through the use of machinery and through biological research, so a number of countries are, through increasing tendencies to birth control, coming to the place where their population may become stationary. Hence there may arise a situation requiring the eating of more refined foods, as a means of coping with the question of increasing food supplies and a decreasing consumer body.

CANADA'S TRADE

Reference was also made to the question of Canada's export trade. The speaker sees more hope in the extension of Empire trade than in attempts to secure world markets for Canadian products. Many of the countries outside of the empire, had developed a self-supporting policy as in France, Germany and Italy, which had shut out Canadian wheat and other products. Great Britain had also become a "protectionist" country, thus taking less from the world's markets.

MARKETING ACT

Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, reviewed the Marketing Act, enumerating the functions of the Federal boards in relation to the provinces and the powers of the provincial boards.

The minister spoke of the criticisms directed at the Marketing Act, but reminded his hearers that any legislation destined to control must inevitably work hardship on some, while benefitting the majority of the producers. In every scheme the producers had derived some benefit, while the consumers had not suffered, he declared, in the matter of spread and setting of prices.

ORIENTAL PROBLEM

Some of the difficulties arising in the enforcement of the act were recalled, particularly among the Orientals who are unwilling to respect laws made in this direction, and who, especially on the lower mainland, had frequently attempted to break the market.

This resentment on the part of the Oriental at any attempted domination of the market had brought home the need for some other legislation to meet this particular situation, observed the minister. Ottawa had no comprehension of the Oriental problem in this province, he observed.

Dr. MacDonald showed the ramifications of the Minimum Wage Act as they affected the setting up of prices under the Marketing Act citing the difficulties of stabilizing the price of tomatoes as an example. The public, not realizing these difficulties, could not understand why prices of certain commodities seemed high.

The constitution of the boards, some members of which had little experience of merchandising problems, was also in need of change in the opinion of the minister, who suggested that the Federal authorities should have some share in the appointment of the provincial boards. The method of financing of the boards was also unsatisfactory under the present set-up, in his opinion.

Dr. MacDonald reviewed the milk marketing situation in the Fraser Valley, and spoke of the problems in the fruit-growing centres of the province.

Mrs. W. Peden spoke of the splendid knitted articles supplied to the Solarium by the institutes, Miss Stone, the lady superintendent, having spoken in most appreciative terms of their very generous gifts along this line.

Sewing Meeting—Homemaking committee of the Women of the Moose, Victoria Chapter No. 25, will hold a sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. L. Quaintance, 1175 Yates Street, Friday, October 11. Any articles finished for bazaar are asked to be turned in, also any member attending having odd bits of colored oilcloth at home are requested to bring them for making up of novelties.

BESSBOROUGHS REACH HOME

Ex-Governor-General and Family Welcomed at English Estate

Canadian Press Cable

Stansted Park, ampshire, Eng., Oct. 11.—The Earl and Countess of Bessborough and their family received a cordial welcome from employees of their estate when they returned last night to their home, Stanstead Park.

The Earl has just completed his term as Governor-General of Canada.

Flags waved as the Bessboroughs' car passed beneath an archway of foliage bearing the word "Welcome." An address of welcome was presented.

Parents and children from the estate were entertained at tea and a bonfire concluded the celebrations.

SHAKESPEARE PLAY FILMED

New Yorkers Pay $11 to See "Midsummer Night's Dream"

New York, Oct. 10.—Will Shakespeare's gnomes romped over a silver screen on blase Broadway last night.

Those who didn't attend read favorable reviews of Max Reinhardt's production in their morning newspapers.

The novelty of the performance, attended by many celebrities impressed Manhattan, but motion picture critics were quick to see behind the mechanical devices used in the Warner Brother Version.

The Times said the Najinska ballet "evokes not the fairy attendants of Oberon and Titania, but pretty girls in white gauze and sturdy gentlemen with wings strapped to their shoulders."

WOMEN URGED TO USE VOTE

D. B. Plunkett Addresses Women's Conservative Association on Bennett Policies

An earnest appeal to the women to use their franchise in Monday's election was made by D. B. Plunkett, Conservative candidate, in his address before the Women's Conservative Association yesterday evening. Mrs. Kate Palmer, the president, was in the chair, and others on the platform were Mr. Plunkett, Mrs. F. P. Burden, Mrs. R. F. Green and Hugh Allan, president of the Conservative Association.

Declaring that Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett not only stood behind all his statements but had a constructive and practical programme to offer, Mr. Plunkett pointed to the bewildering statements heard from the opposing parties.

Refutation of Mr. Mackenzie King's statements concerning the alleged detrimental effect of the trade policies of the Bennett administration was to be found in The London Daily Express comment to the effect that Canada, whose trade had climbed up 2 per cent during the last month, was one of the nations moving most rapidly out of the depression, Mr. Plunkett noted.

The speaker also took issue with Mr. King's criticism of the handling of the wheat situation and his proposals concerning the Japanese treaty. The house-building programme advocated by C. J. McDowell, Liberal candidate for Victoria, also came in for criticism, Mr. Plunkett claiming the Conservatives had inaugurated this policy in the interests of poor men, not rich.

The C.C.F. talked much about a "planned economy," but they never seemed to tell how they were going to accomplish this. Mr. Plunkett thought the Central Bank was functioning quite satisfactorily.

Mrs. F. P. Burden and Hugh Allen also spoke in support of Mr. Bennett's programme.

A short programme of music and recitations was enjoyed, those taking part being Miss May Waugh and Miss Gladys Shrapnel, piano solos; Miss Doris Fallows, violin solos, and Ernie Impett, humorous songs.

Mrs. A. Rhode has returned home after a short stay in Victoria with her neice, Mrs. B. McLean.

Mrs. J. McPhee is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. Rhode.

Master K. Duncan has returned after visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Miller.

AUTHORS ENJOY MRS. D. M. DUNCAN

Mrs. D. M. Duncan, principal of St. Margaret's School, was the chief speaker before the Victoria and Island branch, Canadian Authors, yesterday evening, when the president, Miss M. Eugenie Perry, presided.

Mrs. Duncan dealt with the life and works of the modern American poet, Edwin Arlington Robinson, about whom comparatively little is known though he has been three times winner of the Pulitzer prize, and his poems are of a very high order, comparable to those of Masefield. A disciple of Hardy, Robinson has been accused of pessimism, agnosticism and despair; the speaker found his poems filled with an anxious questing and discovered in them a core of divinity.

Extracts were read from "Children of the Night," "Man Against the Sky" and "Flamande." From the latter poem Drinkwater has largely quoted, and it was shown to be filled with colorful beauty and extraordinary lucidity and simplicity. Mrs. Duncan was thanked at the close of her interesting address by Mrs. Floris MacLaren and Rev. J. P. Hicks.

Some extracts from the experiences of Major F. V. Longstaff while in England recently were read to the meeting, the major himself being unavoidably absent. Major Longstaff, it was noted, has been made a member of the Incorporated Society of Authors, Playwrights and Composers. He referred to the honor conferred upon Capt. R. P. Bishop of Victoria by the Royal Geographic Society in recognition of his work in British Columbia.

Mr. C. C. Pemberton spoke of Major Longstaff's having been entrusted with a stone from Canterbury Cathedral to be incorporated in the new Christ Church Cathedral here.

Piano numbers by Miss Audrey Wood and two Drummond poems recited by Rev. E. F. Church, gave pleasure.

Miss Dorothy Crighton announced on behalf of the Drama Festival Committee the changes in adjudication plans.

A children's hour is being prepared by Miss Wood, Miss Crighton and Miss Pauline Rooks, to be held on Saturdays at St. Christopher's School, when the best in children's literature will be presented in song and story and illustrated by puppets. A different country to be staged each month.

Letters from the national secretary, Howard Angus Kennedy, referred to the coming of Lord Tweedmuir, who has accepted the hon. presidency of the Canadian Authors' Association.

Colfax Rebekah Lodge—An appeal is made to all members of Colfax Rebekah Lodge to leave any warm, wearable clothing for children, or to make over, at the lodge hall on or before Saturday, October 12. The garments are to be sent to distressed members in the interior of British Columbia. For further particulars phone G 7495.

A good musical programme is being arranged.

Vernon Villa Auxiliary — At the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Vernon Villa, the president, Miss McKay presiding, it was decided to hold a membership tea on October 30 at the home of Mrs. K. T. Hughes, 1259 Richardson Street, Miss E. O'Brien to act as general convener. All who are interested in working for tubercular patients may assist in this way and may obtain further particulars by phoning E 1540. The Auxiliary will meet again in the Sisters' Recreation Rooms at Vernon Villa on November 12.

Tuckabatchee Club—The October meeting of the Tuckabatchee Club of the First Baptist Church was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. M. Smith, Ivy Street. The club had as its guests the graduate C.G.I.T. girls of the Oriental Home, with their leader, Miss Mossop. A short business session was held, followed by a devotional period led by Miss Mary Reynolds and a short book review given by Miss Minnie Beveridge. Mrs. C. C. Spofford gave an interesting talk on the "Present-day Temperance Question." Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable evening was brought to a close with a sing-song, accompanied by Miss Ruth McIntosh.

Seaman's Institute—Registering at Victoria Connaught Seamen's Institute during the past month were 230 men and fifty-three apprentice boys, and seventeen ships were visited to which the usual supplies of magazines and papers were given. Mrs. W. R. Sayer presided at yesterday's monthly meeting held at the Institute, Superior Street, and members heard the reports of the various activities as outlined by Mrs. H. Day, secretary, and Madame Claudet, treasurer. Miss de Trafford, wool convener, reported an interested knitting committee and a goodly supply of socks, etc., to be in readiness for Christmas. The annual bridge tea in celebration of the birthday of Victoria Connaught Seamen's Institute will be held on Wednesday, November 20, in the large hall of the Institute. Mrs. D. R. Kerr, assisted by Mrs. Albert Griffiths, will be in charge of the bridge, and Mrs. E. Vernon Thomson, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Young, will convene the tea. Members of the committee will also assist both conveners. After her report on hospital visiting, Mrs. Finmore was thanked for her untiring devotion to the cause of the sailors in hospital.

Mrs. Lewis Patt and infant son have returned home from Victoria.

METROPOLITAN Y.P.S.

Metropolitan Young People's opened their regular weekly meeting on Monday evening with a sing-song. Miss Doris Smith then held worship service.

The feature of the evening was an interesting illustrated lecture given by Rev. W. Harkness, Vancouver, of the British and Foreign Bible Society. To commemorate the printing of the first Bible in England four hundred years ago this month, Mr. Harkness traced the history of the Bible, "The World's Best Seller" from its beginning with slides to illustrate his topic.

Group meetings were held to plan for "Political Fireworks," the theme for next Monday evening's meeting.

The BLUE DOOR

"Changed for the better," John McNeill answered coolly.

Penny remarked, "She hasn't made as big a woman as I thought she'd make. She was always an over-tall child, and well filled out too."

John put his head on one side, considering this. "Let's see—how old were you when you visited here last?"

"Twelve," Ruth replied glibly. To herself she observed, 'Bright girl! I know the answers—so far."

"And I was sixteen," John McNeill said thoughtfully.

"I was in love with you," Ruth remarked audaciously. "You were too old to notice me much, but I was crazy about you just the same." (She thought, "Whatever made me say that!")

Penny said with a cackle, "Yes, you were, Miss Elaine! You used to follow him around everywhere, makin' eyes at him. Such airs as you put on, to get him to notice you!"

John McNeill laughed and joined Penny in looking back through the years. "But I noticed she was a good-looking kid," he confessed.

"I remember I said to my mother, 'Give Elaine Chalmers four or five years and she'll be a professional heart-breaker. She's got something—' "

"It seems to me her hair looks darker," Penny stated. "Her mother's hair turned dark that way, too, though not so noticeable."

Ruth thought, "Why have I gotten into this thing! In just a minute something's going to break—"

But nothing was said, and nothing broke. John McNeill turned the conversation form the past to the present, as if that alone interested him. "I'm on my way to work now," he remarked, "but all days must end. Could I invite myself to dinner to-night, Penny, if I brought a steak and cooked it myself?"

Penny said, "Why, yes, Mr. John. But shouldn't you bring your mother, too?"

"Mother's out of town," he answered, "visiting Aunt Sarah in Scranton." (Ruth realized she had been holding her breath.) "So you see it's charity for you to take me n."

As he left he said to Ruth, "No more fainting! Promise?"

She laughed. "I was just like a gay nineties heroine last-night, wasn't I? I can't imagine what made me do it!"

He looked at her curiously. "You seemed pretty tired," was all he said.

After he had gone Penny seemed to want to talk, but Ruth set about evading her. John McNeill's visit had caused Ruth to abandon all thought of the confession she had been on the verge of making. She thought, "It would spoil the little party to-night. It would spoil everything. I'm going to be Elaine for a few hours longer. It's the nicest thing that ever happened to me!"

So when Penny said, after a while, "Excuse me, Miss Elaine, but does your stepfather, Mr. Deal, say anything more about selling the house?" Ruth replied cannily, "I think it's best for us not to discuss things like that, Penny."

She felt contrite when she saw how rebuked the old creature looked, so she exclaimed hastily, "That funny nickname 'Penny'! How did you get that? I've forgotten."

"Why," the old woman answered, diverted, "it happened when you were just a little tot. I gave you pennies for your bank because you had a fancy for dropping them in. Every time you dropped in a penny a little iron man stepped out and saluted. So you called me 'Penny! Penny'!"

Ruth laughed absently, but she was looking at her hands. "I meant to ask you, Penny—have you any turpentine? I've got blue paint on my hands. It must have come off the door last night. I didn't realize it was freshly painted when I was pounding on it—"

"Oh!" cried the old woman reproachfully. "You've scarred the door!"

She looked so stricken that Ruth said quickly, "If I have, I'll repair the damage. Have you any paint left?"

"Oh, yes," Penny said queerly. "But the quarter moon's past. I'll have to wait now—"

That was the first intimation Ruth had that the old woman was "touched," that mystery as well as pathos dwelt under this roof. . . . Penny hobbled quickly to the porch and Ruth could see her, through the prismatic glass of the side panels, rubbing the door with her sleeve and squinting at it anxiously.

CHAPTER IX

After a bath in the big, old-fashioned bathroom that opened off her bedroom, Ruth dressed herself with great care. She put on the white linen blouse she had bought en route and set her naturally curly, short hair with the aid of a comb and a few hairpins.

She thought hopefully, 'If a strange man admired me while I was sitting on a park bench looking dejected, why shouldn't John McNeill admire me when I'm sitting across the table from him looking happy?"

For she was happy.

Even though her future was as obscure and unpromising as a young woman's future can very well be, Ruth was happy in the midst of this strange and piquant adventure which had befallen her. For a few fleeting hours she was playing the role—and playing it convincingly—of a girl who has everything.

"No matter how drab and commonplace life is for me after to-day," she reminded herself. "I'll always have this funny little interlude to remember."

Yet even as she hummed a tune and anticipated John McNeill's arrival, her thoughts were beginning to grapple with the problem of to-morrow. . . . She would leave at dawn, walking out the wide, tree-shaded street that led to Cleveland. She'd manage to get a ride in that direction.

"Other girls do it," she told herself, "and no harm done. All you need is nerve and a level head. I'll develop both after I've knocked around a while." She was not letting herself be too helpful of finding that mythical "Girls' Industrial League" which only yesterday she had been pursuing. Things like that, she realized now, were too good to be true. She would look for the place in Cleveland, but if no such shelter could be found, then she would fight tooth and nail to win a decent existence by some other means.

John McNeill was arriving!

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

THE TIME HAS COME TO BEGIN USE OF COD LIVER OIL

I would not need to look at a calendar to know when certain seasons were imminent or had arrived. I would need only the questions pertinent to the season to warn me of its approach. Right now the foremost query is: "I gave my baby cod liver oil all last winter, shall I start again now?"

The answer to this question is, "Yes," though, in the choosing of a vitamin D product, the doctor's advice should be asked. (This department does not give advice on medical subjects, merely suggests to mothers what is being done for modern babies in the way of health care and disease prevention.)

SUN SUBSTITUTES

To help mothers understand the differences in some of the familiar types of vitamin D products we have a leaflet, "Cod Liver Oil, Super D Oils and the Viosterols." The leaflet, may be had for a stamped and self addressed envelope sent, with a request for it by title, to Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper. The dosages must be left to the physician.

The object of giving vitamin D throughout the growing period is fairly well known to the mother. The human organism needs sunshine. Sunshine on the bare skin acts upon the oil in the skin so that it produces vitamin D. Vitamin D, in turn, helps the body to make use of the minerals, which are supplied by the diet, so that they are stored generously in bones and teeth and nervous system.

BONES NEED MINERALS

Minerals are necessary so that bones may be strong enough to bear up under weight and pressure without bending. Teeth need minerals so that they will not be crumbly and decay. The nervous system needs minerals, or the child becomes irritable, its muscular movements jerky and convulsive. One can see readily that the results of mineral deprivation are bent and deformed bones, delayed or imperfect teeth and, in the most aggravated cases, convulsions. These symptoms, when several are present, have been grouped under the heading "rickets," a disease caused by a mineral deficiency.

During those seasons when, because of the temperature, the child is prevented from enjoying sunshine on the bare skin, the use of vitamin D, in some form, is considered to be an able substitute.

To-morrow: "Selfishness Inspires Child to Treat Adults Like Menials."

Qu-Alex Club—The regular meeting of the Qu-Alex Girls' Club will be held on Monday, October 14, at the home of the Misses K. and M. Bowden, 1034 Southgate Street, at 8 p.m. All members are requested to attend.

Refuses to Annul Mixed Marriage

Canadian Press

Montreal, Oct. 11.—Rt. Rev. John Farthing, Anglican Bishop of Montreal, said last night he was "delighted to hear" Mr. Justice Frank Curran had refused in superior court Wednesday to annul a mixed marriage of a Roman Catholic and a Protestant performed by a Protestant minister.

Authorities of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese declined to comment on the judgment.

Mr. Justice Curran basel his ruling on a finding of the Supreme Court of Canada in refusing the annulment. It was sought by Wilma Carmichael of Montreal, who was married to James Milton Kent of Narberth, Penn., on the sole ground she is a Roman Catholic and her husband a Protestant.

The couple was married in Montreal by Rev. S. J. Pike, of the Mountain Street United Church in 1932. Plaintiff claimed the union was contrary to canon law.

An ecclesiastical decree has been granted by the authorities of the Roman Catholic archdiocese. The civil judgment does not affect the decree.

COMMUNISTS HOLD MEETING

"Vote for King Gordon," Bob Lealess Advises Audience

The communists had their campaign "show" at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening. It proved to be one of the quietest large meetings of the current federal campaign.

Chairman William White said the Communist Party always led the valiant struggle of the workers for their alleviation and had never betrayed the workers in the fight for their emancipation.

"Why is it that these people with hysterical tirades are such haters of the working class?" he asked.

Bob Lealess of Vancouver said that during the period of prosperity in Canada from 1921 to 1930, the index of production rose from 125 to 145, the national wealth increased by $8,600,000,000, but the average wages of the workers in Canada remained the same, being $1,002 in 1921 and $1,001 in 1930.

"Since 1929 during the Bennett regime the wages of the workers have been reduced 50 per cent," Mr. Lealess said. "The wages of the working class in 1929 were $3,800,000,000. By 1932 they had dropped to $1,600,000,000. What does this mean? It means that the standard of living of the working class has gone back to what it was at the beginning of the century, while the production of the country during the same period has increased by seven times.

"We communists say Canada has a home market to be developed. It can only be done by giving the workers a greater share in production. Only in that way can the depression be solved instead of shipping our products to foreign lands—lumber, for instance, going to Japan while there are people here without a roof over their heads.

"TO MAKE THE RICH PAY"

"Our slogan in this campaign is to make the rich pay; they have been making the workers pay long enough. Too long have these people lived off the workers. We say there should be a moratorium on the national debt. The rich got richer and fat at home during the war while others went to fight, and since the war they have been getting richer and richer while we have been losing our homes and farms."

Premier Bennett, he said, had been getting richer and richer, having added $14,000,000 to his fortune since he had been in office. He denied the truth of the statement that Mr. Bennett had gained his wealth solely by work.

Mr. Lealess laughed at the statement of Mr. Bennett that the relief camp workers planned to take him a hostage and set up a Soviet at Ottawa. He said Mr. Bennett had stated this only to throw dust in the eyes of the people. He said the workers of Canada were not out for revolution as they were not ready for it. The immediate objective was to close up the ranks of the working class and gain solidarity.

As for Mr. Bennet's unemployment insurance scheme, Mr. Lealess said the scale provided for less than the present relief scale. He pointed out many groups were excluded from the bill's operation and there were restrictions so as to make it a non-workers' insurance measure.

Mr. Lealess declared Communists were fighting in accordance with British traditions against oppression, just as at Runnymede and in Cromwell's time. He said that the so-called patriots had passed such measures as the Special Powers' Act, which were the denial of the principle of parliamentary government.

"We are not the foreigners; we are helping the workers to fight for their rights," Mr. Lealess went on. "The foreigners are the rich."

WARNS AGAINST FASCISM

He warned that Fascism could come to Canada just as it had in such a cultured country as Germany. He said Communists would continue to defend the democratic rights of the people.

Mr. Lealess said that the Communist party was supposed to be first supporting the Conservatives, then the Liberals and then the C.C.F. He said it had been reported that the Communist party had been financed by the Conservatives. He denied any cheques had been received as stated by Dr. Telford.

As for the attitude of Communists in Victoria, he said they favored support of King Gordon not because the Communists saw eye to eye with him but as a step in the battle against the old-line parties. The proposal had been made that the workers should vote for Mr. Bennett so as to intensify the conditions of discontent and more speedily provoke a crisis, but he did not agree with this.

"We say the people of Canada are not yet ready for a Soviet," Mr. Lealess said. "We want to help the people along to make that step. If you are not ready to accept the Communists, then support the C.C.F.

He said the Communists were running Malcolm Bruce against Angus McInnes; C.C.F., in Vancouver East because Mr. McInnes was not out for a united front on the part of the workers.

"Vote for the Conservative Party, Dr. Telford says," Mr. Lealess went on, "but we know the Conservatives can never get us anything. The only thing to do is to vote against the old party candidates."

He said the C.C.F. was split into left, centre and right wings.

"We are sorry to state King Gordon has not acceded to our demands, but we don't want to see the forces further divided," he said. "Don't waste your vote by spoiling it, but vote for King Gordon, although we differ from him at present. Destroying the ballot will only assist the other parties. How did we get self-government in Canada against the ruling class except by bitter struggle."

He declared King Gordon was mistaken when he referred to the Communists as "misled and misguided," as the Communists were not out for revolution and organizing strikes.

Hens Kroeger emphasized the necessity of the working classes to unite to defeat the capitalist parties. He declared Mr. Bennett's policy was one of Fascism, or a near approach to it. He said that Section 98 would remain on the statute books as long as the Conservatives were in power and it would remain just the same if the Liberals were in power. Mr. Bennett had made no bones about his intention to uphold the capitalist system by use of force and violence.

"The open season for Communists is on and they are using every sort of ammunition to damn the Communists, covering their bullet with a little bit of Christianity," Mr. Kroeger said. "One of the duds they are shooting against the Communists is that they are a godless people and that makes a hit with many who still have some illusions. What does Mr. McGeer know about God when he stands up before 1,500 people and says he was proud to be able to read the Riot Act. If that is Christianity, I don't want to hear it."

Mr. Kroeger said that local Communists had interviewed King Gordon and asked him whether he would accept the five points of the United Front, which he would not. Mr. Kroeger went on to explain his disagreement with King Gordon.

A member of the audience took objection to this line of talk, declaring "that is not co-operation."

Mr. Kroeger replied that he criticized King Gordon "because I am a Communist and the Communist party does not betray the workers."

If it were not for the Communist party to-day, I wonder what would be the condition of the people," Mr. Kroeger said. "We have preserved for them whatever little subsistence they have left. They say the Communists want to bring about a crisis, but I would like to know what more of a crisis could be brought about than what is being brought about under the capitalist parties. The weapon of Fascism will be used against the workers here just as surely as it has been in other countries unless the workers unite against it."

A collection was taken up to aid the election campaign of Malcolm Bruce in Vancouver.

The Cincinnati Conservatory of Music will return to CBS for another series of weekly radio concerts beginning to-morrow from 8 to 9 a.m., P.S.T. The opening programme will feature the Corelli Concerto Grosso for two violins and a 'cello soloist.

SAYS VOTERS INTIMIDATED

Told Jobs Will Go If They Vote Liberal, McDowell Declares

A parallel to threats that workers would lose their jobs if a Liberal government were elected, such as prompted Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King to serve notice of an investigation, exists in Victoria, C. J. McDowell, Victoria federal Liberal candidate, said in the course of a speech at Margaret Jenkins School last night.

After quoting Mr. King's speech in Niagara Falls Wednesday, in which the Liberal leader charged that hints were being dropped by certain employers that the election of a Liberal government would mean loss of jobs, Mr. McDowell charged similar tactics are being used here.

"I am told men working on government work in Victoria are being warned not to vote Liberal," he said. "If they do, they are being told, they will lose their jobs because the work will not be done.

"Those known from records to be radical are being told if they do not vote Conservative to vote C.C.F., apparently with the object of taking Liberal votes to let a Conservative in."

VICTORIA PENALIZED

Mr. McDowell, W. T. Straith, H. W. Davey and the chairman, C. G. White, all emphasized Victoria's need for representation at Ottawa by a man who had the interests of the city at heart.

Each claimed that D. B. Plunkett's attitude that local issues were not important had resulted in Victoria losing departments to the mainland and in the capital city of B.C. being penalized while Mr. Plunkett sat as its member.

C.C.F. AND COMMUNISM

Touching briefly on the C.C.F.'s part in the campaign, Mr. McDowell said there was no doubt the objects of the C.C.F. and Communists were the same. The Communists, however, were outspoken as to how they sought to reach their objectives.

The C.C.F. said they would take over the industries of the country and private property by expropriation and make compensation in non-interest bearing bonds. Then they said they would make those bonds worthless by income and inheritance taxes.

"I prefer the man like the Communist who is outspoken for confiscation than the one who with the same intention disguises his methods," said the speaker.

Mr. McDowell claimed that the appeal Mr. Bennett was making to the country was for the Bennett Party, not the Conservative Party. Mr. Bennett had betrayed and wrecked the Conservative Party.

The Liberal policy stood for lower cost of materials of production and cheaper money. They were two primary needs of Canada to-day, Mr. McDowell continued.

He went on to deal with municipal matters.

"There is no common sense reason why a man's home should be taxed for relief costs, social service costs and education costs," the speaker said with emphasis.

Those charges should be taken care of by the provincial and federal governments. With those charges lifted and with cheaper money available there would be a boom in home building.

Declaring that his interests were in Victoria which had too long suffered by lack of representation at Ottawa, Mr. McDowell urged his audience not to be misled by the claim that local issues were of no importance. Victoria needed a man who had its interests at heart and would fight for them at Ottawa, he claimed.

WATCHED THINGS GO

While Mr. Plunkett had laid claim to secure concessions at Ottawa for Victoria, the facts were he had nothing to do with the drydock, the breakwater and the Dallas Road waterfront concession for which he claimed credit, Mr. Straith declared.

Mr. Plunkett had, however, stood by while the public works staff at the drydock, the Receiver-general's office and other offices had been transferred to other places.

Emphasizing, Victoria should be represented by a man who had its interest at heart, Mr. Straith cited a proper link with the Canadian Broadcasting system as one thing which Victoria was entitled to.

He also said the policy of the Bennett government was shutting the moving picture industry out of Victoria. Not only was 50 per cent duty charged upon equipment but a valuation which was twice the value placed upon it in the United States was set upon it for duty purposes in Canada.

This was not a tariff for protection of Canadian industry as none of this equipment was manufactured in Canada.

LOCAL ISSUES

Following Mr. Straith, Mr. Davey noted that Mr. Plunkett in his most recent speeches had urged Victorians to disregard local issues. That appeal the speaker thought was rather significant. Victorians must consider local issues. They had too long suffered through lack of proper representation at Ottawa.

Mr. Davey went on to deal with the jealous guardianship the Bennett government had extended to the big financial interests of the east.

Proceeding, Mr. Davey said five years of Mr. Bennett's high tariffs had demonstrated that policy was not a success. Canada's foreign trade to-day was only 50 per cent of what it was in 1930, the last year of the Mackenzie King administration.

"If the people of Victoria wish an aggressive representative at Ottawa and if they wish to have a government which favors trade expansion and tariff reform to lower costs and reduce the duty on the implements of production they will support Mr. McDowell," Mr. Davey concluded.

Sewage Not Odor Cause

Obnoxious odors arising from the Oak Bay waterfront, which on different occasions have been the source of complaints to the municipal council, are not caused by sewage, Dr. W. P. Walker, medical health officer, reported to the council yesterday.

A sample of the water was forwarded to Dr. Walker for analysis, and after exhaustive examination he reported no sewage contamination evident.

Waterfront residents were of the opinion the odors were caused by sewage, and had complained on this basis.

Dr. Walker noted the odor did not occur on James Island, where garbage is buried ashore. Although objectionable, he did not believe the complaint to be a source of ill-health.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

IT WAS WITH a feeling of regret that we received the announcement yesterday from J. A. (Barney) Barnwell that the Blue Ribbon Limited had withdrawn as sponsors of the famous Blue Ribbons, holders of the Canadian basketball championship. The action, coming as it did just at the start of another campaign, no doubt was a distinct shock to many followers of the cage sport. For the last few weeks the fans have again been talking basketball and much discussion has taken place on the Ribbon's chances to repeat their last year's success in the Dominion playdowns. With several new players in the fold followers of the Ribbons looked for a big season and now they are sort of wondering just what will happen to the team.

Loss of Barney to basketball ranks is a serious blow. Since his first association with the Ribbons three seasons ago, the big fellow has spent a lot of time and effort to put the team over in a big way. His success can be judged by the fact that the Victoria club won two Canadian championships 1932-33 and 1934-35. Barney was not satisfied with bringing this city its first national champions but came back two years later with another championship outfit. But to win those titles Barnwell had to give up a lot of valuable time and now the company, which he represents, has called a halt and the Victoria manager's hands are tied. He must give up basketball, much as he dislikes to serve his associations with his athletes. We hate to see you go Barney but don't forget those morning visits now and then, even though you may not have any hot cage chatter.

Although they are dropping out of the picture Blue Ribbon directors are certainly playing the game with the boys who carried their colors to so many brilliant victories. A handsome sum of cash has been offered the team, providing it organizes into a club and carries on its basketball activities. And that plan looks as it might be possibly the best procedure for the players to follow. With $1,500 in their treasury they would have no worries and could start off the season in great shape. However, it is going to be hard to find another manager who will put in the time and do the work that Barnwell carried on his shoulders throughout the course of a season.

Tottenham Hotspur have found that their old policy of building their English football league teams from their nursery does not enable them to keep pace with modern ideas and the management have realized the necessity for entering the transfer market. The club, one of the richest in England, have circularised other clubs announcing that they are prepared to consider offers for first and second team men.

Morton Cadman, vice-president of the Spurs, said: "First and second team men are among the players we have offered for sale. It would not be in our interests to divulge their names. We will use any money received to buy new players. The idea is to strengthen the team immediately.".

It is understood that as soon as Jack Tresadern, the new manager saw the team in action in trial matches at the start of the season, he gave his directors to understand that he would have to have new material immediately.

Tottenham began in fine style this season, winning their first two opening matches, but after losing to Newcastle by 2-1 wholesale changes were made in the side to meet Hull

Probably with the new policy in view, Tresadern had his scouts at the opening match between Arsenal and Sunderland, which goes to show what class of players the Spurs are going after. In future it is to be "the best and nothing else."

The Spurs were relegated from the first division at the end of last season. The management came in for plenty of scathing criticism from their supporters, who declared that it was the long-standing policy of making young unknown players into first team men and neglecting to buy ready-made "stars" that was responsible for the failure.

Irish Negotiating For Local Matches By Walter Lindrum

Suggested Dates for Exhibition Listed as October 18 or 19

Clark McConaghy With Cue Champ

Walter Lindrum, reigning world's champion in English billiards and one of the most colorful players the game has ever produced, along with Clark McConachy, New Zealand titleholder, will play a series of exhibition games in Victoria on October 18 or 19 or probably both days, if negotiations being made between Bert Irish, local billiards leader, with the internationally known stars reach fruition.

At present the two aces of the cue from the Antipodes are in Vancouver for exhibition matches, and the local leader, who has been instrumental in bringing many other finished players to the city, has been given the opportunity of sponsoring their Victoria appearance.

The chief difficulty in the way of the matches here lies in the lack of a proper location in which to stage the event. The Metropolis Parlors, run jointly by Bert and Charlie Irish, are not figured large enough to accommodate the crowd which would want to see the world champion in action However, Mr. Irish intended to-day to canvass other premises in the city with a view to determining a more suitable location. The Tillicum gym has been suggested as the venue for the attraction.

WIZARD WITH CUE

Lindrum, whose variety of shots has made him a performer of unusual box office attraction, proved an outstanding sensation when he left Australia to tour England some years ago. He captured his world's championship during the 1933-34 season, and still holds it, along with a world record break of 4,137 under revised rules.

He has played in the far-flung corners of the world, and counts among his most important exhibitions a command performance before King George.

EXHIBITION FEATURES

Provided the negotiations for their appearance here are carried through, their exhibition will probably include a game of straight billiards between Lindrum and McConachy, followed by a game of snooker by the pair and a short exhibition of shots, orthodox trick.

Bert Irish will probably meet them in a game of snooker later. The local leader is at present holder of the provincial professional championship and a player of long standing in Victoria. He has brought other stars of the game here, and will exert every effort to add further lustre to his promotions by bringing the Anzacs to the city.

Tom Tothill, former Canadian and trick.

Confirm Date for Big School Gala

November 16 has been confirmed as the date for this year's school children's gala, W. T. M. Barrett, secretary of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, under whose auspices the event will be staged, announced to-day. The date is satisfactory to both Victoria and Vancouver swimmers, Mr. Barrett stated.

ZAHARIAS IN MAT VICTORY

Uses Leg Scissors to Defeat Brother Jonathan on Vancouver Card

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—A powerful leg scissors, applied by "Babe" Zaharias, 218, Colorado, spelled defeat for Brother Jonathan, 235, Salt Lake City, yesterday evening in the main event of a wrestling card here. It was the wrestling Mormon's second straight defeat in two bouts.

After a flying scissors in the second round had downed Zaharias, he came out in the next round and applied the leg scissors with such pressure that Jonathan was unable to continue.

Paul Boesch, 218, Long Beach, N.Y., life-guard, and Jack Foragren, 228, Vancouver, went fi- rounds to a no-fall draw in the semi-final.

"Blue Sun" Jennings, 238, Oklahoma, took a straight t o-fall victory from Jack Londos, 210, Boston, cousin of the former world champion, Jim Londos. The falls came in the second and third rounds with body slams.

G. LOWE WILL OPPOSE STEIN

Local Wrestlers to Appear on Mixed Card This Evening at Tillicum Gym

Featuring George Lowe, "Chinese Flash" and Bill Stein, well-known local artists of the bone-bending game, the Mount Stephen Athletic Club will sponsor its initial boxing and wrestling programme of the winter season this evening at the Tillicum Athletic gymnasium, Broad Street. Nine bouts are carded, with the opener at 8.30 o'clock.

The semi-wind-up will bring together Wally Edwards, Cedar Hill "Wildcat" and Maurice Lane, in the 137 pound division. Both boys are well versed in the groan and grunt tactics and they should give the fans lots of thrills. The encounter is billed for four four-minute rounds.

Battling in the 135-pound class will be Jack Lacey and Bud Kerchin. The match is billed for four four-minute rounds. The only other grappling match will feature Young Ernie Arthur and Buster Levy, popular ninety-pound matmen.

The main fisticuffs fixture will be featured by the return of Clarence Leask, promising young local boxer, who is billed to fight Rudy Holstein, Sooke's boxing pride. This match should be fast and furious. They are billed to battle five two-minute rounds, at 145 pounds.

Jerry Wilson and "Red" James, ninety-pound glove-throwers; Billy Thornburn and Jimmy Ilott, at seventy-five pounds, and George Gauthiers and Dickie Reid, at eighty-five pounds, will round out the boxing part of the attractive card.

The hundreds of enthusiastic fans who have flocked to the outdoor stadium on Mount Stephen Avenue during the spring, summer and fall, are all expected to turn out to watch their favorite boxers and wrestlers perform.

Juvenile Soccer Matches To-morrow

Wimpys Capitals, smooth-working juvenile soccer eleven, will oppose the Marigold Aces, winners of the league championship last season, to-morrow morning at Heywood Avenue at 10.30 o'clock. W. J. Cull will handle the whistle.

The other game billed for to-morrow morning will bring together the Victoria West Cubs and Esquimalt Meat Market, at Central Park at 10.30 o'clock. S. Thomas will referee.

The Victoria West Cubs' team will be selected from the following: Renfrew, Paige, Davies, Bishop, Rowell, Kennedy, Whittle, Minnis, Murdock, Prendergast, Malcolm, Byatt, Booth, Ord, Edmonds and Comley-Brown.

Stanbury Leads In Snooker Play

London, Oct. 11.—Conrad Stanbury, Canadian champion, led Thomas Newman, British player, twenty-seven games to thirteen yesterday in a snooker contest.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

Strange as it seems, deadly poison may be made from harmless elements—it takes only carbon, hydrogen and oxygen to compound lethal carbolic acid. Strangely, too, some deadly poisons are rendered perfectly harmless when they are in compound with other elements.

Phosphorus is very poisonous. As little as one-eighth of a grain of it has been known to cause death—and there are 7,000 grains in a pound. At one grain each—eight times the minimum lethal dose—a pound of phosphorus would kill 7,000 people.

In the normal human body there is about two pounds of phosphorus. Much of it is phosphorus carbonate which is found in the bones. Harmless compounds of phosphorus are found also in the blood, brain, and nerves. Enough poison to kill 14,000 people—and you can't live without it.

Probably the quickest shave on record was that given to Luciano Codeluppi, Parma, Italy, when he leaned out of a window to watch the progress of a storm. One stroke of lightning, and Codeluppi found himself sitting on the floor, unhurt but minus his beard and mustache.

Ethan Allen, hero of the American Revolution, began his fight for independence before there was a revolution. As early as 1771 he organized his Green Mountain Boys to evict settlers from New York who, he claimed, were hazarding the independence of Vermont. The governor of New York declared him an outlaw and offered $750 for his arrest.

Murray Patrick Will Follow Road Leading to Boxing Greatness

Victoria's Great Athlete Intends to Develop Skill With Gloves in Preference to Taking Up Professional Hockey; Will Play Amateur Hockey Again

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—Two roads leading to athletic greatness stretched to-day before Murray Patrick, king at 20, of the Canadian amateur heavyweight boxing realm.

Boxing and hockey, these were the two sign-posts confronting the strapping son of Lester Patrick, the silver-haired hockey maestro who guides the destinies of New York Rangers in the National Hockey League.

It he chose, "Muzz" could immediately follow his brother's footsteps and join professional hockey ranks with the Rangers. Lynn Patrick cut quite a figure with the Gotham hockey squad in his first year last winter.

This, of course, is what his father, Lester Patrick would have Murray do. Nevertheless Patrick Sr., will be Murray's most ardent supporter this winter as he develops his skill with the gloves.

REMAIN AMATEUR

Murray's ambition, he said to-day, is to climb up to the "select" group of money making heavyweights. He has cast aside all talk of professional hockey this year and will remain with the United States 1934 amateur champions, the New York Crescents.

Any spare moments this winter Murray will spend polishing up his ring generalship. But boxing and hockey are not the only athletic accomplishments of the 186-pound Victoria youth.

At eighteen he was one of Canada's best basketball players, leading scorer in 1933 for Victoria Blue Ribbons when they won the Dominion championship. Along with Doug Peden, brother of the famous Torchy of the hike paths, Murray had done some bicycle riding too.

He has had eleven bouts since he started the boxing game some eighteen months ago. He won them all, in addition to his heavyweight crown, taking eight of them by knockouts.

Rosenbloom Will Engage Tiger Fox

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 11.—Former light heavyweight champion Maxie Rosenbloom and Tiger Jack Fox, Spokane negro, will match blows for the third time in a ten-round bout here to-night—with the hard-hitting Fox still trying to even matters.

Three years ago, Rosenbloom, a New Yorker, won a decision over Fox. Here a month ago they fought to a torrid draw.

Juvenile Cage Fixtures Billed

Teams of the Royal Juvenile Athletic Association Basketball League will swing into action next week with three games scheduled, two in the under eighteen section and one in the under sixteen.

Under Sixteen

Wednesday, 7.30 o'clock—Terriers vs. Shamrocks, Lake Hill.

Under Eighteen

Thursday, 8 o'clock—Jones Boys vs. First United, Memorial Hall; West Road vs. All-Blacks, West Road.

Lester Teaches "Bag of Tricks"

Coach of New York Rangers Explains Objects of His Training School for Amateur Hockeyists at Winnipeg; New York Amerks Make Training Plans

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—"Like a vaudeville actor, a professional hockey player has to have a bag of tricks before he can start his act," Lester Patrick, New York Ranger boss, said to-day as he led his troupe of thirty-two hockey pupils on to the training camp ice here.

"That's what we try to teach our students—a bag of tricks," he said. Pupils are fresh and ready to go, daily adding new plays to their hockey repertoire, designed to help them along the road to professionalism.

The school has been under way a week now and everyone is determined to make the honors list when they write their examinations on blades next week.

"Like education, one cannot jump from public school into a university and the same thing applies to the higher hockey class," Patrick stated. Thus the high school education for the embryo professional is taught at his school.

THE LESSONS

Their lessons yesterday were: The sweeping hook check, the art of timing on passes, how to leave a puck for a trailing teammate, suggestions as to improvement of shooting and to flipping short passes over opposition sticks. The final five minutes were spent in a stamina test.

This stamina developer was termed "shinny on your own side." A hockey game in which one player tries to get the puck and keep it by skating and stick-handling around his mates. The ice arena was divided into three zones with five players in each area, that is, having three shinny games at one time.

To-day they will scrimmage again and for a short time actually play hockey.

Oshawa, Ont., Oct. 11.—Marvin "Red" Dutton, manager, and E. R. "Rosie" Helmer, Calgary, coach, arrived in Oshawa yesterday to complete arrangements for the pre-season training of the New York Americans Hockey Club of the National League. Actual training will begin next Wednesday at the local arena, with the players slated to start arriving over the week-end.

Equipment of the team will be in readiness for distribution to the players when they report to the manager Tuesday. The team will remain here until just before the opening of the N.H.L. season, and, as in the past, will play several exhibition games while training here.

The acquisition of Nels Stewart and Joe Jerwa, Boston, and Harold Cotton, Toronto Maple Leafs, will bolster the team considerably, in Manager Dutton's opinion. It was stated that deals are now underway that might send other well-known players to the Amerks. There is also a possibility that several players from the St. Louis Eagles, including Carl Voss, might be taken for a trial.

FUTURITY AT BELMONT PARK

Red Rain and Goldstream favored for $10,000 Classic To-morrow

New York, Oct. 11.—Despite his performance four days ago in which he failed to show championship calibre, C. V. Whitney's Red Rain rallied plenty of support to-day as upwards of a score of two-year-olds were pointed for the $10,000 futurity at Belmont Park to-morrow.

Although badly beaten in the Nursery Stakes, the big chestnut appeared more like the horse that came from behind to take the Hopeful at Saratoga when he reeled off five furlongs in fifty-nine and three-fifths seconds yesterday run down the Widener straightway over which the Futurity will be decided at six and one-half furlongs.

Alfred Robertson will be brought in especially to ride the Whitney ace.

Despite his impressive trial, Red Rain probably will not rule the favorite. The honor is expected to go to E. D. Shaffer's Coldstream, big son of Bull Dog, which raced Red Rain to a dead heat in the Saratoga Special and then took his measure in the Nursery.

James Fitzsimmons, veteran trainer, also will send a powerful entry to the post in the Wheatley stable's Snark and Teufel and William Woodward's Granville.

Bill Terry Turns Down Trade Offer

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Manager Bill Terry of New York Giants yesterday said he had refused an offer by St. Louis Cardinals to trade first baseman Jim "Rip" Collins and outfielder Joe Medwick for pitcher Carl Hubbell and outfielder Mel Ott, Giant stars.

The offer, Terry said, was made by Branch Rickey of the Cardinals during the second game of the world series at Detroit.

HOOP CHAMPS PLAY TO-NIGHT

Hoyle-Brown Face First Test of Season Against Tillicums at High School

Facing their first test of the 1935-36 season, Hoyle-Brown cagers, city and island senior in basketball champions last year, will trot a strong line-up onto the floor against the Tillicums at Victoria High School this evening. The game is scheduled as the feature of the three fixture card staged by the Victoria and District Basketball League.

The defending champions are reported to have a stronger aggregation than they had last season, and will be favored in this evening's encounter.

The programme will open with a men's C fixture between Doo-Dads and Hudson's Bay at 7.30 o'clock.

Aces and Regents, intermediate A squads, are listed to provide the centrepiece.

All teams have been working out consistently for their opening games, and a fair brand of ball is expected.

AZUCAR NOW AT TANFORAN

San Bruno, Calif., Oct. 11.—Azucar, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, to-day is munching oats in his new home, Stall No. 2, Barn "D," after his arrival here Monday from Detroit.

Th "big horse" shipped in perfect style and was rolling over and kicking up his heels in his stall shortly after being unloaded. He headed a shipment of eleven thoroughbreds, owned by Frederick M. Alger, Jr., Detroit sportsman.

Azucar will be pointed for the $2,500 added Golden Gate Handicap, November 2, at a mile and a sixteenth. It is extremely likely, however, that he will be given at least one prep race before this engagement.

WAS NEVER BETTER

Trainer Lex Wilson, who flew out in advance of the shipment, supervised the unloading of the champion. "Azucar was never better," he said. "He doesn't like the mud and he caught a couple of tracks he didn't like in the east. However, I think he will like the Tanforan racing strip," Wilson said.

The converted steeplechaser never looked better. He was frisky and playful; he didn't seem to mind the long trip in the least. His chestnut coat glistened in the sun when he walked out of the car and he looked ready to run the race of his life. Detroit clockers caught him in a sizzling mile work shortly before he was loaded on the cars.

Azucar's main objective, of course, will be the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, but in the meantime Trainer Wilson is going to have him well tuned up.

Other good ones in the shipment included Dark Winter, Sun Arena, Miss Morocco, Royal Charm, Bright Pat, Phalarope and four yearlings which will be raced here next spring.

League Football Will Be Played Here To-morrow Afternoon

Clubs Will Play Two Matches At Athletic Park

League - leading Victoria City Will Engage Esquimalt at 2.30 o'Clock

Victoria West Play Thistles

League football will occupy the stage to-morrow afternoon. The first local Intercity League match of the season was scheduled between Victoria United and New Westminster Royals but it has been called off owing to the Mainlanders being unable to make the trip. It is expected the Victoria club will claim the two points.

The league engagements will be played in the form of a double-header at the Athletic Park, officials of the Victoria and District League announced yesterday evening. The card follows:

2.30 p.m.—Victoria City vs. Esquimalt. Referee, J. C. Dowds.

4.00 p.m.—Victoria West vs. Saanich Thistles. Referee, T. M. Robb.

Present league standing finds the City in first place with two straight victories. In their opening engagement the redshirts blanked the Thistles 3 to 0, and last Saturday they nosed out Victoria West, 1 to 0. In to-morrow's engagement with Esquimalt the City will strive to keep their unscored-on record.

Esquimalt, who are tied with the Saanich Thistles for second place, each with one win and one defeat, will be out to regain lost prestige following their surprising 2 to 0 defeat last Saturday at the hands of the Thistles. The Dockers have a smart aggregation on paper and should be able to make things plenty interesting for the City.

WESTS AFTER WIN

The second match will see the Wests striving for their first victory of the season, after a pair of setbacks at the hands of Esquimalt and the City. The greenshirts, with a young club, should improve as the season progresses, and it would not be surprising if the team cuts loose with some smart football pretty soon. After their win over Esquimalt last Saturday the Thistles will be tough to stop to-morrow. Last year's champions are keen to win their second straight city championship and want to keep near the top of the league standing.

Some of the teams for to-morrow follow:

PAUL RUNYAN PACESETTER

Scores Brilliant 67 to Lead Field in $5,000 Louisville Open Golf

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 11.—Pitching a 160-yard approach straight into the cup for an eagle two on the sixteenth hole, Paul Runyan, White Plains, N.Y., Professional Golfers' Association champion of the United States, scored a 67, four under par, to take the lead in the $5,000 Louisville open golf tournament here yesterday.

Runyan missed a two-footer for a par four in the eighteenth hole, losing a chance to tie the course record of 66. He scored 34-33 with one birdie on the first nine and three birdies and an eagle on the second.

GHEZZI SECOND

Second place was occupied by Victor Ghezzi, Deal, N.J., who put together rounds of 33-35—68. Teri Johnsor, Winter Haven, Fla., and Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., trailed Ghezzi by one stroke.

Johnson was three over par on the first nine with a 38, but equaled the course record, coming in with a 31, five under perfect figures.

Richard Burton, long-driving member of the English Ryder Cup team, gave an excellent performance, whipping par by one stroke with a 70. Four other members of the English team were well up in the running, each scoring 75's. They are J. J. Busson, W. V. Cox, E. G. Jarmon and A. F. Padgham. The other British golfers were listed for play to-day.

Willows Club to Hold Tournament

The Willows Badminton Club will hold its first tournament of the season, a mixed American handicap tournament, at the club on Monday and Wednesday evenings, October 14 and 16. Entries close to-morrow afternoon, and any members wishing to play on either of these evenings are requested to communicate with the secretary, phone E 4886, before to-morrow evening.

Fifth Rugby Teams Practice To-morrow

The Fifth Regiment senior A rugby team will hold a practice game with the intermediate squad to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. All members of both squads are requested to turn out. The match was originally to have been between Brentwood College and the Fifth Intermediates, but Brentwood are unable to field a team.

New Rulings on Southern Tracks

San Bruno, Cal., Oct. 11.—Two new rulings of the horse racing board which will have a definite effect on the pocket book of turf followers went into effect on California tracks to-day.

One permits the stewards to place a disqualified horse wherever they see fit rather than arbitrarily last.

BOWLERS ARE GIVEN PRIZES

Stewart at the annual prize-giving social of the Burnside Lawn Bowling Club in Hampton Hall Wednesday evening.

During the season Burnside captured the following trophies in outside events: Wenger Trophy, Vancouver Island men's singles championship, won by Mrs. D. Mowat, who shared in the winning of eight cups this season; Cameron Nichol Cup, Greater Victoria men's rinks, won by Burnside eight; the Whitney Cup, won in rinks competition against all other Victoria clubs by Burnside; the Sir Frank Barnard Cup, mixed rinks, won by Mrs. Pass, Mrs. Mowat, E. Hawkins; the Stanley Cup, women's doubles, won by Mrs. Playfair and Mrs. Mowat and the Empire Day Cup, mixed triples, won by Mrs. Davidson, W. Davidson and E. Myers.

Apart from this string of victories, Burnside also made a very creditable showing in other major events, with F. Holmes finishing runner-up in the Peace Cup, singles championship of Vancouver Island, and Fred Harman runner-up in the Seaton singles played for in the B.C. Lawn Bowling tournament in Vancouver.

PRAISE FOR GREENS

Special reference was made during the prize presentation of the valuable work performed by W. Washington, who had kept the greens in such excellent condition. A suitable recognition of his services was made in the presentation to him of a wallet and illuminated address in which his fellow-members expressed their thanks and appreciation. This presentation was made by David Ramsay.

Thanks was also tendered to the women's club for the many valuable services they had rendered the club.

Following the awarding of prizes, which was made by President Stewart, assisted by Mrs. A. W. Stewart, president of the women's club, and J. W. Mercer, president of the Greater Victoria Association, who congratulated the winners and also the club on its splendid record, a court whist was enjoyed.

The following are prizewinners in the various club events:

Big Games On Grid Scheduled

Undefeated Toronto Argos Battle Hamilton Tigers; Toronto vs. Queens

Toronto, Oct. 11.—Football hits a new early-season high in importance to-morrow when Toronto's undefeated challengers for two crowns — Argonauts of the Big Four and University of Toronto—tangle with 1934 champions in the day's headline gridiron struggles. Three other contests can only achieve equal prominence by resulting in upsets.

Riding a three-game winning streak, Argos will take on Hamilton Tigers in Varsity Stadium, Toronto. These old rivals, the class of the Big Four race so far, are expected to stage a sensational battle with the leadership at stake.

U. of T.'s machine, regarded as the strongest coach Warren Stevens has produced in four years and with one of the best Varsity backfields in a decade or more, will revive its testing at Kingston where Ted Reeve's Queen's huskies attempt to stop the hugs.

OTTAWA AT MONTREAL

Ottawa Roughriders move into Montreal in a bid to further muss up the Wheelers; McGill's strong force takes on the Western Mustangs at London and Sarnia Imperials play Hamilton Cubs at Hamilton in the east's remaining senior battles. Rough Riders, McGill and Imperials are strongly favored to win.

But Argos, having completed one circuit of the Big Four without defeat, will have their hands full with the freshly manicured Tigers. Beaten 13 to 8 by the Scullers in the opening scheduled game, the Bengals return to Toronto with two straight wins and Johnny Ferraro on the backfield.

Where Argoe had only to beat a sturdy wingline and the aerial thrusts of Frank Turville and Huck Welch three weeks ago, this time they will face the accurate forward passes of the burly Ferraro, 1934 coach who has returned to play under Fred Veale.

Turville and Welch, brilliant carriers, will be on the receiving end of Ferraro's pitches.

Crucial Games In English Football

Leading Huddersfield Town Will Face Tough Opposition at Middlesbrough; Arsenal Will Engage Chelsea; Scottish Leaders Meet Bottom Clubs

London, Oct. 11.—Huddersfield Town's one-point margin at the top of the English Football League may disappear when the results of to-morrow's games are known.

The powerful Sunderland team has a splendid opportunity to take the lead, as it meets Grimsby Town, bottom dog of the division.

On the other hand, the unbeaten Huddersfield team will find bitter opposition at Middlesbrough, holder of fifth place in the table.

Derby County, tied with Sunderland in the runner-up position, is another contender for leadership honors, but is away to Sheffield Wednesday, English Cup holder, and a tough battle is in prospect.

Manchester City is rearranging its forward line for the match at Blackburn. Tilson, robust centre forward, moves to inside left and his place will be taken by Owen, a young reserve player. Arsenal has apparently recovered championship form and will play Chelsea at Stamford Bridge. The battle between the rival Londoners is expected to draw a crowd of 70,000.

Leeds United has signed on Robert Brown, left half of Derry City in the Irish League. It is said the United paid $7,500 for Brown, who will play against West Bromwich Albion, to-morrow.

SECOND DIVISION

Leicester City and Southampton, leaders in the second division, play away from home. The City, in its efforts to return to senior football, will put up a great fight at Bury, while Southampton has an equally hard fight against Nottingham Forest.

After Bristol Rovers' defeat by Crystal Palace at Stapleton Road last week it is unlikely they will be a match for Reading, as the biscuit-makers are playing on their own ground.

In the northern section, Tranmere Rovers, the leaders, visit Wrexham. Prospects for victory are not particularly bright, in view of the fact that the Rovers, playing at home, were held to a draw last week by Rotherham United.

Glasgow, Oct. 11.—Underdogs of Scottish football have an opportunity to steal the spotlight in to-morrow's list of first division fixtures. Celtic, Aberdeen and Rangers, the leading home teams, are all opposed by clubs upon whom fortune has smiled infrequently this season.

The leading Celts are at home to Clyde. While the Shawfield Park side is only two rungs removed from the bottom of the league ladder. The Dons go to Arbroath, babe of the division.

Another Glasgow Derby sees Third Lanark and Rangers face each other at Cathkin. Third Lanark is hoping for a victory similar to that of two weeks ago when they smirched Aberdeen's unbeaten record.

St. Mirren has lengthened its lead at the top of the second division and is now two points ahead of Morton. Playing at home, it is not unlikely the Paisley lads will widen their margin against Leith Athletic, but Morton is up against a tough proposition in St. Bernards.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 11.—The International Hockey League yesterday formally admitted Pittsburgh to its membership. A schedule will be drawn up next week.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

WOMEN WRITERS TOPIC OF REVIEW

The Y.W.C.A. Reading Club opened its winter season auspiciously yesterday afternoon with an address by Miss Margaret Clay, city librarian, on "Some Leading Women Novelists."

Miss Clay skilfully analyzed the outstanding characteristics of the writings of Henry Handel (Henrietta) Richardson, author of "The Fortunes of Richard Mahony," one of the most notable novels in recent years. Henrietta Richardson is an Australian, educated in Melbourne and Leipsic, Germany; who adopted the masculine pseudonym for the publication of her first book, "Modest Guest," published in 1908, "in order that it might stand on its own merits."

The speaker also touched upon Nan Micheson, who uses the classical Greek period for the background of much of her writing; Mary Webb, whose novels of Shropshire life sprang into fame a few years ago; Willa Cather and Edith Wharton, the two gifted American authors; Enid Bagnold, author of "National Velvet" and other vigorous stories of English racing life; and Dorothy Richardson, defined as "probably the greatest living Englishwomen novelist."

Mrs. Edwin Tomlin presided, and Mrs. J. E. Lane moved the vote of thanks.

SALMON PACK IS GREATER

British Columbia's salmon pack this year is running approximately 10 per cent ahead of last year, according to figures received by the Department of Fisheries.

At October 5 the total pack was 1,371,805 cases, the next largest for the last five seasons being on October 6, 1934, when it was 1,241,508 cases.

The pack of pinks this year totals 505,598 cases, and the chum pack is 306,058 cases. In chums, pinks and cohoes the 1935 pack is ahead of last year, but is behind in sockeyes, springs, steelheads and bluebacks.

COLD STORAGE CASE NEARS END

Duncan MacBride, Manager of Plant, Gives Evidence; Argument Starts

With the testimony of Duncan MacBride, manager of the plant, the taking of evidence was concluded at noon to-day in the hearing of the action before Judge Lampman of Parfitt Bros. against the Victoria Cold Storage and Terminal Warehouse Company and the Quebec Trust Company.

A. D. Macfarlane, K.C., counsel for the defendants, commenced his argument and will continue this afternoon. He will be followed by D. S. Tait, counsel for the Parfitts.

The Parfitts who were contractors for the Ogden Point plant are suing under the Mechanics Lien Act for $37,533 and interest, which is the amount of the 10 per cent hold-back retained by the defendants as guarantee for the maintenance of the building during its first year after completion.

Mr. MacBride testified the cold storage operation here had been hampered by lack of working capital and in answer to Mr. Tait said he believed that in the hands of a strong organization with connections it would be made a paying proposition. He said the question was still unsettled as to what the city owed the company on its guarantee. The mechanical plant had cost $147,000.

Mr. Macfarlane argued that the consent of the mortgagee was required as well as that of the cold storage company for the extension of the lien beyond the legal period of thirty days and such consent had not been obtained. He also asserted there was no jurisdiction as the lien was against the land and the land at Ogden Point is in the King's name and thus beyond the jurisdiction of the court.

Other witnesses called to the stand included Dudley Phillip W. Maunsell, Mark Parfitt, W. Percy Marchant and E. H. M. Foot.

Young People Will Have Drama Festival

Entry date for the first Province-wide drama festival for United Church Young Peoples' Societies has been extended to October 22. This has been done at the request of societies which are late in starting their fall and winter operations owing to continued fine weather.

The competition is open to one-act plays or self-contained scenes from longer plays not less than twenty minutes or more than forty-five minutes.

The Vancouver committee will endeavor to arrange billeting for all out-of-town teams where such is requested. All persons taking part in the contest must be bona fide members of United Church Young People's Societies.

Entries should be sent to Fred H. Fullerton, president of the Provincial Y.P. Conference, and chairman of the festival, at 3994 West 35th Avenue, Vancouver, from whom full information may be secured.

GORGE PRESBYTERIAN Y.P.S.

The Gorge Presbyterian Young People's Society held its meeting on Tuesday evening. A short business period was followed by the installation and dedication of the officers for 1935-36. This was conducted by Rev. L. H. McAllister, and the officers are as follows: R. Trowsdale, president; P. Holmes, vice-president; M. Ash, secretary; M. Woolley, treasurer; T. Pickard, social convener.

The rest of the evening was spent in a general discussion. Next week, R. Trowsdale will speak on "Histories of B.C. Coast Lighthouses." All who are interested in Young People's work will be made very welcome.

Owing to the general election taking place on Monday, there will be no meeting of the Middleton British-Israel Guild in the Campbell Building on that day. The Guild will meet again as usual on Monday, October 21, at 8 o'clock.

TWO HOURS TO VOTE IS ELECTION LAW

Election officials and campaign managers to-day drew attention to the section of the Elections Act which permits every employee two hours off from work on Monday to attend the polling. The exact wording of this provision, given in Section 47, is as follows: "Every employer shall, on polling day, allow to every elector in his employ at least two additional hours other than the noon hour, for voting, and no employer shall make any deduction from the pay of any such elector nor impose upon or exact from him any penalty by reason of his absence during such hours." An exception is provided in the case of railway employees who are engaged in actual operation of trains and whose absence would interfere with the running of trains.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD CHILD IS HURT

Madeleine Ing, five-year-old Chinese girl, of 1903 Quadra Street, was believed seriously injured in an accident on Quadra Street this afternoon. No definite report on her condition could be obtained from the Jubilee Hospital but she was reported to police as suffering from concussion and internal injuries.

According to a report to police the girl was crossing Quadra Street, between Queen's and Caledonia Avenues when she ran into the side of a car driven north on Quadra Street by William Chisholm, 1029 Empress Avenue.

The child was removed to the Jubilee Hospital where she was attended by the house doctor.

Wheat Transfer Plans Complete

Taking Over of Co-operative Wheat Producers' Supplies by Wheat Board Announced

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Aug. 11.—An "equitable adjustment" sought for more than four years was an accomplished fact to-day with the announcement arrangements for the transfer of all wheat and contracts from the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited to the Canadian Wheat Board had been completed.

"For over four years pool members have been hoping that such an equitable adjustment could be made," L. C. Brouillette, president of the central board, stated. Completion of lengthy negotiations now had made it possible, he said, to provide adjustment to members of the 1930 pool who had received less than the initial price of 60 cents for the 1930 crop.

The 1930 pool carryover, withheld from the market, led to stabilization operations in the wheat market by the government agency directed by John I. McFarland.

"The Canadian wheat carryover is no longer a source of anxiety to the people or governments of Canada," said the president.

DATE OF CHEQUES

Mr. Brouillette termed "regrettable" a statement made by MacKenzie King at Brockville, Ont., yesterday evening when the Liberal leader said the wheat board was to mail cheques to reach farmers next Monday, the day of the election.

When the wheat board act was passed, he said, it contained a clause which stated all wheat and contracts standing in the name of the Canadian Wheat Producers Limited would be taken over by the Canadian Wheat Board. The purpose of the bill was to put wheat in hands of the board.

"This has been a tremendous undertaking," Mr. Brouillette stated. "Staffs of accountants and clerks have been employed to closely check all documents and papers relative to one of the largest financial transactions in Canada for some time. It was completed at the earliest possible date and we were unable to make known our position until the present time."

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Unless a sufficient number register before Tuesday evening next for the "Y" first aid class, which will be conducted at the Y.M.C.A. by Dr. T. W. A. Gray and Ernie Harwood, the former lecturing and the latter handling the practical side, the few who have already registered will be informed there will be no such class. The St. John Ambulance will be the course taught, and include a thorough grounding in the scientific side of first-aid.

A supper of majors and captains to organize for the membership campaign will be held in the Y.M.C.A. to-morrow evening at 6 o'clock.

A city-wide boys' rally will begin to-night in the Y.M.C.A. with an open conference. The following days of the rally, Saturday and Sunday, will be open only to delegates from the various boys' groups throughout the city.

Bob McMaster, secretary of the student Christian Movement at U.B.C. will take the place of Bruce McLagen, who was scheduled to speak at the rally supper to-morrow night.

Alderman W. W. Smith of Vancouver was at the Empress Hotel today on a short visit to this city.

The work of redecorating the Crystal Ballroom of the Empress Hotel is almost completed. The painting of the walls in two shades of green, and of the ceiling in a deep cream is finished, and the greater part of the floor has been sanded and polished.

CLAIMS C.C.F. HAS SOLUTION

Complete Change in Economic System Needed, Says Taylor

Speaking at a well-attended meeting in the I.O.O.F. Hall at Duncan yesterday evening, J. S. Taylor, C.C.F. candidate, again emphasized the character of the issues involved in this election.

Speaking of the confusion arising from the multiplicity of candidates he claimed that Liberals, Conservatives, Reconstructionists and Social Crediters represented attitudes of mind within the capitalist system of economy.

The C.C.F. contended that capitalism, in its short 180 years of use, had performed all the functions for which it was suited. It had enabled production to reach a peak sufficient to satisfy the most ambitious demands of all consumers, but in so doing it had stultified the real progress of the people by denying to all but a few the benefits so achieved. Men starved amid plenty. Men callously ground their fellows in the mills of competition and personal greed.

ECONOMIC CHANGE

The only relief to be obtained was by the economic change to the Co-operative Commonwealth, which would speed the machinery of production to meet the needs of all, and which would enlarge the life and freedom of every citizen, releasing him from the continued exploitation inseparable from the capitalist system.

Cox supported the candidate in a lucid statement of the aims of the C.C.F. "You cannot stop the growth of this movement," he said, "every great advance in human progress had been deliberately obstructed by the same methods now employed by our opponents, but they are fighting a losing fight—they are out of step in the march.

"The problem of work has been solved. The purpose of the C.C.F. is to win for our people escape into that life of accomplishment and cultured leisure made available by the modern efficency of production."

Paid Taxes 23 Years; Give Up

Englishwoman Who Bought Oak Bay Lot In 1912 For $1,000 Cannot Sell It For $100

The unfortunate position of an Oak Bay property owner who purchased land in boom times, paid taxes on it for twenty-three years, and now cannot sell it for $100, was brought to the attention of the Municipal Council yesterday.

The owner is a resident of Surrey, England, and bought the lot in 1912 for $1,000. The assessment has been gradually reduced to the present price of $230 and taxes are $9.82 yearly. The owner has apparently been unable to find a buyer for a price of $100.

She notified the Council yesterday she intended to abandon the property.

Finds Wild Rose Flower

A wild rose blossom was found on a bush on Fairfield Road close to the cemetery by Mrs. C. Ganner of Whittaker Street, last Sunday.

This is the first report of wild roses blooming in the fall this year.

Mrs. Ganner said the rose was as large as any she had seen in May. She picked the rose and put it on a grave.

MARKET NOTES

Though Christmas is over two months away, local wholesalers are already preparing for the Yuletide festival.

The first shipment of Brazil nuts arrived in Victoria to-day. Half a carload, or 10,000 pounds of these nuts are in store on wholesale row awaiting Christmas shoppers.

Ripe hothouse tomatoes continue cheap. A basket of No. 1 grade sells for 25 cents in local stores, but wholesalers point out that the price is likely to rise within the next week as local producers are preparing carload shipments for the prairie market.

A car of citrous fruits which was expected on Wednesday has not arrived on wholesale row yet. Wholesalers, this morning, believed it would come in this afternoon. The citrous fruits have traveled by rail from California due to the embargo of longshoremen in Los Angeles on all produce to British Columbia ports.

A car of Okanagan wine grapes and Concords arrived in Victoria to-day.

Good quality Westholme potatoes are now making their appearance daily at local distributing centres. The prices are said to be reasonable.

HEAR TALK ON PLAYWRITING

The study and work required to prepare oneself for playwriting was outlined in a delightful informal talk by Miss Reby Edmonds to members of Victoria College Literary Society at its first meeting this week.

Miss Edmonds went into some detail over the value of the prospective playwright applying himself to the study of various forms and types of play and the work necessary to write one. She followed with an account of the difficulties of marketing.

Concluding, Miss Edmonds outlined to her hearers various phases of mask work and passed around to the students different masks she has made.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the speaker by Mun Hope, president of the society. Refreshments were served and a general discussion followed.

Officials of the society are Miss Jeannette Cann, honorary president; Mun Hope, president, and Miss Cicely Holmes, secretary.

BALLET RUSSE IN NEW YORK

Russian Dancers Make First Appearance in America Since War

Associated Press

New York, Oct. 11.—Russian ballet returned to the Metropolitan Opera House Wednesday night for the first time since the Great War.

It was the opening of the American season of Col. W. de Basil's Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo—a successor to the old Imperial Russian ballet of Czarist days.

His great dancer, Nijinsky, is in a Swiss sanitarium, seriously ill. But the glamour, the rhythm, the drama, the beautiful ballerinas—all were back last night.

The programme might have been the same as any night in the Mariinsky Theatre in old St. Petersburg—"Scheherazade" and "Aurora's Wedding," the latter with its music from Tschaikowsky's "Sleeping Beauty" waltz.

These were given by Diaghilev during his 1917 season at the Metropolitan, when he brought over Nijinsky for his first American appearance.

Society greeted the ballet as it did then. But not only the boxes were filled, the crowd filled all the seats and every balcony of the "Golden Horseshoe."

After two weeks in New York, the company will make a six months' transcontinental tour, giving 212 performances in ninety cities in Canada, the United States and Cuba.

CONSUMERS ROBBED BY ORDER-IN-COUNCIL

By G. Lawson, in The Winnipeg Free Press

To understand the Arbitrary Values which have been imposed by the Bennett government, it is necessary to know what constitutes the true value for duty. Briefly, it is the fair market value of the goods where they are bought. No special concessions can be given the Canadian purchaser for the purpose of disposing of surplus stock of other countries or for any other reason. For example, if a Canadian purchaser paid only $75.00 for a shipment of boots valued at $100.00, because the American manufacturer wanted to unload them, the Canadian importer would pay duty on $100.00, and in addition would pay the difference of $25.00 to the government as a dumping duty so that it is exactly the same as if no concession was granted.

From this it can be readily seen that it is a piece of election humbug for politicians to preach from one end of Canada to the other that we must have a tariff to protect our workers from other countries dumping their surplus stock into Canada. Our dumping law, in effect over twenty-five years, gives complete protection. Next time a politician springs this, ask him if he knows what the dumping law is.

It is generally supposed Parliament has control of the tariff. But in 1930, the Bennett government brought in a law which took control of the tariff out of the hands of Parliament and invested it in the hands of the Minister of National Revenue through "Orders-in-Council." It is safe to say that outside of those who engineered this law, that not 1 per cent of the members knew the real meaning of the act. Briefly, this gave the minister power through "Orders-in-Council" to place any value he saw fit on any article. For example, if the real and fair value of an article was $50.00 the minister could declare the value for duty to be $75.00. Practically all members took this to mean duty would be charged on $75.00 instead of $50.00. It did, but, they did not know its real fine point. Not only was duty charged on $75.00, but the difference of $25.00 was taken by the government as a dumping duty, because the minister by declaring $75.00 to be the dutiable value brought it under the dumping law.

This has been the most vicious tariff law ever passed and has been one of the greatest restrictions against recovery of trade. No merchant can with security order any goods, for after ordering and making up his price list or catalogue an arbitrary value might be ordered which would increase the duty 50 to 100 per cent. A large proportion of our people do not even now understand its true meaning. It would be well for them to study the few examples given below. They will then understand why the consumer has had to pay such high prices on these protected articles. Note radios and automobiles. Arbitrary values have been set on a great variety of goods, few classes escape. A fairly comprehensive list is given below. A few of these articles have been cancelled under public pressure.

Compare the prices of radios in the United States with the prices in Canada and you will get a fair example of the result of "Orders-in-Council." The following examples will show how vicious they are and how they are used to protect the big industrialists, and oh! how the consumer does pay!

Arbitrary values apply on nearly all fresh fruits and vegetables. The two examples of these are taken from actual importations and are but average cases, and show clearly how some parts of Canada, principally the prairies, have been made to carry the depression burden.

The few examples shown here apply equally well to this list of articles: Automobiles, radios, doors, lamp shades, lamp fixtures, electric lamps, umbrellas, wood lead pencils, wiping rags (cotton), artificial silk, oak flooring, wicker furniture, flower stands, children's furniture, running shoes, pot cleaners, cotton fabrics, cotton dresses, rubberized fabrics, fringes, etc., thumb tacks, gasoline, cooperage stock, dry batteries, fire brick, ferromangees, cotton flannelettes, cotton pyjamas, rubber aprons, wool jersey cloth, lime, dried egg albumen, sugar of milk, berets, jute twines, hats, etc., cotton stockingettes, cotton wash suits, rubber bathing caps, deflated balls.

Besides the above, the Board of Customs have raised the values on a large number of articles, principally hardware, tools and textiles from various countries.

POPULAR STAR AT DOMINION

George O'Brien Has Leading Role in "Hard Rock Harrigan," Opening To-day

A drama of danger, dynamite sticks and dynamite fists, reckless daredevils and fatal feuds, and lovers of life who scoff at death will be seen in "Hard Rock Harrigan," which opened at the Dominion Theatre to-day, with George O'Brien, the screen's top action star, outdoing himself in the title role.

Replete with dramatic suspense, fast-moving action and pleasing romance, the story concerns a feud between a husky "hard-rock" driller, portrayed by George O'Brien, and his tunnel boss, layed by Fred Kohler, who are engaged in drilling a tunnel through a mountainside to complete a gigantic aqueduct project. The action of the film occurs principally in a construction camp and deep within the interior of a tunnel in a mountainside.

LITTLE ORPHEUM THEATRE

Such was the cinematic pleasure presented to a large audience at the Little Orpheum Theatre, when "Treasure Island," famous Robert Louis Stevenson pirate classic, opened last night.

The powerful heart appeal of this combination of man and boy that stirred millions with "The Champ" and recently "The Bowery," has never been presented with more dramatic intensity than in the pirate story.

As Long John Silver, ferocious sea raider, Beery is chosen as a friend by young Cooper portraying Jim Hawkins, boy adventurer. Their experiences together during the search for treasure are packed with thrills and pathos that bring gasps and tears to everyone in the theatre.

GRETA GARBO TO BE STARRED HERE

Garbo . . . the beautiful, the exotic, the masterful . . . emerges as a new and greater star in the cinema heavens through her work in "Anna Karenina," a David O. Selznick production, which will open at the Capitol Theatre to-morrow. Wending her way through as beautiful and touching a story as ever presented on the screen, Garbo runs the gamut of human emotions. Director Clarence Brown has brought the Count Leo Tolstoy novel to the screen in a blaze of glory. Gowns by Adrian make one gasp at their beauty. Photography of William Daniels is near to perfect. Story is enacted by a cast that melt into the various parts and lend a degree of humanness to their roles that is a revelation. "Anna Karenina" is truly of roadshow calibre. It represents Garbo's greatest endeavor in ten years of making pictures for Metro-Goldyn-Mayer.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

They are Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery, together again for the first time since the prize-winning "When Ladies Meet."

COLUMBIA THEATRE

An exceptionally large and talented cast was selected to play in support of James Cagney in his latest starring vehicle for Warner Bros., "The St. Louis Kid," now showing at the Columbia Theatre.

Jimmy himself is said to have won new laurels in this picture which has been hailed as his most hilarious and most exciting up to date, notwithstanding the fact that he recently played with such success in "Here Comes the Navy," "He Was Her Man," "Jimmy, the Gent," "Lady Killer" and others.

EDITH MAYELL TO SING ROLE

Popular Singer of Victoria Will Have Leading Part

Edith Mayell will bring to the role of "Ortrud" in the forthcoming production of Wagner's immortal "Lohengrin," to be given by the Victoria Civic Opera Society at the Royal Victoria Theatre on October 18 and 19, a wealth of experience gained both in Canada and abroad.

She has studied under well-known vocal and operatic coaches both in Great Britain and Italy, having been for some time with Signore Fiaschi, principal vocal professor in the Royal Academy of Music in Florence.

Locally, she has made many friends for herself and her art by her radio and concert work, and has done considerable radio work in the United States.

Her appearance in what is undoubtedly the most ambitious effort of Victoria singers and will be anticipated with pleasure by the music-loving public of the city.

Mystery Drama Will Be Given

"Ten Minute Alibi," With Fine Cast, to Be Given in Victoria Next Week

"Ten Minute Alibi," the Victoria Little Theatre Association's first play of the season, is an amazingly gripping mystery drama. It will be given at the Empire Theatre, October 16.

Philip Sevilla, suave, smooth-spoken and always reasonable arch-villain, is excellently played by Bill Lambert. It is a different type of role than Mr. Lambert has previously played, but he makes the onlooker feel that they too, like Betty Findon, played by Noel Cusack, might easily become a victim of such convincing plausibility. Impeccable in his manners, silver-tongued in his love-making, he only loses control of the situation through his mercenary instincts.

In contrast to this easy hypocrisy is Colin Derwent, the sincere lover, and his desperate attempt to free the woman he loves from the hold Philip Sevilla has over her. Colin Derwent, played by Bert Bailey, is a very real performance as with a final physical and emotional effort he frees Betty Findon.

Others in the cast include Dan McDonald, H. F. Hewett, Arthur Kerr and H. J. Davis.

ANDREWS

THE WORLD'S LARGEST SELLING EFFERVESCENT SALINE

THE LIBERAL PLATFORM

How Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King Outlined the Policies Of the Liberal Party in the House of Commons

The policies of the Liberal Party of Canada in relation to some immediate outstanding problems were set forth by its leader, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, in the House of Commons on February 27, 1933, as follows:

UNEMPLOYMENT OF FIRST CONCERN

The Liberal party believes unemployment is Canada's most urgent national problem. It would deal with the present emergency conditions through a representative national commission, which would co-operate wth provinces and municipalities in the administration of unemployment relief and in an endeavor to provide work for the unemployed.

As permanent measures the Liberal party is pledged to introduce policies which will serve to provide employment by reviving industry and trade; and to introduce a national system of unemployment insurance.

LIBERATION OF EXTERNAL TRADE

The Liberal party believes that trade is the basis of industrial and commercial development, and that Canada needs trade.

It will promote trade with all nations and negotiate trade agreements with any countries willing to trade with Canada on a reciprocal basis.

It will abolish the extravagant increase in the tariff made by the present administration, which have had the effect of strangling trade, exploiting consumers and robbing railways of business.

It will abolish all unwarranted extra taxes on imports, such as the exchange and dumping duties, as imposed by the present adminstration.

It will end the making and altering of tariffs by executive action.

It will substitute stability for uncertainty in the administration of customs laws.

It will continue the Liberal policy of British preference by a percentage reduction in existing tariffs rather than by a percentage increase against foreign countries in existing tariffs.

It will grant to British imports a real preference.

LIBERATION OF INTERNAL TRADE

The Liberal party will seek to end artificial price control and agreements in restraint of trade. Price fixing by agreements restrict and hamper trade internally. The internal trade of our country has become honeycombed and enmeshed by secret understandings and agreements.

DEVELOPMENT OF PRIMARY INDUSTRIES

The Liberal party, by its policies, will continue to further the development of agriculture, lumbering, mining and fisheries by effecting reductions in the costs of production of Canada's basic products and by obtaining wider markets therefor, by encouraging export trade, and by state assistance in the marketing of natural products.

CONTROL OF CREDIT

The Liberal party believes that credit is a public matter, not of interest to bankers only, but of direct concern to the average citizen. It stands for the immediate establishment of a properly constituted national central bank, to perform the functions of rediscount, and the control of currency issue, considered in terms of public need. A Central Bank is necessary to determine the supply of currency in relation to the domestic, social and industrial requirements of the Canadian people; and also to deal with problems of international commerce and exchange.

CONTROL OF INVESTMENTS

The Liberal party believes the financial mismanagement of industry is largely responsible for many conditions obtaining to-day.

To prevent exploitation of the public through the sale of watered stocks and worthless securities, it believes an investment control board should be established, with supervision of issues of securities by companies incorporated under federal charters.

SAFEGUARDING OF NATIONAL RAILWAYS

DEMONCRATIZATION OF INDUSTRY

The Liberal party believes that industrial reconstruction is the problem of the future. It will seek in industrial relations as opportunity offers, to give to workers and consumers a larger share n the government of industry.

RESTORATION OF RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT

The Liberal party believes that the present crisis has been made an excuse for the usurpation of autocratic powers by the executive. Liberalism stands, as always, for the principle of a free Parliament, and for the supremacy of parliament. To this end it would repeal the legislation enacted by the present administration, which deprives parliament of its control over expenditures and taxation, and invests the executive with unwarranted arbitrary powers, as for example:

(1) legislation permitting the executive to enact measures by order-in council for peace, order and good government, and

(2) legislation providing the executive with a "blank cheque" for expenditures of any kind.

RE-ASSERTION OF PERSONAL LIBERTY

The Liberal party believes that under the excuse of the present crisis, the rights of the individual have been violated. Liberalism stands, as always, for the British principle of Free Speech and Free Association, and to this end will repeal section 98 of the Criminal Code, and end the present practice of arbitrary deportation.

ELECTORAL REFORM

The Liberal party stands for electoral laws which will ensure a true parliamentary representation of the Canadian people and such legislation as may help to reduce the cost of election campaigns.

A BALANCED BUDGET

The Liberal party believes the aim of every government should be the balancing of its budget.

It would seek to effect that end, by retrenchment of public expenditures, by reduction of principal and interest on the public debt by a reduction of taxation and by increasing revenues through the encouragement of trade.

It will seek to effect a reduction of the cost of government in Canada by a careful inquiry into federal, provincial and municipal costs.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The Liberal party will seek to further wherever possible those courses in international relations which make for peace and goodwill among nations, and promote friendly intercourse between them. It will seek to further the work of the League of Nations.

MORE EQUITABLE DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH

The Liberal party recognizes that the problem of distribution has become more important than that of production, and believes that personality is more sacred than property. It will devote itself to finding ways and means of effecting a fair and just distribution of wealth with increasing regard to human need, to the furtherance of social justice, and to the promotion of the common good.

WILL RENDER FINE NUMBERS

Many Favorites to Be Heard in Programme by Schubert Club and Meistersingers

The programme to be rendered by the combined Schubert and Meistersingers Choirs in the First United Church on Friday, October 25, will be of outstanding merit.

The recital will be entirely choral and will have both piano and organ accompaniments. The most important work to be rendered will be "Blest Pair of Sirens," composed by C. H. H. Parry, which was first performed in 1887 by the Bach Choir in London.

The prayer from Mascagni's "Cavaleria Rusticana" will also be given. Another fine work will be Wagner's "When to Thee Our Saviour Went," from Die Meistersinger. These numbers will be sung by the combined choirs.

The Schubert Club will sing "Ave Maria" (Schubert), "O God Whose Goodness Reacheth Far" (Beethoven), Bruno Huhn's "Message," "Nature's Resurrection" (Huntingdon Woodman), and other fine numbers.

The Meistersingers will be heard in several groups which include "The King and the Bard," composed by Fried Hegar. By request Keteiby's "Monastery Garden" will be given. This charming number requires the use of bells which the First United Church organ possesses. Grace Timp will be at the piano and Jack Smith at the organ. Frederic King will conduct.

The following organ numbers will be rendered: "Intermezzo," from Rheinberger's "Fourth Sonata," "Andantino Cantabile" (Caesar Franck) and "Chant de May" (Jongen).

A protest from E. H. M. Foot against the burning of grass in the Uplands at the present time was received and filed by the Oak Bay Council yesterday. Mr. Foot's protest was based on the contention that the burning destroyed food for birds, particularly in heavily-grassed areas. He did not object to burning the weeds out.

VIOLINIST IN FINE RECITAL

Jean de Rimanoczy, Phyllis Ward Delight Audience With Splendid Performance

(By G.J.D.)

When first we heard, only a few weeks ago, the very excellent Hungarian violinist, Jean de Rimanoczy, as soloist with the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra, in which he is its concert master, we thought of Victoria's musical people.

In bringing him from the mainland city, the Victoria Musical Art Society, in its first winter monthly series of concerts, must be thanked, in providing a large, keenly appreciative audience with the opportunity to hear him, together with Phyllis Ward, a prominent Vancouver pianist, in their well-enjoyed recital at the Empress Hotel ballroom Wednesday evening.

De Rimanoczy is a violinist who attracts and raises the desire to hear more and still more of his soulful playing and technical skill. He has that inborn spark which one instantly recognizes, and his violinistic equipment is as perfect as is required by present violinists before the public. Superiority is written all over his dexterous left hand, and the lithesomeness of his bow arm, and in the modelling of his staccatos, trills, double stops, octaves, brilliant scale passages, are all his to give and to command.

It was fitting that he selected as his first number the "Variations on a Hungarian Theme," by his celebrated master and composer, Jeno Hubay (pupil of the famous Joachim). It was brilliantly played, its tremendous difficulties being surmounted with ease, taste and distinction. Immediate loud applause followed, the player being brought back thrice to the platform.

The Brahms Concerto, op. 77, in three movements, followed, in which he again displayed certainty of execution, musical insight, the final, Allegro Giocoso, being given with fascinating ease and suavity, and with his sympathetic accompanist in splendid support, there was a skilful approximation of the work and fluent combination of two admirably fitted and proficient experts. As in the first number, the telling cadenza was finely achieved, the soloist meeting with immediate responsive applause and several recalls to the platform. But, Mr. Rimanoczy, why the Brahms Concerto without the orchestra?

The concluding five numbers embraced closey identified selections in violin literature; the gay and graceful Schubert "Rondo," Debussy's exquisitely delicate and haunting "La Plus Que Lente," Hubay's graceful "Zephyr," with its many harmonics, exquisitely played; "Dream in the Twilight," by Strauss, arranged by Hubay, and the Kreisler favorite, taken with speed and spirit, "Tambourin Chinnois," loud applause again breaking forth with unmistakable demands for further numbers, to which the violinist responded with a beautiful Corelli "Theme" and "Guitarre" by Moszkowski.

Miss Ward is an engaging pianiste. In her group of three solo numbers, and in the sensitive reliability of her accompaniments she had plenty to do, and admirably equal to it was she. Her tone is especially delightful and singing, and is supplemented by intelligence and a thoroughly musical imagination, as were evinced in "La Paganini-Liszt, that had delicate touch and a lyric graciousness; and "Quejas o la Maja Y El Ruisenor" (the Lady and the Nightingale), a beautiful excerpt from the beginning of the third act of Granados's opera, "Gozescas," and Dohnanyi's impressive and lofty "Rhapsodie" in C major, in which the pianist identified herself completely with the music of this inspiring work that evoked enthusiastic applause and three recalls to the platform.

Mrs. C. S. Beals, the president of the Musical Arts Society, introduced the Vancouver artists.

C. H. Dickie Deals With Granting Vote to Orientals; Boost for Bennett

Granting of the franchise to Orientals in Canada would be dangerous, particularly in British Columbia, where in ten years Japanese would dominate the Pacific Coast, C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate for Nanaimo riding told an audience in Mount View High School, Saanich, yesterday evening.

Mr. Dickie warned that eventually Orientals with voting power would support policies favoring the Orient which would have serious effect on Canada. Orientals, he said, were not familiar with Canada and her problems, or her history, and could not vote intelligently on political policies.

He was supported at the meeting by W. A. McKenzie, former provincial cabinet minister, and Clement Carmichael of Vancouver. Byron Hoole acted as chairman.

"In the long days gone by you have been generous to me and whether I am elected or not I will long appreciated this" Mr. Dickie said.

It had been said Mr. Dickie was getting too old for the job. "I may be a little disfigured, but I am still in the ring" he said. He dwelt on the experience of his last years and said "whether or not I am too old I am going to be your next member anyway."

He was happy to note a sympathetic feeling towards Conservatism in the Gulf Islands where he has just finished campaigning.

UNITED STATES MARKET BROKEN

When the Bennett government took office in 1930 it found a difficult situation confronting it.

The market in the south was badly broken up by tariffs and it was impossible to send any farm produce to United States.

Canada had an adverse trade balance of $103,000,000. In four years under Mr. Bennett's trade policy this had changed to a favorable balance of $152,000,000.

The result of the unfavorable balance had been the exacting of higher interest rates on borrowed money, while in her present situation Canada could borrow as cheaply as any other country.

"Mr. Bennett said he could end unemployment. No doubt he thought he could and now he asks another lease of life to achieve this "Mr. Dickie said. He agreed the Prime Minister's much-quoted remark was a "little careless."

NO DISCRIMINATION

To show the difference "between a statesman and a demagogue," Mr. Dickie said, Mr. Bennett had shown no discrimination in political color when making loans to provinces, while Mr. King said he would not give a five cent piece to a Tory government.

Mr. Bennett had met the United States raise in tariffs with an equal raise in Canada to reduce the adverse balance of $365,000,000 to $38,000,000.

The Conservative trade policy had added to Canadian prestige and she was now thought more of by United States than she had ever been before.

He referred to the value to Canada of the agreements reached with British Empire delegates at the Ottawa conference.

Results of these agreements had been seen in the lumber industry, 400,000,000 feet of lumber being shipped to England last year.

Socialism was idealism, he said, in dealing with the C.C.F. He described it as a Utopian theory.

Men who studied theoretically were not as well-suited for administering the country as those of practical experience. Theorists have never been successful in any part of the world.

He did not blame the C.C.F. for favoring enfranchisement of the Orientals since they believed sincerely in their theory of the brotherhood of man. He referred to the disastrous effects which enfranchisement of Japanese would have. In ten years at their present rate of increasing they would dominate the Pacific Coast.

"When we see what they have done in other countries it is up to us to beware," he said.

"We cannot give them the vote, as much as we respect them," he said.

SPEAKS ON PROBLEM

Mr. McKenzie replied forcibly to Mr. King's criticism of the Bennett unemployment relief administration.

From 1921 to 1930, during the King regime, 920,000 emigrants left Canada for the United States. In the last three years 90,000 of these had returned. Also, during the last five years 500,000 young men and women who graduated were thrust upon the labor market.

From 1922 to 1930, under the King government, 1,187,000 immigrants came into Canada and, despite provincial government protests to stop the flow, it had continued, he said.

In the winter of 1930, 96,000 of these immigrants went on relief.

Mr. Bennett had shut down 100 per cent on this immigration to prevent labor competition and lower the relief rolls, he said.

"Eliminate the compulsory clause of your Marketing Act and it isn't worth a nickel," Mr. McKenzie said, in referring to Mr. King's proposal for such action.

During the King regime there were 900 cars of fruit shipped from the United States to the prairies, while the fruit rotted on the trees in the Okanagan.

"A vote for Mr. Dickie is not only a vote for him, but for Mr. Bennett, who asks you to vote for Canada," he concluded.

THE LIBERAL PARTY

through its leader, MacKenzie King, has publicly notified Japan that it will, if returned to power, accede to her demands....

that it will virtually accept Japanese dictation for Canada.

Mr. King said, in dealing with the Japanese threat, "We of the Liberal Party do not accept the principle of Protection."

In 1930 he would not protect Canadian workers for fear of provoking the United States and now, in 1935, he would "surrender to Japan."

THE CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT

says Canada will not accept Oriental dictation. Canada must protect her workers and the standard of living of its people against the unfair competion of low cost Japanese labor.

THE PRIME MINISTER

is a true Canadian. Here is a fine example of his "Canada First" Policy. Japan had demanded that Canada change the customs laws and regulations in a manner that would, in effect, place Japan in a privileged position in Canadian Markets.

The letter of September 4, 1935, to Mr. S. Kato, Minister of Japan, to Canada, Mr. Bennett as Secretary of State for External Affairs said, "The unaltered attitude of the Government of Japan, as evidenced in your representations of August 16, puts directly in issue the right of the Government of Canada to protect the wages of its workers and the standard of living of its people against unfair competition of low cost labor paid greatly depreciated currencies. The Government of Canada is unable to accept any compromise of the basic principle of fair competition which governs its commercial relations and upon the maintenance of which the welfare of Canada depends."

ONLY the bulwark of a Determined Conservative Policy will stem the Tide of Oriental Trade Invasion.

Council Goes Ahead With Drainage and Sidewalk Improvements

Duncan, Oct. 11.—At the Duncan city council meeting Tuesday evening a letter was received from the Indian Department complaining that two many stray Indian cattle are being impounded, George Henderson, poundkeeper, was present, and after hearing his explanation of the matter, the council decided that there was little ground for complaint.

The streets committee recommended an extension to the street drainage system on Canada Avenue and Ingram Street. This was passed, and will be put in hand right away, cost to be about $700. Two new asphalt sidewalks will be built, on Marchmont and Relinfers Roads, at a cost of $1,275.

The council decided to request the Nanaimo-Duncan Utilities Company to put in a new fire hydrant at the corner of Godden and Trunk Roads.

It was reported that as a result of the meeting between a representative of the council and Cowichan municipality, regarding trade license fees, a modification of the present "gentlemen's" agreement, was arranged.

The question of retail licenses was left over for a special meeting on October 26.

TO GROW FOOD FOR THE NEEDY

Oak Bay Will Plant Five Acres in Vegetables

A plan similar to that instituted by the city at Beacon Hill park, to supply needy families with food, was approved by the Oak Bay Council yesterday at the suggestion of Reeve R. W. Mayhew.

The council has decided to plant five acres at Elgin Road and Yale Street with potatoes and carrots, to be given to the Friendly Help for distribution.

It was intimated the grounds may ultimately be used as a municipal nursery but for the present the suggestion is to plough them and have them sowed by the unemployed.

Many a Man

Has escaped a nervous breakdown

It is now becoming generally known,
By word of mouth from one person to another,
That scores of nervous, worried business men
Attribute their escape from nervous collapse
To the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
Business cares and worries of recent years
Have made men old before their time.
Almost daily you read of prominent men dropping out
In the very prime of life.
Others have survived, because they learned in time
Of a way to restore nerve force to the body.
As a result weak, halting vital organs
Have again assumed their natural functions.
Rest and sleep have become possible,
And mind and body have been restored to normal.
If you find yourself slipping
Ask your friends about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
In almost every family there is some one
Who has profited by use of this modern restorative.

DECENT SOCIAL ORDER NEEDED

So Says J. King Gordon in Addressing Oak Bay Meeting; Rev. R. Connell Speaker

"If you make a study of it, you will see that we have to either take our present system in hand and plan it intelligently, or else it is going to keep us in serfdom and drag us down with it, as it has dragged us down during the last five years," declared Professor J. King Gordon, C.C.F. candidate in the Victoria riding, when speaking at a public meeting at Hampshire Road Hall, Oak Bay, yesterday evening.

"We are facing to-day," Mr. Gordon said, "a crisis in our economic life as well as a crisis in our democracy. Economy means cutting wages and accepting a complete defeat of the present economic system. It means a smaller purchasing power and the pressing down of our standard of living."

Mr. Gordon spoke of the present European trouble, and said "the situation provides an occasion for plunder of our people, and makes for them more heavy the load which they are already carrying." He was referring to the increase in prices on food commodities since the outbreak of hostilities in Ethiopia.

MODERN BOOKS

A great many of the books being put out by learned people, Professor Gordon declared, were books which concerned economic life and issues.

"Sometimes I wonder if the men of the old parties ever read these books," he said "I have heard Mackenzie King referred to as a Victorian, but really he might be described as early Gothic."

The speaker said people were fast approaching the day when they would exercise their democratic rights. The machine, he said, was crowding out men in the capitalistic system. He said Premier Bennett was a colossal figure in Canadian affairs. "In fact he has become the whole Conservative party," he stated. "Both the major political parties he said were pledged to capitalism, but admitted there was a depression, but that there was no way out.

"The C.C.F. proposes to take factories and industries and put them to work for our people, and that is what it intends to do," Professor Gordon said. "We are not now utilizing our natural resources to the best interests of our people. We see colossal waste in a land of plenty."

Mr. Gordon predicted that if Mackenzie King were elected, it would be by the vote in Quebec. He referred to "a little group in Montreal," and said such a group was "the invisible government behind the government."

The speaker said great monopolistic industries had proved their failure. "If we fail to send to Ottawa," he said, "those who are going to press for a planned economy we are going backwards. The time has now come for the Canadian people to declare themselves for a decent social order, get rid of all this political party humbug and set to work and put their house in order."

COMMUNISTIC VOTE

Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P., told of, a recent visit he had made to cities and towns in the interior of the province. He said he found much interest in the C.C.F. platform. He said the party was gaining people all the time—people whom it was thought it would never gain. He said no doubt many Communists would vote for C.C.F. candidates, "but because that is so some people imagine we are in some secret league with them."

He attacked Mayor McGeer's statement that "all C.C.F. members and Communists never mention the name of God without a sneer," and added that Mr. McGeer was a "negligible quantity" in the election, and that his speech here was "inglorious blackness."

Mr. Connell referred to the early days of the C.C.F., and said the platform was laid down by a group of professors of McGill and Toronto Universities, among whom was Professor King Gordon. He said Victoria should send to Ottawa a man of outstanding quality and character, and not a man interested in getting large sums out of the treasury.

"Such a practice is one of the most corrupting influences in Canadian politics," Mr. Connell said, "but in the C.C.F. we have washed our hands of that sort of thing.

Nigil Morgan occupied the chair, introducing Mr. Gordon and Mr. Connell and also Joseph Round of Montreal, who spoke a few words to the gathering.

Members of the Oak Bay council yesterday accepted an invitation from the Remembrance Day Committee to inspect the local Red Cross Workshop.

HE WAS AFRAID OF HIS FOOD

laws. In fact, quoting from The Times report, September 18, he said: "Sir Edward is not interested in the social welfare of the people of Canada; he is only interested in increasing the dividends of the C.P.R." Very nobly and courageously spoken, but how asinine, as it strikes me as extremely unlikely such a thing could possibly be, because the social welfare of the Canadian people is vitally important to the C.P.R. and still more so to Sir Edward himself personally, and I thoroughly concur with Mr. G. R. Herbert's letter published on September 30 in The Times advising the elated speaker of the Temperance League to stick to his knitting—or words to that effect; but really I think his time should be more busily occupied by adding some laundry to the chore work.

A most admirable stand has been taken by Major Richardson of East Sooke, hitting several nails on the head relative to the liquor situation, which needed a great deal of intestinal fortitude, and I for one admire him. His letter on the subject was published in The Colonist of recent date.

However, recriminations are not in order at this stage of the game, but certain pertinent questions are:

1. To whom are accruing the financial benefits of the liquor laws?

2. Why, in face of a recent petition to the government for certain amendments to the liquor laws, has nothing been done?

3. To whom or to what belongs the well-known dark body in the woodpile?

Mr. Editor, I humbly quote, in all sincerity: "Fiat justitia ruat caelum—facter non verba."

CALLOUS

To the Editor:—I hope that the dr er who was so cruel as to run over a poor dog on the Sooke Road, leaving it dying in agony with a broken neck, will read this letter.

On Monday evening driving to Sooke we saw two dogs at the side of the road. We slowed down as one crossed in front of us. Not so the car that was coming in the other direction. The dogs must have been plainly seen by the driver, as the road was well lit up by the lights of both cars. However, he calmly drove on, running over one and leaving it to die as above mentioned.

Such cruelty seems impossible to understand. E. H.

C.C.F. AND CHRISTIANITY

To the Editor:—May I say through the columns of your broad-minded paper that the remarks of Mayor McGeer allying communism with the C.C.F. clash strongly with what I have found by experience to be the truth. I have had connection with both communist and C.C.F. organizations, but being a member of the Christian Church I am able to look at the whole situation in the light of Christian principle.

In a mood of impulse, which a number of us experience upon leaving school, I joined the Young Communist League, as I supposed, to hasten the millenium. Much was my disillusionment! I found therein seditious youth, low in principle and unacquainted with the higher things of life, even denying the thought of Christ. On finding out this truth I took the natural course and withdrew from the organization.

Later I joined the C.C.F., against which I had heard so much from the communists. Immediately I was scoffed and jeered at by the disrupters. They reminded me that Woodsworth was a tool of Fascism, that Christianity was a force to be fought as the workers' enemy, and that the capitalists were financing the C.C.F. One suggested that I had perhaps "even gone back to the church," that "great man-made weapon against the worker."

Despite this jeering I have found in the C.C.F. a better combination of the higher and nobler aims of Christianity, loftier-principled and clearer-thinking men, and a more practical solution of to-day's problems than I ever before dreamed possible. Truly there are also in the C.C.F. a few rank and file members of lower intellect, but I would no sooner judge the whole movement by these few than I would judge the city of Victoria by the appearance of lower Johnson Street.

The red bogey may be trotted out again and again, but the truth cannot be killed. I have found from intimate personal contact as little sympathy between Communists and the C.C.F. as between the pagans and Christians, and by voting in C.C.F., I believe Christian principles will be nearer fulfilment than under either capitalism or communism.

SOCIALISM VS. MR. GEER

To the Editor:—The gratuitous insults levelled by the Mayor of Vancouver against those who may be described as Christian socialists calls for vigorous protest. One marvels that he expected intelligent people to be convinced by the ridiculous assertions he made in the course of his lengthy fulmination in the Royal Theatre on Monday. One is driven to the conclusion that they were intended merely to impress the ignorant and credulous.

Perhaps Mayor McGeer is not aware that Christian Socialism dates from earliest Christian times, for is it not recorded that the Apostles had "all things in common." Is it not true that the main purpose of our Lord's ministry on earth was to give men a true vision of life as God means it to be lived and to inspire men to establish the Kingdom of God on earth? Did He not condemn, in no unmeasured words, those very evils towards the elimination of which Christian Socialists are working? Yet Mayor McGeer has the insolence to assert that subscribers to C.C.F. philosophy, in itself distinctly Christian, are headed in the direction of uprooting religion.

Mr. McGeer counseled Bible-reading, presumably as an antidote to socialistic thinking. Surely he, himself, cannot be very familiar with the Book of Books, especially the Gospels and Epistles, or he would have refrained from offering such a dangerous piece of advice. Were it not that it might cause him to fulminate to the verge of apoplexy, I would suggest that he read verses one to five from the fifth chapter of the Epistle of St. James. I would suggest further that he familiarize himself with the writings of a Christian Socialist of the eleventh century, St. Thomas Aquinas.

Perhaps, Mayor McGeer does not realize that among Anglo-Catholics, the so-called "high-church" party in the Anglican communion, there is a very large and rapidly grown Christian Socialist sentiment.

The work of Father Conrad Noel and scores of devoted priests and prelates are, in this connection, well known. Let me quote the words of one, the saintly Bishop Charles Gore. Writing of Christian states, so-called, he says: "On the whole they have given but a very disappointing picture of the social application of Christian principles. Especially in recent history they have too readily acquiesced in a political economy, really anti-Christian in principle, which by substituting unrestrained competition for co-operation has undermined the very basis of fellowship."

Mayor McGeer must know that there is atheism in the ranks of other political parties, as well as in the C.C.F., although, judging by their teaching, there is obviously much less in the latter body. Every intelligent person must admit that C.C.F. plans are essentially Christian.

ANGLICAN CHURCHMAN.

CANADA AND WAR

One cannot help but be interested in that vital problem that confronts us daily, namely war. In your paper of late have appeared several letters from people who are of the opinion they will not help their country in time of great stress, but would rather look out for their own personal safety, and incidently personal gain. I have little respect for such ingrates as these, who expect all from their country but are not willing to give anything in return.

We as loyal Britishers should be proud, if the need arises, to fight the foes of our mother country. However, if these impatient youths will just be quiet, and leave this crisis to those who have an understanding of the world's problems, that is to say, leave it to the older heads, and the League of Nations (an organization better qualified to cope with the situation) to solve, then I am sure that this so-called catastrophe that the youths are afraid of will be averted, and things will turn out to the best interests of all concerned. Am I not right?

"LOYAL BRITISHER"

POLITICS AND RELIGION

To the Editor:—There is a great deal of talk going on regarding religion in the political field, and without prejudice or professing allegiance to any particular party I ask: "Which, if any, of the 900 odd candidates seeking election in the present campaign has opened his or her meeting with a prayer to the Almighty for guidance, wisdom and understanding?"

Probably most of them think that they have more wisdom and understanding than the Creator and do not need His aid, but I venture to say that the party which will invoke His aid, providing its aims and objects are just and right, will come out on top every time.

Until man, and this includes woman, learns to think, speak, see and do rightly by following the simple Truth teachings of Jesus Christ the world will be in a turmoil which no political party can ever hope to correct.

As has been truly said, "The people have got to get back to God."

O. F. DENNISON.

POLITICAL SITUATION

To the Editor:—Mr. Bennett, I understand, claims that there are in normal times 100,000 unemployed, that instead of being concerned about the 500,000 unemployed, we should only be concerned about 400,000, which he evidently tries to make out is not so very bad.

If he considers it a fair proposition to deduct 100,000 from the total now, then it is quite fair to deduct the same amount from the 1930 figures of 117,000, which would leave only 17,000, for which the then King government could be blamed for, certainly a very small number compared with the 400,000 for which Mr. Bennett's policy is responsible.

Then again he takes great credit for the balance of trade in Canada's favor. I would like to know whether Mr. Bennett considers, or if any one else considers, that the balance of trade in our favor compensates us for the loss of wages of the 400,000 unemployed, together with the loss the transportation companies suffer; also the loss the poor merchants suffer on account of the shortage in the purchasing power. If the Bennett policy, instead of ending unemployment, increased it from 17,000 to 400,000 in five years, what would be the result by the end of another five years, provided he and the Conservative party were returned to power?

P. T. Barnum was credited with saying "that all people can be fooled some of the time, but all people cannot be fooled all the time." But when you consider how the people in Alberta went for Aberhart's scheme of Social Credit there is no saying what crazy notions people will get into their heads. I have seen many elections, from before Confederation to the present, and have seen the Conservative Party try all kinds of schemes to win votes, some of which I think should make Conservatives ashamed to own their party.

For instance, Dalton McCarthy won an election in Frontenac, Ont., right in a United Empire Loyalist stronghold, on the question of annexation to the United States. Mr. McCarthy was one of Sir J. A. Macdonald's ablest henchmen. Sir John used to go on a yearly trek to Washington and beg for reciprocity or annexation, and at the same time claim all loyalty and patriotism.

"What fools we mortals be." With money as cheap as it is now there should be no unemployed. The federal government evidently can borrow enough then print a few new bills to make up the shortage.

Again, Mr. Bennett was only elected for five years. Five years was the allotted time, and he is taking that which does not belong to him by not holding the election inside the five years. If a private individual takes what does not belong to him you know the result; but with a Conservative statesman it, of course, is all right.

Few may know or remember the economic state in 1896—the recovery under Liberal rule, the collapse after 1911 under Conservative rule, the recovery again after 1922 under Liberal rule, but everybody surely remembers the collapse after 1930 under Conservative rule. So vote the Liberal ticket once more with me and save Canada again from another collapse.

ORIENTALS AND C.C.F.

To the Editor:—It seems to be a habit among politicians at election time, to take up in some form or another, the old cry of "wolf, wolf." In 1911 it was "No truck or trade with the Yanks." Since then it has been the "Tariff," "Hang the Kaiser," "Full Dinner Pail," "Work and Wages" and so on. Now it is "Communism and the yellow vote menace."

Owing largely to technocracy and the machine, a new social order is being born. This is absolutely necessary for man's spiritual and physical well-being. Private capitalism, assisted by party politics, obstructs the way. However, if intelligent voters continue to support the party system, proved so inadequate and out of date, then it will be theirs to accept responsibility for the calamity that may result.

We are told that should the Canadian-born Oriental get the vote, that it would be only a matter of time before he took over the country and ruined our high standard of life. (It is forgotten that he went overseas prepared to die for those standards.) High standard of life? Indeed? The gods must have a laugh at that. I want to state that under our present system there can be no secure high standard of life or real freedom for working people (see section 98). They merely have privileges but not what could be called rights. Who brought the Orientals to Canada at $500 per head and for what purpose, but cheap labor, thereby lowering our living standard? Our capitalist governments did this and they are still bringing them in.

Under Socialism, our basic industries which produce wealth needed by all, will be socially owned. Competition between industrials for bread and butter will automatically disappear, for technocracy and the machine will take from nature, according to man's needs. This will give opportunity for a standard of life hitherto unknown. The hopeless may regain hope, the derelict may come back and even the hardened criminal will be under temptation to be decent. Also the yellow vote menace, when individual competition is removed, will disappear like morning mist.

When power comes to the C.C.F. there will likely be a complete shutdown on immigration from the Orient. Capitalist governments can't do this. Their methods, being so wasteful, they are always in need of money. See how they have robbed the taxpayer, hindered production, destroyed food while people starved, and now we are all free to witness the destruction of the people themselves—the boys in camps; the girls on the street and the air filled with the threat of war—a menace to all.

Let us hope, that in this election, when the politician for lack of something constructive to say, tries to put over the old stuff, he will be like the little boy who shouted "Wolf, Wolf," once too often.

REPLIES TO "TRADES UNIONIST"

To the Editor:—In connection with the letter of recent date in your columns signed "Trades Unionist," the injustice of the implications therein compels me to answer the charges levelled at the "Truck-driving Councillor." The letter merely raises a storm in a teapot, but unless corrected is capable of harm.

"Trades Unionist" has picked out one chance remark made by me during the cross-fire at the council table and has distorted it into a tale of subtle malice. His remarks anent my trade union activities are not wholly in accordance with the facts and have nothing to do with the council.

For my activities in the Truck Drivers' Union, my own associates will act as judges.

I wonder if "Trades Unionist" was present at the council meeting in question or whether someone has told him a bed-time story. If the former, his letter is a decided effort to create a false impression, and if the latter, it is a mistake which he will shortly have the chance to rectify.

"Trades Unionist" may or may not know that I have brought up the janitorial question in several different ways. My first motion was that the position, along with two other part-time ones, be consolidated into one full-time job, with a view to giving increased efficiency, especially to the fire department.

With the exception of two or three meetings per month in the small committee-room, the top story of the municipal hall is a white elephant as ratepayers' organizations are barred from using the hall by a ruling of the council majority. This action leaves only the small ground floor space needing regular service. Statements made at council meetings have shown that the work actually has been and still could be done in less than half an hour per day. The former janitor was "passed on," so now is the time to reorganize without having to discharge an old and faithful employee.

Pay a fair wage? Yes; but I will not be a party to maintaining a position which in reality is not needed, while there are so many home owners (who provide the money) wondering how they are going to pay their taxes. Relief of unemployment is, in my opinion, the responsibility of senior governments. We should pay for what we need only. In line with this stand I moved at the last meeting that the position be abolished and his duties be undertaken by the relief officer. Turned down by the usual council majority.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I am going to live up to my oft-repeated wish for full and open discussion on all matters, and will rent a hall in the near future to explain my stand on this and any other matter connected with my work on the council, and when the time comes I shall invite "Trades Unionist" to drop his nom-de-plume and come up on the platform to challenge me openly, as a gentleman would.

FRED EATON,

PROFITS AND WAR

To the Editor:—I read with interest Mr. Dick Milne's letter "Youth and War," appearing in your paper of 7th inst. It is indeed tragic to think that youth may be called upon to fight another imperialistic war. I feel as surely as I know my own name that we will have another great war; it may not come this year, but it will not be far off. What a pity that when it does come upon us all the old and elderly men and women, especially those of reactionary minds and opinions, could not be the first to be conscripted! Clear them out of the way and give Youth a chance. What a safe world it would be if all reactionary morons in favor of the conditions which cause war knew that they would be the first to go; there would be no war.

Mr. Milne mentions exorbitant profits accruing to capitalists and industrialists. I assume that he means war profits? Has he given the profits of peace-time any consideration? That is a vital point—one which youth must always keep in front of them if they would prevent another imperialistic war; for peace-time profits or the seeking of such profits in the world markets are the main cause of war. We have no less an authority than the the Very Rev. Dean of Canterbury for that, although he did not put it exactly that way. It was something like this: "Every nation was trying to grab markets to keep the money (profit) stream flowing by selling off goods which their own people needed." Here, he said, lay the economic evil which was the root of war. In this connection it is interesting to remember what Canada's super-salesman, Premier Bennett, said: "I will blast my way into the markets of the world."

If other statesmen the world over have not been so frank in stating their aims, they are, however, committed in this economic world system of ours to just the same course. They cannot help themselves; witness what Mussolini is doing—driven to it by economic pressure at home. If our system insists on profits—and I can't see any of the old-line political parties coming out flat-footed to "produce goods for use and not for profits"—then youth will do the blasting with their bodies in an imperialistic war for profits, which means markets for goods which we could well use at home. So I would say to you, Mr. Dean, if I may, "Learn to hate profits, find out all about them, and hate profits like you would the devil.

EX-SERVICEMAN.

PRAYER, SANCTIONS AND SOCIAL CREDIT

To the Editor:—A letter from Mr. Bishop appeared in Wednesday's Colonist criticizing my letter, written previously, on the League of Nations in the present crisis in Ethiopia. He said that prayer and military sanctions did not go together. In my letter I asked Christians everywhere to pray that God would prevent the war. I did not connect this with sanctions at all. I still ask this, as the war has only just begun, and if it coincides with His plan for the world, God can stop it easily enough and might do it through the instrumentality of the League of Nations, which has already done marvels.

Then, military sanctions are not war, but police duty. It is not an unchristian act for a policeman to even shoot a gunman who, if not shot, will probably himself shoot several innocent people.

This brings me to a very important point. That all people of good will should work their hardest to remove the causes of war. These are chiefly economic—the scramble for foreign markets. This scramble can be mitigated and in time done away with through the adoption of Douglas Social Credit, through which the needs of a country's own citizens are fully supplied before foreign markets are sought. Prevention is better than cure. The Dean of Canterbury pointed this out clearly in his addresses while in Victoria.

SOCIAL CREDIT AND INFLATION

To the Editor:—I intend, in due course, to reply to the comments of Mr. Dale, Mr. Averill and others on the above subject, but as my third article thereon is due to appear on Saturday, I do not feel justified in claiming the necessary space till the present flood of campaign oratory subsides on election day. But I do wish without delay to tell Mr. Barclay that my quotation from Galtskell obviously has nothing whatever to do with the beliefs of Major Douglas and Mr. Aberhart, about which I know nothing, but relates solely to their failure to display that urgency for coherence and consistency, that repugnance from haphazard assumptions and arbitrary statements which is the essential distinction of the educated or scientific mind. Only by that method can truth be ascertained on economic and other subjects, and for myself truth is sacred and nothing else.

I am strongly opposed to communism both of the Marxian and early Christian type, but, like Tugwell, Cole and other leading economists, I believe in a planned economy for use rather than for profit.

In the circumstances Mr. Barclay's attempt to inject a discussion of the pre-scientific cosmology of the Bible into a purely economic question is wholly irrelevant and unjustifiable.

DENIAL—ARMY AND NAVY VETERANS

To the Editor:—A statement has been made recently by Dr. Lyle Telford by radio broadcast to the effect that $500 had been granted to the action committee of ex-service men for the purpose of promoting an ex-service men's rally to be held in Hotel Vancouver, Thursday, October 10. This statement is absolutely untrue, as the Army and Navy Benevolent Funds cannot be used for any such purpose. Disbursements are made to institutions and individual cases for relief and charitable purposes only, and are confirmed by the Dominion and Provincial Commands. As trustee and signing officer with Robert Wilkinson, M.P.P., Provincial President, I again assert that statements made have no foundation, in fact, proof of which can be verified by the executive committee of the provincial command, Army and Navy Veterans in Canada.

J. EADES WARD, Provincial Secretary.

YOUTH AND WAR

To the Editor:—With war in Africa now in progress, and with its likely repercussions all over the world even now being contemplated and anticipated by many, the young men of this city seem to be sitting up and taking notice—taking notice and seriously considering an African war that is just beginning, but may, in 1914 fashion, quickly spread, like the ripples in a pond, across the world and possibly involve them.

Already two letters have appeared in The Victoria Daily Times written by persons interested in the matter, clearly stating their attitude as regards war. They both expressed their opposition to conscription and to a world war involving Canada, yet in which Canada had no real interest. The writer of the first letter, clearly revealed his understanding of the all-important fact that while it is the men and youths of the belligerent nations who must die on the battlefield for "king and country," they gaing nothing, but rather the profits of war go, as Mr. Butler stated, to a "small, irresponsible group of capitalists and industrialists," who incidently keep well behind the firing lines. If the truth be known, it is these small groups of men in every country who work incessantly to create war. The suggestion of the writer of the second letter on the subject of youth and war, that the youth of Victoria should organize to oppose war and conscription I believe is very appropriate at such a time as this.

At the present time no active anti-war organization exists in Victoria. Yet, from my own experience, I have found that the average youth (except those whose outlook has been influenced by association with the militia, sea cadets, etc.) is invariably opposed to war, and can give intelligent reasons for being so inclined. Thus I feel that the potential material for a youth anti-war organization exists in this city. I hope Mr. Butler, who wrote so forcibly on the subject in his letter to this paper, will consider my suggestion that he attempt to form such an organization.

A YOUTH.

CANADA AND WAR

To the Editor:—In The Victoria Times on October 8, there appeared a short article stating that the Commonwealth of Australia had decided to participate only in a defensive war, in view of the fact that a general world war may be the outcome of the present Italian-Ethiopian dispute, in which Great Britain may be involved.

Is Canada to be outdone in taking the lead in nationally asserting such an important peace principle as this?

Only one political party in Canada—the Liberal Party—has declared itself specifically in favor of submitting to the Canadian people for their decision, the question of whether or not Canada should become involved in a war other than a purely defensive one.

If democracy is a reality in Canada, and the will of the people remains first and foremost, and their democratic authority paramount, the war question should be decided only by the people, not by any parliament or cabinet.

In the last war thousands of Canadians—many of them were youths, were sent overseas to fight for a cause which Canada or Canadians were not directly concerned with—except, of course, those thousand or so Canadians who never went overseas, and succeeded in becoming members of Canada's clique of millionaires as a result.

Deep Cove Man Willing to Take Lower Dividend On Oak Bay Bonds

A municipal bondholder who is willing to accept a reduction in interest on his investment because of the municipality's stand against health insurance, was found yesterday by the Oak Bay Council.

The man is F. J. Bourne of Deep Cove, who wrote the Council a long letter commending its stand on the draft health insurance bill.

Mr. Bourne discussed several matters in his letter, among other things referring to the "degeneration" of education in Canada to a "political racket," citing Dr. G. M. Weir's "brain trust" as an example.

In closing, he said he did not mind to whom the contents of the letter were disclosed and "I own a few of your 6 per cent bonds—at any time you as a Council are hard up I am willing to accept a reduction of interest. You need not talk repudiation as far as I am concerned, for I admire your action regarding health insurance."

Next Monday evening in Wesley Hall the St. Paul's Young People's Society will hold a mock political election. Ernest Jackson will be the Conservative candidate; Frank Nunn, Reconstruction; Miss Winnie Thornley, C.C.F., and Miss Helen Keyworth, Liberal.

Rev. T. Keyworth arrived home last week-end after attending the Pension Board meeting of the United Church in Toronto. Mr. Keyworth spent a month traveling through the United States and Canada.

Wednesday evening, November 20, will be Sidney amateur night. The board of St. Paul's Church is in charge of the affair.

Premier Denies He Plans to Disallow Ontario Hydro Legislation

London, Ont., Oct. 11.—Premier R. B. Bennett, addressing a meeting here yesterday evening said Premier Hepburn of Ontario had been quoted as saying the Bennett Government proposed to disallow provincial statutes. He was referring to the legislation enabling cancellation of power contracts with companies of Quebec province.

"All I can say about it is that it is not true," said Mr. Bennett.

RAILWAY PROBLEM

The burden of Canada's railway problem was too great to be endured much longer and one definite plan of the Conservative government was to seek a solution that would preserve the roads from insolvency and save the jobs of those who operated them, said Mr. Bennett. But there would be no major railway move taken, such as amalgamation, without a direct mandate from the people.

Discussing Liberal Leader Mac-Kenzie King's Niagara Falls statement that he might investigate companies suspecting of influencing their employees to vote for the Bennett government. The Prime Minister declared: "The less he has to say about investigations the better for him."

Mr. Bennett told his audience they would be required on Monday next to express approval or condemnation of the empire trade agreements.

At an earlier meeting held at Brantford, yesterday afternoon, Mr. Bennett said he could "make a trade agreement overnight with the United States or any other country if I would give away Canadian industries."

Offers Lot For School Grounds

An opportunity for Oak Bay to acquire an extension to the Monterey School grounds arose at the municipal council meeting yesterday.

Miss M. A. Wigley, owner of a lot on Oliver street at the rear of the school offered it for sale for $340. Acceptance of the offer would provide a rear entrance to the school. The matter was referred to the school trustees.

"When I'm a grownup lady I want to live next door to poor people," said the late Jane Addams, famous social reformer and founder of 'Hull House,' when she was six.

When she was grownup, Jane Addams moved next door to the poor of Chicago and did for them what no other woman ever has done. With the money she inherited from her father, she founded an institution that has been the model for similar helpful humanitarian institutions elsewhere. As the result of her work for the poor and her valiant efforts for peace, Miss Addams, at the age of seventy-one, received the Nobel Prize for Peace in 1931. She died May 21, 1935.

And the first country to honor her in stamps was not the United States, but Turkey. The stamp is shown here, issued recently with others in connection with the International Suffragist Congress held at Istanbul.

BUICK SHOWS NEW MODELS

Davis-Drake Motors Limited Show Latest Advancements in New Automobile

With the announcement to-day by General Motors Limited of four new lines of McLaughlin-Buicks, first of the General Motors cars for 1936, the local dealers for this popular line of cars gave a demonstration of the new forty-four series to members of the press.

The new models are very much advanced in appearance and performance, in general, are unusually attractive in their style treatment, with radiators high and wedge-shaped, the long hoods carried forward to meet the chromium grille, and the new bodies by Fisher airstreamed from cowl to tail.

The most noticable features of the cars are the exceptional manoeureability, reserve speed, the easy way in which speed is maintained over rough and hazardous roads and steep hills, smooth operation and comfort. Steering is finger light, gear shifting is a simple operation and all the controls are easy and convenient.

The wheelbase range of the 1936 McLaughlin-Buicks is: Series Forty-four, 118 inches, ninety-three horsepower; series forty-six, 122 inches, 120 horsepower; series forty-eight, 131 inches, 120 horsepower; and series forty-nine, 138 inches 120 horsepower. There are eighteen body types in the four lines of cars.

Bearing out the prediction that 1936 would see no radical mechanical changes, the 1936 McLaughlin-Buicks do, however, present striking improvements in the features of the first importance: The engine, the body structure, the brakes, and spring suspension.

An outstanding body item is the All-steel Turret Top, on all series; an advanced structural and safety factor, besides being a major influence in the car's undoubted beauty. The 1936 McLaughlin-Buick engines are lighter, develop increased horsepower, but yet are completely silent and outdo anything ever offered before by this car, from a performance standpoint. The engines of all series of cars are mounted in rubber, so arranged as to give stability and, at the same time, cushion all vibration.

Reserve of power, decisive acceleration, and economy have been indicated by proving ground tests. For instance, on the forty series the engine will accelerate from ten to sixty miles per hour in high in 20.7 seconds. In all series the performance on steep grades is phenomenal. Moreover, mileage to the gallon of fuel is remarkable at all speeds.

Hydraulic brakes are standard on all models for 1936, with beautifully engineered brake mechanism that gives marvellous control with soft-pedal action.

Knee-action front wheels, with improved design, are retained and give a much advanced version of McLaughlin-Buick's famous gliding ride. Changes in weight distribution and the ride stabilizer have been made to meet the needs of changed car weight and the new conditions brought about by the unusual step-up in general performance. Contributing also to the new peak of riding comfort are the re-designed low-pressure tires.

Delightfully simple gear-shifting is noticeable. A touch of the hand will change from low to second, second to high, and high back to second, with the quietness and sureness typical of syncro-mesh silent all helical type transmission.

As usual, the McLaughlin-Buick has many hidden points of quality. One worth mentioning, perhaps, is the pioneering, this year, of Anolite pistons. Engineers say these are partly responsible for the excellent performance and nimbleness of the 1936 cars. They are equal to cast-iron for wear and oiling qualities, but are only half as heavy. Oil is actually absorbed by this porous alloy metal, and gives the most efficient lubrication yet known for cold starting and breaking-in.

Then there is the new oil-temperature regulator, and an efficient water-temperature regulating system.

Not only are starting and choking automatic, but the control of the idling motor is automatic as well.

McLaughlin-Buick's multi-beam headlights have been restrained and improved. The operation of this widely approved system permits dropping the right headlight beam below the eyes of the on-coming drivers, while the left beam shows up the right side of the road and ditch. A little red lamp on the instrument board keeps the driver informed when his lights are bright or dropped for passing.

"Gadgets" designed merely to catch the eye are noticeably absent. Interiors are chastely luxurious; while everything that could be desired in the way of comfort is cleverly built-in for both driver and passenger. The parking brake handle, for the first time, is to be found under the instrument panel to the left of the steering post. Tail-lights have lenses so constructed that they will pick up and reflect the headlights of following cars.

New insulation makes the bodies unusually quiet and protects passengers from the heat and cold.

PHARMACISTS NEED CONTROL

Trade Regulation Would Aid Business and Community, Says Goldwyn Terry

How the stabilization of prices and the institution of fair trade practices generally in the pharmaceutical profession would benefit both the business itself and the community as a whole was told to members of the Rotary Club at their luncheon yesterday by Goldwyn Terry, a member of the club.

Pharmacy, sai' Mr. Terry, had suffered as much as any business from the evils of price cutting and loss leaders brought to light in the Price Spreads Commission report.

The drug business came under two main headings, the purely professional side, which consisted in the dispensation of prescriptions and drugs, and the purely commercial side, connected with the sale of proprietory products and no-medical supplies.

It was the commercial side of the business which permitted the professional side to be carried on on any scale at all.

Price cutting had seriously endangered the sta'bility of the whole business, and a survey showed that at least 80 per cent of the druggist and 65 per cent of the manufacturers were in favor of price regulation.

ASSET TO COMMUNITY

The druggist was a definite asset to his community, Mr. Terry said. He had to have a training equivalent to four years at the university. He was always on hand for emergency. Mr. Terry said the general public had little conception of the amount of emergency accident work in which the druggist took the part of the doctor.

The profession of pharmacy was an old one, but it had changed with the times. One of the most notable changes had been in the increase in the wholesale manufacture by proprietory companies of preparations formerly made up by the druggist in his own dispensary.

This change meant a considerable financial loss to the retail drug business. However, it also offered the benefits of standardized quality, thus aiding the physician.

STATE HEALTH INSURANCE

The change which loomed largest for the drug business in the future would follow from the institution of state health insurance, which Mr. Terry stated was highly desirable.

The institution of such a plan would mean a complete change in the methods of dealing with prescriptions and dispensing in general.

However, the government of British Columbia had show sufficient confidence in the pharmaceutical profession of the province to give the assurance that state dispensaries would not supplant the individual dispenser, and the new scheme would probably work out to the advantage of the drug business.

Lieut.-Colonel H. E. Goodman, formerly of Regina, was introduced as a new member of the club by J. Morse Hatt, whose business he has taken over.

A.Y.P.A. COUNCIL NAMES OFFICERS

A large number of young people gathered at St. Paul's, Esquimalt, on Tuesday evening for the installation of the 1935-36 officers of the council. The simple service was conducted by Rev. T. R. Lancaster of Christ Church Cathedral, and Ernest Gray was elected president; Ralph Preethy, vice-president; Lenora Trickett, secretary, and J. Oxendale treasurer.

Rev. Alan Gardiner of St. Paul's presented an inspiring address on the Sacraments. At the conclusion of the service a rally was held in the church hall, when J. H. Aylwin acted toria delegate to the Dominion conference, gave an interesting account of the conference, and his impressions of same, also humorous sketches of his journey.

Games, group acts and community singing brought the programme to a close, followed by refreshments. Ray. Hadfield, president of St. Paul's, spoke a few words.

New Highs Reached In Specialties On Wall St. Exchange

Associated Press

New York, Oct. 11.—Renewed demand for industrial specialties whirled these issues up to new highs for the past year or longer in to-day's stock market.

The rails were inclined to back up, however, and the list encountered profit-taking around top levels, but most leaders were not far under their peaks of the session and the close was firm. Transfers approximated 2,000,000 shares.

With some of yesterday's inflationary sentiment still in evidence, trading started with a rush. Numerous blocks of several thousand shares changed hands at gains of 1 to around 4 points. The ticker tape, for a time, was behind dealings. Then realizing appeared, together with selling in the transportation department, and the activity slowed.

Gainers of fractions to around 3 points included Chrysler, General Motors, Auburn, Briggs Manufacturing, Case, Du Pont, American Can, International Harvester, Allied Chemical, Monsanto Chemical, Johns Manville and Westinghouse.

Outside Weakness Dips Prices Lower On Winnipeg Mart

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Oct. 11. — Wheat prices drifted to lower levels on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, falling into line with similar trends in outside markets. Values closed ¾ to 1¼ cent lower, October at 92⅝, November 92¾, December 92⅝ to 92¾ and May 96⅜ to 96½ cents.

Export sales of an estimated 250,600 bushels of Canadian wheat stayed the recession only momentarily as general liquidation and profit-taking at Chicago encouraged liberal selling here.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—With a double holiday ahead, and many traders showing a disposition to stand aside for the time being, wheat prices sagged late to-day.

A bearish influence was the fact that demand here for red winter wheat has been disappointing. Talk, too, was current that aside from moves relating to arms embargoes no sensational European diplomatic measures relating to Italy and Ethiopia were to be expected in the near future.

Wheat closed easy, at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅜ lower, December 104⅜ to 104½; corn, ½ to ¾ down, December 60⅝ to 60¾; oats, ⅛ to ⅜ down, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to 10 cents gain.

Canadian Press

Nickel closed around 31⅝ and Consolidated Smelters added a couple of points at 177. Others showed practional gains.

Tarzan The Untamed

More apes arrived. Some of the shes plucked at Olga's garments, commenting upon them to one another. "You must not show fear," Tarzan called to her. "You will often be surrounded by these apes. But then you will be safest.

"Few jungle creatures dare attack the great apes when several are together. When I am gone, I advise you to seek their society. But if you let them know you are afraid they will take advantage of it.

"Your life will be constantly menaced." "I will try," said the girl, "but they are the most frightful creatures I ever have seen." Tarzan replied: "No doubt they think the same of you!" Olga had to exercise all her will-power.

She succeeded in passing through the ordeal of inspection by the she-apes without showing the terror or revulsion she felt. Tarzan watched her closely, realizing the fortune she was undergoing. Suddenly he addressed the apes.

The Gumps

Are Women More Restless Now Than in Past Years?

Dorothy Dix

Says This Is the Best Era in History for Women

IS THE MODERN woman happier than her grandmother was? A man thinks not. He says that women were never so restless and dissatisfied as they are to-day and he draws an invidious comparison between their nervous, harried, worried faces and the calm placid countenances of the women of the past.

I think he's quite mistaken and that what he diagnoses as grandma's expression of contentment, was simply the look of resigned despair of those who realize the futility of beating themselves up against the bars through which they cannot break. Life in these times is indubitably harder and less joyous for men than it was in the past, but for women a new heaven and a new earth have been made, and for the first time in all history they are getting their share of the fun of living.

Perhaps women themselves do not realize how lucky they are to be living to-day instead of yesterday and how much better off they are than their grandmothers were. Often when I hear one complaining about a philandering or a cantankerous husband, or about being tied down by children, or about how tired she is of doing housework I feel like saying to her:

Well, what of it? Do you suppose Grandpa's middle name was always Joseph, and that he never had a roving eye or chased a petticoat? If you do, you've guessed wrong. In those days there were just as many unfaithful husbands as there are now. Just as many wives sat at home alone with jealousy gnawing at their hearts while their husbands stepped out with flappers; just as many wives saw their husbands in the clutches of gold-diggers and the money that should have gone to paying the grocer wasted in night clubs as there are to-day.

And husbands were just as grouchy and fault-finding and as hard to get along with as they are now, but no matter what sort of husband Grandma drew in the matrimonial lottery, she had to stand him because he was her meal ticket. She could not jam on her hat and walk out on him, no matter how he treated her, for she had no place to go, no way to support herself. A woman couldn't divorce a mean husband and have another try at it, because even if she had left a brute who beat and kicked her about, a divorced woman was a disgraced one.

And if a woman considers two or three children a handicap now because it puts a crimp in her liberty and keeps her from going to as many bridge parties and clubs and teas as she would like to, what about Grandma, who had a dozen children and who, for twenty or more years never knew what it was not to have a toddler clinging to her skirts and a baby in her arms and who was a wreck of an old woman in her 30's from excessive child bearing?

And there were no pre-schools in those days, nor cheap ready-made children's clothes, nor canned food to help Mother out. She had to shoulder the whole job of providing for and taking care of her youngsters.

Look at the difference in the housework now and in the old days! Grandmother built her own fire to cook with. She heated all the water for the family baths in a kettle. She scrubbed dirty dishes on a washboard. She did hard manual slave labor to keep her husband and children comfortable. Granddaughter pushes a button or turns on her tap and, presto, electricity sends a thousand hands to do her labor for her.

The woman of to-day is spared what was the blackest horror of the past, and that was dependence. There was no way by which a poor girl could earn an honest living for herself, and so she had to either sell herself in marriage to any man who came along, no matter how distasteful he was to her, or else she had to become a hanger-on to the family of some better-off relative.

Thousands of young girls' hearts were broken as they were driven into loveless marriages for the sake of bread to eat and clothes to cover them and a roof to shelter them. Millions of Miss Sallys and Cousin Sues have wet their pillows with their tears as they endured the humiliation of being burdens on those who did not want them, and being treated with the contumely of a poor relation.

Contrast this with the happy lot of the modern girl who finds every door of opportunity open to her, who can get herself a job, buy her own prettiies, establish her own home, and enjoy the sacred privileges of being independent.

The woman of the past had little education. She had few resources within herself. Her world was narrow and if it was unpleasant she had no way to get out of it.

The modern woman has a perpetual source of pleasure in a cultivated mind. She has books to read, a thousand interests that never fail. She can get out of her own little worries and troubles by sending her thoughts into pleasant paths of which her grandmother knew nothing.

Of course, to all women come the great tragedies of life, sickness, suffering, disappointments, love that fails, the heart-break of death. That is a common fate of humanity, but for compensation the modern woman has a thousand sources of joy that her grandmother lacked.

No other women have been so happy as the women of to-day. In proof whereof observe how young and alert they keep, and how often you hear them laugh. And women's laughter is a new sound in the world.

Uncle Wiggily's Try-out

By HOWARD R. GARIS

When the gong rang while Uncle Wiggily was having a rainy day amateur radio hour for the animal children, not only he but all in the Hollow Stump Bungalow wondered who had rung it. The gong clanged just as Bully No Tail was going to croak a bass solo and when he complained he hadn't had a chance to sing, Uncle Wiggily declared:

"I didn't ring the gong on you, Bully!"

"Then who did?" asked the frog boy.

"That's what I wanted to know," mewed Kittie Kat. She had just been imitated by Jackie Bow Wow. "And when my turn came," mewed the pussy girl, "I was going to do a tap dance. But I'll not if I get the gong before I start."

"I won't give anybody the gong until they've had a fair chance," promised Uncle Wiggily. "And I'd like to know," he went on, looking over the bedspread that divided the studio from the audience, "I'd like to know who pulled the gong this time?"

"I did, if you please," whispered Baby Bunty, the orphan rabbit.

OH HO! THE BAD CHAPS

"Why are you whispering, Bunty?" Uncle Wiggily asked. "You made a big noise ringing the gong when it wasn't time so what's the use of trying to keep quiet now?"

"The three Bad Chaps are coming!" whispered Bunty. "I looked out the window and saw them coming this way through the rain, so I thought I'd better give them the gong. We don't want them."

"That's true, we dont," said Uncle Wiggily. "It's a good thing you rang the gong, Bunty, even if it did spoil Bully's song. But now he can start again."

"No he can't if you please, Unkie Wig," said Bunty.

"Why not?" Mr. Longears wanted to know.

"Because the three Bad Chaps—the Fox, the Wolf and the Bob Cat—are still coming this way. I see them from the window. The gong didn't turn them back. Here they come!"

Baby Bunty closed her eyes just as the Bad Chaps, all wet from the rain, came in the back door, which Uncle Wiggily had left open because he was so excited about his amateur radio hour.

"Oh, my goodness! What shall we do?" cried Jangle.

GIVE 'EM THE GONG!

"I know what we'll do," said Uncle Wiggily boldly and bravely. "These Bad Chap will have to go right out again. Scat!" he cried. "I'll give you the gong!" and he started to ring it.

"You can't give us the gong until you give us a try-out," said the Wolf. "You'll have to give us a chance to sing, dance or play."

"Yes, I suppose that's no more than fair," agreed the rabbit. "Well, take your try-out, each of you. What do you want to do?"

"We want to eat you!" howled the Fox, the Wolf and the Bob Cat.

"This is an amateur radio hour," said Uncle Wiggily firmly. "You must sing, dance or play. You can't eat me over the air."

"All right," said the Bob-Cat, whispering to his chums. "We'll all sing together. And if we don't get the gong we'll eat you."

So the three Bad Chaps stood together like a trio in front of the kitchen funnel microphone and they sang so very badly and out of tune that Uncle Wiggily quickly gave them the gong "Clang! Clang! Clang!" and then Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy swept them out with her broom so that was the end of them and Uncle Wiggily's amateur radio hour went on peacefully.

Baby Bunty sang "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf" so nicely she didn't get the gong and everybody was happy. If the sofa cushion doesn't sit in the molasses candy so hard that it can't get up to go home, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the North Wind.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1935

Conflicting and contrary planetary influences are active to-day, according to astrology. It is a time to forget work that is exacting, for serious mistakes are easy to make under this configuration.

While there will be a strong urge toward projects of magnitude and physical energy will be marked, obstacles are indicated.

Between capital and labor serious misunderstandings will be stubbornly maintained, the seers prophesy, and they point out that in most disputes both sides may be at fault.

Ill omens affecting industry are many, for distorted views of justice are expected under this planetary government. Strikes and violence should be avoided as the stars warn of serious crises ahead.

News, both good and bad, will affect bankers and those who deal with them. Financial tinkerers may do much harm.

Human destiny hangs in the balance and wisdom may rescue troubled nations from destruction, but war indications are exceedingly threatening despite the work of peacemakers.

Some unfortunate misrepresentation may wreck diplomacy and cause trouble for an American ambassador as well as a British statesman.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of new contacts and general good fortune, but they should be on guard against envy and jealousy and should be wise in the treatment of subordinates.

Children born on this day probably will be highstrung and susceptible to illnesses, but the subjects of this sign usually develop into strong men and women, courageous and alert mentally.

A. T. Stewart, New York merchant, was born on this day, 1803. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Charles King, soldier and writer, 1844; George W. Cable, author, 1844, and John Lewis Gillin, college professor, 1871.

Young Star Back From Europe Trip

Montreal Oct. 11.—With the late General Sir Sam Hughes as his godfather, Hughie Green seemed predestined to be an army man. Things worked out otherwise, however, and Hughie went into the navy via the moving pictures having just completed in England playing the name part in "Midshipman Easy."

Hughie, or Hugh Hughes Green to be exact, is an English lad of fifteen who may become as well known through talking pictures in Canada as he is in the Old Country. He is on his way to Hollywood for a "look-in," and will go by way of Prince Albert, Sask., to see his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Green. The youthful screen hero arrived at Quebec by the Ss. Empress of Britain.

The youth's rise to stardom began when he and some "kids" put on a show for a hospital in need of funds. Somebody from the British Broadcasting Company saw the performance and signed up the troupe. From radio Hughie went to the variety and from there to the "talkies."

Harpooned Mammal Towed Whaler Moran at Ten Knots for Twelve Hours This Summer, Crew Relates on Return to Seattle

Associated Press

Seattle, Oct. 11.—A seventy-five-foot whale, fighting, lunging, with a harpoon in its head but not killed, towing a heavy whaling vessel for twelve hours at ten to twelve knots at times although the vessel's propeller was racing in reverse, was the experience the whaler Moran underwent this summer.

The Moran and the Aberdeen, two of the American Pacific Whaling Company's fleet of seven, were back in Lake Washington to-day.

Capt. Haakon Aaset of the Moran and the two crews were modest in talking about their summer in the North Pacific.

"All part of our work," said Capt. Aaset, veteran of years of whaling in the Pacific and in the Atlantic near Iceland.

For example, sudden storms arising fifty miles off shore on the whaling grounds, and whales killed inflated with air and "flagged" to float until the storm was blown out, and the whalers can put back out to find them. All part of "our work."

Or the scarcity of humpback whales this year, which sent the whaling fleet far off shore on the Bering Sea and Aleutian Islands whaling grounds for the bigger sperms and "blues" and rarer "bowheads."

Or the biggest whale Capt. Aaset and members of the crew said they had ever seen.

SAYS NOTHING EXCITING

"There's nothing exciting about it," insisted O. B. Rosen, mate of the Moran, back from his sixth trip north. "The whale hasn't got a chance. With a 135-pound harpoon and a charge of powder exploding in his head, what chance has he got?

"Of course, if you don't kill him the first time, he may tow you until you can hit him again——."

"He may tow you" maybe for all night, or twenty-four hours or longer, with the whale staying deep so the harpoon gunner can't get another shot at the big mammal, the world's biggest "big game." One towed the Moran this summer twelve hours, until Captain Aaset, also gunner on his ship, made the "kill."

The big one, however, like the fish story of the "big one that got away," also got away from the Moran. Lying under the surface of the water, a shot couldn't be taken at him.

"We couldn't get him, a $10,000 whale if there ever was one," said Mate Rosen.

"Old whalers on the boat got a funny feeling at seeing him," he said "He was a 'bowhead' or right whale, whatever you want to call him. His head was as big across as the rear of the Moran, and a good seventy or seventy-five feet long.

"The 'bowheads' don't run as long as some of the ninety or 100-foot Blues and Sperms, but he was big through."

P. L. McGuire, of the crew of the Moran, on his first north had never seen a "sight like it," he said.

The Moran killed forty-six whales this year, much fewer in number than last year's ninety-three, but because larger whales were taken, the "take" was about the same, Rosen said. The Aberdeen, with a crew of one more man than the Moran, or twelve, got forty-nine whales.

The seven vessels of the fleet killed 393 wholes this season, company headquarters at Bellevue, across Lake Washington, reported. The Tanginak, Capt. Albert Barron, was the first back, arriving the first of the week and the four other vessels, the Paterson, Unimak, Westport and Kodiak, are due within a few days. They winter in a fresh water cove at Bellevue, until April comes again.

Meanwhile, the whalers' work done, the whaling station at Port Hobron, on Kodiak Island, south of the Aleutains, and at Akutan, on the Bering Sea side, have been "reducing" the catch to commercial products, mainly whale bone and whale oil. Regular Alaska steamers bring them south.

NIAGARA HELD IN AUSTRALIA

Crew Await Assurance That Cargo Will Be Loaded by Union Labor in Vancouver

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—Questioned concerning reports from Sydney, Australia, that members of the crew of the liner Niagara had refused to sign on and had delayed departure of the vessel for Vancouver, Managing Director J. C. Irons of the Canadian-Australasian Line, said to-day the crew will be assured by cable cargo here will be loaded by union labor.

The men were reported to have demanded assurances non-union labor will not be engaged to handle cargo in Vancouver and to have expressed the fear that otherwise they may be stranded in the Canadian city. The liner was scheduled to sail Wednesday.

"If the crew of the Niagara decides not to sail, the ship will be brought here and a Canadian crew will be signed on," Mr. Irons declared. "Such a step would sound the death knell of Australian crews in ships of this line."

Three vessels of the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand had been delayed in this port by the refusal of their crews to provide steam, pending settlement of the longshore strike here. The freighter Wairuna was released, Tuesday, however, and sailed for San Francisco. The liner Monowai, chartered by the Canadian-Australian Line, sailed yesterday for the Antipodes. The freighter Hauraki is being worked here.

Newsy Briefs of Land Sea and Air

STRIKE STARTED

Huston, Texas, Oct. 11.—More than 3,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association in Texas and at Lake Charles, La., began a strike at 8 a.m. to-day.

ON ITALIAN SHIP

Genoa, Italy, Oct. 11.—The Italian liner Rex, with 1,500 passengers, mostly Americans, sailed yesterday for New York. Steamship sources said the warning of President Roosevelt of the United States, advising Americans that they traveled on Italian ships at their own risk, apparently had not affected traffic.

Among the passengers was Rosa Ponselle, the singer.

HEAVY OCEAN TRAVEL

Quebec, Oct. 11.—Transatlantic liners to Quebec and Montreal are carrying more passengers this year than in the corresponding period of 1934, shipping officials stated to-day. Fall travel this season shows a decided increase and figures for the season promise to be considerably in excess of the total a year ago. Four incoming liners arriving within the next few days are bringing a total of 1,229 passengers.

NEW AIR PORT

Seattle, Oct. 11.—A disclosure that plans are being considered for a huge new flying field here, within fifteen miles of the city centre, was made yesterday by T. H. Bowden, assistant administrator of the state, on his return from a conference at Portland with B. M. Doolin, Pacific Coast airport supervisor for the Bureau of Air Commerce. It would be financed by government funds.

WATERFRONT ENQUIRY

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—Negotiations between British Columbia Shipping Federation officials and representatives of striking Vancouver longshoremen were adjourned yesterday evening until to-day. No statement was issued by either party or by Mr. Justice H. H. Davis, who invited the disputants to private negotiations following conclusion of the waterfront enquiry.

FISHERMEN FACE TRIAL

Seattle, Oct. 11.—The purse seiner Ethel, with 2,000 salmon on board, was taken in tow yesterday off Alki Point by a harbor patrol boat, with Capt. Joe Belanich and his crew of six accused of fishing within the harbor limits, in violation of a city ordinance. They were booked for trial.

WIRELESS STRIKE ENDS

Seattle, Oct. 11.—End of the strike of wireless operators, after resignation of the operators from the American Radio Telegraphists' Union, was announced here yesterday by P. E. Thorne, district manager of the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company. None of the union demands, asking wage increases and improved working conditions, were granted Thorne said. After the operators resigned, the union rescinded the strike order, he added.

BECALMED MANY DAYS

San Francisco, Oct. 11.—Long overdue, the three-masted fishing schooner Louise yesterday was towed into harbor here by the coast guard cutter Shawnee.

The sailing vessel, fifty-one days out of Bristol Bay, Alaska, was picked up 150 miles off Point Reyes, the coast guard reported. It had been becalmed for so long that its crew of forty-three was completely out of tobacco and its supplies were down to 300 gallons of water, two cans of milk, five pounds of sugar and a small quantity of flour.

CAPTAIN DIES

Williams Lake, B.C., Oct. 11 (Canadian Press).—William McDougall, eighty-four, sea captain of the old school, but a resident of this district for several years, died yesterday.

Born in Nova Scotia, he went to sea as a boy and worked his way up until he earned his master's papers. As a captain, he visited practically every country in the world. He had many narrow escapes from storms and on one occasion lost his ship, but saved all on board.

AT COCOS ISLAND

Cocos Island, Oct. 11.—In the shade of a palm tree on a narrow strip of rocky shore, President Roosevelt ate lunch yesterday with a band of Pacific adventurers.

The President landed, for the first time on his Pacific voyage, in a picturesque setting for a meal of beans and sandwiches brought ashore from the cruisers Houston and Portland, whose officers also participated in the presidential outing.

The President plans to remain here until to-night and then probably will proceed to the Gulf of Panama for several days.

CLIPPER AT MIDWAY

Midway, Oct. 11.—With one more "routine" over-ocean flight chalked up on its record, the Pan-American Clipper floated on the lagoon here to-day in preparation for another hop to Wake Island and thence to Guam.

The Clipper, carrying eleven persons and a varied cargo, arrived here at 1.38 p.m. yesterday, and completed a hop from Honolulu in nine hours and eight minutes "without incident."

RAIL GARDEN PRIZES GIVEN

Over 1,150 Gardens of Railwaymen in Western Canada Enter Competition

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—Leading sixty-one successful contestants in the annual garden competition conducted by the Canadian Pacific Railway on station properties in Western Canada, Pete Cartorio, section foreman at McMillan, Manitoba, and J. Skubiski, section foreman at Instow, Sask.; R. C. Garfat, agent at Piapot, Sask., and H. E. Padgett, telegraph operator at Ruby Creek, B.C., are district prizewinners for 1935, according to a statement received to-day from J. R. Almey, Winnipeg, chief horticulturist for the company in the west. Mr. Sartorio and Mr. Skubiski stood first in the same districts last year, the former handicapped each time by having no laid-on water supply. Each will receive $50 cash prizes.

Upwards of 1,150 gardens were entered in the competition, which reached its high level in Manitoba with 112 on the honor list. Saskatchewan and British Columbia stood second with sixteen each, and Alberta third with fifteen. The sixty-one prizewinners represented nearly $1,000 in prize money, adjudged by Mr. Almey well spent in an effort to beautify landscapes which, under ordinary conditions, might be arid and unsightly and might wear the smirch of train dust.

Ninety-eight contestants received honorable mention, the entire honor list for 1935 mounting to 159.

Judging was left as late as possible and, due to more general rains, especially in the southern areas, success attended a much larger percentage of gardens than in any previous year, the season closing with an exceptional amount of bloom. Many new names appear in the 1935 prize list.

Prizewinners in British Columbia were: Best district garden, H. E. Padgett, operator, Ruby Creek; best old garden visible from the railway tracks, first: Vancouver Division, J. Wolfe, sectionman, Twin Butte; Kettle Valley: J. Millership, section foreman, Arawana; Kootenay Division; T. W. Bundy, agent, Erickson.

Second: Revelstoke Division, G. C. Cobb, agent, Fort Steele; Kettle Valley Division, E. Blomquist, section foreman, Princeton; Kootenay Division, B. Hurack, section foreman, Creston.

Best new garden visible from the tracks: Vancouver Division, J. Callahan, track patrolman, Keefers; Revelstoke Division, A. Gibson, pumpman, Monte Creek; Kettle Valley Division, F. Didcote, section foreman, Taurus; Kootenay Division, M. Margitan, sectionman, Slocan City.

Best old garden not visible from the tracks: Vancouver Division, M. E. Anderson, fitter, Coquitlam; Revelstoke Division, J. Rossi, section foreman, Bull River; Kettle Valley Division, W. H. Hallett, section foreman, Penticton; Kootenay Division, W. Melnechuk, section foreman, Nelson.

Freight Service Will Be Resumed

San Francisco, Oct. 11.—The Pacific Steamship Lines Inc., announced yesterday its Admiral Line freighter service, suspended the first of the month, will be immediately resumed.

The company stated at the time it suspended its regular service it was doing so because of maritime labor troubles. It was understood the return to peaceful conditions along the waterfronts of Pacific Coast ports prompted the resumption of service.

The announcement did not mention the company's coastwise passenger service, discontinued before the suspension of its freighter service. The company late last month filed a reorganization petition in Federal Court here under the amended bankruptcy laws. This service will not be resumed before next spring.

Jesse L. Lasky Reaches Canada

Montreal, Oct. 11.—A French girl discovered by Jesse L. Lasky in a London hotel is destined to become the new "sweetheart of America," the Hollywood producer said here to-day. He was en route to California from Europe and arrived on the Empress of Britain.

The new star in Mr. Lasky's constellation is Arlene Borg—"a delightful personality full of beauty and poise." She will be featured in a film soon to be released by the newly-formed Pickford-Lasky Productions. Lasky's partner is Mary Pickford, America's first sweetheart.

MASTER'S WIFE ON GREEK SHIP

Ss. Delphoi Arrives Here for Lumber and Capt. and Mrs. Lemos Look Over Victoria

In the old days of sailing ships it was quite the common thing for a woman to travel with her husband, who was captain of the vessel. With the advent of steam, however, that practice died out to a large extent. There are exceptions to every rule, though, and one of the exceptions is Mrs. Sarlotta Lemos, the French wife of Capt. Miltiades Lemos, master of the Greek steamer Delphoi, which arrived here this morning to load a parcel of Vancouver Island lumber.

For the last fifteen years Mrs. Lemos has been roaming the sea lanes with her husband, visiting distant, out-of-the-way ports, for the Delphoi is a typical tramp and goes wherever business calls. Mrs. Lemos has been to many foreign ports and has called at practically every seafaring country on the face of the globe. To-day, however, marked her first visit to Victoria, as the Delphoi has never before been to the Pacific Coast.

This morning Capt. and Mrs. Lemos were taken on a drive about the city by Greek friends. They expect to sail to-morrow with their ship for the United Kingdom. From there they do not know where they will proceed.

The Delphoi came to the Pacific Northwest from Buenos Aires with a cargo of corn, calling en route north at Coronel, Chili, for bunkers.

Capt. and Mrs. Lemos make their home—when they are ashore, which is not often—at Inoussai, Chios Island, Greece, where they were married following their meeting in Marseilles eighteen years ago.

Most members of the crew of the Delphoi are Greeks, but there is an Arab fireman, an English wireless operator and a Portuguese steward. In addition to these regulars, the ship carries four Polish stowaways, who went aboard at Buenos Aires. Capt. Lemos put them to work when he found them and when the ship reaches England they will be sent to Poland.

The Delphoi started her present voyage in Amsterdam. She went to Buenos Aires, where she loaded linseed for New York and then returned to South America.
